Wickliffe Driver Dies On Morehouse Curve

THIS IS THE 1951 Chevrolet in which John Ryon of Wickliffe, Ky., was killed this morning one mile west of Morehouse at the junction of highways 114 and highway 60.

Former Bertrand Man Hurt

An aged Wickliffe, Ky., man was killed and a former Bertrand man injured seriously in two automobile accidents this morning and yesterday afternoon.

A man tentatively identified by papers on his person as John Ryon, 84, of Wickliffe was killed when his car failed to circle a curve one mile west of Morehouse at the intersection of highways 114 and 60.

Charles Voelker, 20-year-old former Bertrand man, was injured in a three-car collision in Ste. Genevieve county yesterday in which a Ste. Genevieve county girl was killed.

Ryon was traveling alone in his 1951 Chevrolet on route 114 when he lost control. The car was demolished. His body was taken to Watkins and son Funeral Home.

The accident in which Voelker sustained a fractured back occurred at 12:15 p.m. yesterday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert (Dutch) Voelker of Cape Girardeau and is a student of Southeast Missouri State College there.

Maureen Dempsey, 17, was killed.

Three others were hurt. They are Miriam Dempsey, 50, and Cathleen Dempsey, 10, both of Ste. Genevieve, who suffered fractures and bruises. John Becker, Jr., 22, St. Charles, driver of a second car involved in the crash, received a hip injury and bruises.

The injured were taken to Perry County Memorial Hospital in Perryville.

The Dempsey car was following a car, which was braked suddenly. To avoid a collision the Dempsey car swung to the center line of highway 61 and met head on the approaching car driven by Becker.

Raymond Moore, 27, Jackson, driving the third car, was unable to stop and collided with the Becker vehicle. He was not hurt.

Three Will Attend Forum

NEW MADRID -- Three New Madrid county high school students have been selected in countywide competition to attend the annual Freedom Forum in Mexico, Mo.

Those selected were James Crumley, Marston; Ella Mae Duff, Howardville; and Bernedette Klipfel, Portageville.

The three youngsters will attend the forum under the sponsorship of the New Madrid county Farm Bureau. The Bureau and individuals finance the trip.

While attending the forum, the youngsters will hear speakers of national and international acclaim. Among those scheduled to speak this year are Congressman Richard Ichord of Missouri, John Noble, one time captive of the Russians following World War II, and W. Cleon Skousen, a writer and former FBI agent.

Participants in the county competition were required to submit an essay on the obligations of a citizen in a democracy. Those young people who submitted papers judged best were then interviewed before final selection was made.

U. S. Tax Men Put Chill On Nature's Beauty

WASHINGTON — A nature-loving Missouri newspaper publisher has found a lack of sympathy in the Internal Revenue Service for the Great Society's program to beautify America.

The publisher, Naeter Brothers Publishing Co. of Cape Girardeau, has asked the United States Tax Court to teach IRS a thing or two about esthetic appreciation.

The company, which publishes the Southeast Missourian, invoked the names of former President Harry S. Truman, President Lyndon B. Johnson and federal highway administrator Rex M. Whitton in its plea to the court.

At issue are the maintenance costs of a scenic attraction near Cape Girardeau called Boulder Crest. Naeter Brothers modestly described the place as "a nature laboratory" where plants of the north and south come together to create one verdant paradise.

Boulder Crest covers a 10-acre woodland hillside and boasts an impressive variety of flowers, shrubs and trees, Naeter Brothers told the court.

Truman has visited Boulder Crest and so has Whitton, former chief engineer of the Missouri Highway Department, Naeter Brothers said. Whitton was so impressed, the company said, that recently he telephoned the newspaper asking for photographs of Boulder Crest to include in a presentation illustrating the advantages of highway beautification, in line with President Lyndon B. Johnson's program.

The company presented the facts to the court to deny Internal Revenue's ruling that Naeter Brothers may not deduct maintenance costs for Boulder Crest as a necessary business expense in computing income taxes.

IRS has billed the publisher for $8285 in taxes for 1961, 1962 and 1963 as a result of the disallowed deductions covering caretaker wages, real estates taxes and insurance costs for Boulder Crest.

Naeter Brother asked the court to show a proper appreciation for natural beauty and find that they have no tax liability.

Two Arrested For Shoplifting

Others arrested were Henry Hensley, 310 Kendall, on a charge of assault, Aaron Marble, 107 Luther, on a charge of assault and Loure Ware, 308 Sunset, on a charge of having no city sticker on her automobile.

Raise Fine For Parking

CHARLESTON -- The odds against beating the parking meters were raised by vote of the City Council.

"Many people apparently are taking chances of getting caught because, they reason, the fine if caught is only 10 cents," commented a city official. "The council decided to raise the percentage a little, by boosting the fine to 25 cents, effective next Monday morning." By increasing the "house percentage" council members hope to inspire more frequent use of pennies and nickels in the meters.

In other action the council:

Heard a report on civil defense by the state director, Col. Frank Skelly of Jefferson City.

Decided to try to resurface all old asphalt streets under the "dollar law." This law permits the city to undertake certain work without approval of property owners.

Decided to take annual bids on gasoline for use by city vehicles. A call for bids will be advertised at a later date.

Authorized the state to apply for federal money to undertake a 20-year planning program for Charleston.

Received the following report from the city manager on activities of city departments for May:

It is possible that the swimming pool receipts will carry

REPORTER TURNS ATTORNEY

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) -- Jim Johnson, court reporter for the Tucson Daily Citizen for the past five years has been watching the goings-on in the courtrooms as a spectator. Recently he moved up to the defense table, acted as his own attorney and won acquittal on a traffic charge in city court.

Organist Is One Man Band

Rodeo Chairman J. D. Schaffer announced this morning that Dick Warner will appear at the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, which begins August 12.

Warner is a cowboy organist, who appears in all parts of the country playing for rodeos. His music can take the place of a band.

School Aid For SEMO

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today many Missouri school districts will share in an estimated $7,794,930 federal aid to education in the next three years.

He had a study made of the 1962 Aid to Dependent Children records to find the location of families which received more than $2,000 in welfare aid during the year.

The study showed there were 2,031 such families with 11,297 school age children.

Under the elementary and secondary education act of 1965 the school districts in which such educationally - deprived children live may receive federal aid to expand and improve their education programs.

Most of the aid will go to districts in St. Louis, Jackson County and southeastern Missouri counties.

Pemiscott County $100,280, New Madrid county $71,300 and Dunklin County $64,860.

Hearnes Will Visit Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes accepted an invitation to speak at the Amvet post dedicatory Aug. 6, according to a letter from Rep. Tom Baker to Dean Cooper. The ceremony is for a new building.

The Amvets plan to hold a fish fry.

Scramble For Mayor

NEW YORK - Mayor Robert Wagner's decision not to seek a fourth term touched off a scramble for the Democratic mayoral nomination today and promised to have national political repercussions in both parties.

The decision Thursday, which the three-term mayor said was based on family considerations, could produce some political pressure on the national level for the selection and financing of a powerful Democratic opponent to Republican Rep. John V. Lindsay in the Nov. 2 election.

A new name cropped up on the Democratic side shortly after Wagner made his announcement. In Washington, Harlem Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., boosted Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the late president, for the nomination.

Early Day Physician Said There Were Four Medicines

By Richard Smith

Dr. O. E. Kendall, the father of Mrs. James S. Kevil, 354 North Kingshighway, was possibly the second doctor to practice medicine in Sikeston. He was the grandfather of Mayor Kendall Sikes and John Sikes.

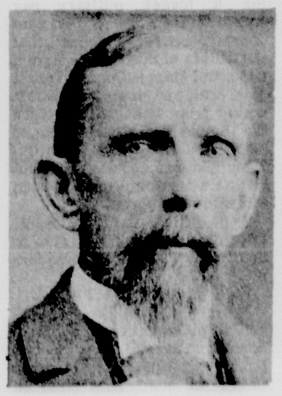

The late Dr. Kendall came to Sikeston in 1868 to help his preceptor, Dr. James Fields, who arrived several years before. He came with the intention of staying only two months, but for 60 years, never changed residence.

Sikeston, said Dr. Kendall, "was just a wide place in the road on top of this hill ridge." Sikeston then had four houses and one store. Often Dr. Kendall would travel 20 miles or more on horseback to treat the ill.

On Aug. 13, 1867, Kendall married Lucada Moore. They had one son, the late Dr. Luther Kendall. Mrs. Kendall died in 1867, and in 1877 he married Susan Chaney. She bore him eight children. His son was associated with him in practice.

He was born in Paris, Tenn., Jan. 2, 1846. In 1861, he enlisted in Company G. Ninth Tennessee calvalry and served under General Nathan Forest. He fought in the battle of Harrisburg and a number of other hard skirmishes. He left the service in 1865 and sold drugs for the next two years.

In 1866 and 1867 he attended Vanderbilt Medical School in Nashville, Tenn. After graduating in 1868, he came to Southeast Missouri to practice at Ogden, a settlement located about 10 miles south of Sikeston that is no longer in existence.

Dr. O. E. Kendall

Dr. Kendall told the reporter of a St. Louis paper: "I remember once during one of the coldest winters, there was a man reported to be dying of pneumonia at his shack 12 miles out in the swamps. I started to him on my horse. I came to a slough that I thought had enough ice on it to carry us both, but with the first step the horse fell through. The water was waist high, so I jumped out, grabbed a pole and broke the ice as I waded through the water and lead the horse.

"I made it to my man and stayed with him for three hours without changing my clothes, went back the way I came, broke the ice in the slough again and returned to Sikeston none the worse for wear."

He once said:

Dong Xoai Battle Ends

U.S. military authorities said the latest count of American casualties in the battle were 3 dead, 15 wounded and 15 missing. Eight of the missing were crewmen on two helicopters destroyed by enemy fire. A newsman who visited the town 60 miles north of Saigon said several American bodies were found in the ruins.

An 11-man U.S. Army Special Forces team and a nine-man U.S. Navy Seabee squad engaged in building an airstrip were at the district headquarters when the Viet Cong attacked Wednesday night.

The number of U.S. casualties in Viet Nam jumped again when a two-engine C123 transport ferrying ammunition and supplies crashed in flames in central Viet Nam, killing at least eight Americans.

Two Die, 18 Hurt In Fire

PLAINFIELD, N. J. - Fire swept through the sprawling century - old Victoria Hotel today, taking at least 2 lives, injuring 18 persons and leaving 2 more missing.

Two bodies were recovered from the ruins and firemen began searching for other victims.

The three-story hotel is located near the business district of this central New Jersey community.

More than 100 permanent and transient guests escaped the burning building located across the street from fire department headquarters.

A telephone dispatcher at the fire house spotted flames shooting from the second floor of the building and turned in the first alarm at 2:36 a.m. The blaze was brought under control at 5 a.m.

Police said the injured, included a policeman who suffered deep smoke inhalation in an attempt to rescue a 93-year-old woman trapped in the building.

The cause of the fire was not known immediately, but investigators believed it started on the second floor of the old frame building.

Space Story Unfolds Today

HOUSTON, Tex. - The story of an adventure crammed with mysterious satellites, a stroll in space and the anxiety of living four days in a hostile environment unfolds to the world today.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II relate their experiences to newsmen this morning. They will receive congratulations from President Johnson this afternoon.

In a switch of plans, the astronauts and their wives chose to ask President Johnson to come to Houston so congratulations could be shared with all employes of the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Johnson had invited the two spacemen and their families to his Texas ranch for the weekend. Thursday the President offered instead to make his first visit to the space center, the "astronauts' home."

The astronauts returned to Houston Thursday, and White said their homecoming was an event second only to the successful splashdown Monday.

Five Emergencies

Omission

Johnson Quits As Lilbourn City Marshal

LILBOURN -- The resignation of Monte Johnson as city marshal and the appointment of Johnny Martin of Risco as acting marshal were chief items of business passed upon this week by the city council.

Martin, who will soon move here with his wife and two daughters, is a former Lilbourn resident. For the past several years he has worked for the Risco Cotton and Grain Company.

Johnson has been marshal for more than six years. Prior to his first term as elected marshal, he served the city as night marshal for two years.

He resigned his position effective July 1 to accept employment as a liquor inspector with the state revenue department's division of liquor control. Johnson, his wife, and two daughters, will continue to live in Lilbourn.

In other city business, the council voted the same tax rate as that of previous years and gave approval for the annual vaccination of dogs.

Three Win Divorces

NEW MADRID - No criminal cases were heard and only three divorces were granted this week in the New Madrid County circuit court with Judge William L. Ragland of Caruthersville presiding.

Action in each of the divorce cases:

Joyce Glover versus James W. Glover - decree of divorce to Mrs. Glover with care and custody of two minor children.

Peggy Ruth Finney versus David C. Finney - decree of divorce to Mrs. Finney with care and custody of one minor child and $30 per month child support.

Clerk Van H. Sharp, Jr., said that the next law day in the court will be June 22.

Cancel Bond Issue Election

NEW MADRID — A $225,000.00 bond issue election for sewer and waterworks extension was ordered cancelled by the board of altermen.

The bond issue had been set up at the May meeting, the $225,000.00 being necessary for establishing of a lagoon-type sewage disposal system instead of dumping the raw sewage into the Mississippi River and for other improvements to the sewer and waterworks system.

The board decided that there is considerable sentiment against the bond proposal and felt that a later date would be more satisfactory. The election had been set for June 22 and publication had been started.

Made Captain

MALMO, Sweden - The Malmo Fire Department has made jazz trumpeter Louis Armstrong an honorary captain.

85 Attend Camp At Bird Farm

The Oakwood day camp at the Lyle Bird farm, 12 miles south of Sikeston, drew 85 junior, senior and Cadette Girl Scouts from Sunday through Friday. With them were 20 leaders and assistants. The Cadette Scouts stayed for overnight camping.

In charge of the six-day encampment was the director, Mrs. Bob Hambrick; Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, assistant director; Mrs. Joe Dye, executive advisor; Mrs. Kenneth Henry, camp nurse, and Mrs. Ronald Eakers as food shopper.

Women who served as consultant leaders for the three groups were, Mrs. Vera Wagner, Mrs. John Sargent, Mrs. Yvonne Holloway, Mrs. Clarice Davis, Miss Nancy Woods and Miss Sharon Spitzmiller.

Activities were hikes, pioneer badge activities, outdoor meal preparation and cooking with handmade fire ovens, food preparation and pots and pan racks.

Individual unit leaders were: Mrs. Doyle Lefler, Mrs. Jerry Dyer, Sally Faulkner, Mrs. Russell Ross and Cheryl Beck; Junior Scouts; Marsha Green and Martha Bess, Senior scout leaders; Mrs. Robert Summers, Mrs. Oren Dahl and Linda Cain; pioneer unit; Mrs. Walter Beck, Mrs. Joe H. Fox, Cadette unit.

The program ended at 2:30 p.m. with the awarding of badges to the Junior Scouts and Cadettes, who completed the requirements on cycling, painting, rambler and pioneering. The senior group will receive awards on program aide and aquatic aide.

Bixler Named Night Marshal

NEW MADRID -- The city council Monday appointed Jackie Bixler as night marshal. Bixler, a life - long Lilbourn resident, has been acting night marshal for the city.

The Council approved the purchase of a new Chevrolet three-quarter ton truck for the city's water and sewer department. Plans were made for reroofing the library.

A request for a liquor license was approved. The license was issued in the name of Robert Hendricks for Roberts Tobacco store on Main street.

In two other actions, the council instructed the mayor to enter into a contract with the Southwest Power Administration to provide city power, and the tax rate for the city was set at $1.60 per $100 of assessed valuation. This tax rate is the same as in past years.

$126,580 Lent To Aged Citizens

LILBOURN - Elderly persons, those who are 62 years and over, are taking advantage of the Farm Home Administration's home building loan program in ever increasing numbers, according to Richard T. Bartlett, county supervisor of the New Madrid county FHA.

In New Madrid County, Bartlett reports , the FHA has lent $126,580 to senior citizens for construction, buying, or repairing of homes during the first 11 months of fiscal 1965.

If the Outdoor Advertising industry means what it says a lot of billboards are going to disappear from the highways.

This industry has a lobby that is as aggressive and effective as it has been successful gobbling up the land of farmers and city dwellers alike to spot big signs on the highways and streets. If beauty lies beyond, motorists don't see it.

The lobby is so persuasive that only a few states have accepted a federal offer to reduce their cost of building interstate highways if they would regulate placing of billboards along the new roads. Legislatures across the land have shown a profound dislike for accepting this reasonable requirement.

In the face of this record and vigorous opposition to billboard regulation in the past, The Outdoor Advertising Association of America, Inc. is supporting President Lyndon B. Johnson's proposed legislation to eliminate most billboards from major highways.

"Billboards have no place in the scenic areas of our highways. Cities and towns, too, in the last half of the 20th century should and must be places of beauty," the association wrote the President.

"Outdoor advertising will, in the future, relate to the environment of the community, and we will support legislation and engage in voluntary effort to meet these ends."

The legislation would reduce various companies' outdoor advertising displays one to 15 per cent.

The association promises that "we will restrict our outdoor advertising structures to those areas zoned for business and industry or predominately used for business and industry."

Sounds great! We'll believe it when we see it happening!

"Tuesday's Supreme Court decision striking down Federal law making it a crime for a Communist to serve as an official of a labor union underscores the absolute necessity of preserving 14 (b) and extending the protection of Right to Work laws to all Americans," Reed Larson, Executive Vice President of the National Right to Work Committee said.

"What this decision means is that if Congress repeals 14 (b), American workers in all 50 states can be forced to pay dues to Communist-dominated unions or lose his job. This is a price no American worker should be forced to pay."

Section 14 (b) is that part of the Taft-Hartley Act that reaffirms the right of the individual States to make compulsory unionism illegal. 19 States have Right to Work laws. The House Subcommittee on labor ended hearings Tuesday on a bill that would repeal 14 (b).

Mr. Larson said that the only people happy with the Court decision were Communists such as Gus Hall. "Mr. Hall was quoted as saying that with this decision union members can again elect Communists without fear of punishment whenever they are convinced it best serves their ownself interests.' What he fails to point out is that where compulsory unionism exists -- in 31 States -- the individual union member cannot leave the union without losing his job when he is convinced that the union and its officials are not serving his own self interests.

A START IS MADE

Some 400 Southeast Missourians, including 100 who are below the age of 21, will receive valuable vocational training as a result of a far-sighted Sikeston Public School program. The project is a part of the federal Manpower Development Act, which seeks to train both school dropouts and those who perennially dot the unemployment roles and turn them into regularly-employed wage earners.

The Sikeston Board of Education and Sikeston's highly - competent superintendent of schools, Lynn Twitty, deserve credit for inaugurating the program in Southeast Missouri by providing not only the initiative for this worthwhile project but classroom space, competent faculty and professional guidance and direction.

Properly developed, the program holds great promise for the chronic unemployed in the Bootheel and those unfortunate youngsters who, for a variety of reasons, quit their education before receiving a high school diploma.

Trainees, who will be enrolled for a period of 50 weeks, will be paid approximately the same amount as they would receive from their unemployment checks. Yet while being paid, the trainees will receive both special education courses and valuable vocational training that will equip them to secure employment upon the completion of the course. Specialized skills will be taught, but even more important, the trainees will be given special courses designed to move them out of the educationally-illiterate category. There is more to vocational training than the actual mechanics of learning a specific job and the program wisely recognizes this fact.

One of the neglected functions of public schools is providing programs not only for the literate but the educational, vocational and social illiterate as well. Most school districts lack the funds to expand programs into this field, but Superintendent Twitty and others were alert enough to find a source that did provide sufficient funds.

Thanks to their leadership, a start is being made to correct one of Southeast Missouri's chronic problems.

SALES MADE AT HOME

A large Canadian retailer told an audience last summer, "The sale takes place in the home, only the transaction takes place in the store."

He was making a plea for more complete newspaper advertisements and contended that if the store's newspaper advertising was to have selling effectiveness it had to be strong in selling points.

He thought that retail advertising was weak in news value and in timing. The most sales result in presenting the sales story when sales opportunities are the greatest.

Newspaper advertising presents the greatest opportunity to do a selling job in the home, he told his listeners. The paper arrives and acutally waits the customer's convenience. It stays around until every member of the family has had an opportunity to get the advertising message.

Men have apparently always feared and resisted change, especially technological change.

It should not surprise us to learn that back in the 13th century, long before the beginning of the industrial age, Edward I of England made it a capital offense to burn coal, because of the "dangerous" fumes.

But it is hard today for us moderns to believe that the use of chloroform as an anaesthetic aroused a public controversy only a century ago. It was considered immoral and against the Biblical injunction that pain was man's--or at least woman's lot.

We are amused to hear of the grave warnings of physicians, when the first railroads were built in England, that human beings could not survive breath-taking speeds like 10 or 15 miles an hour -- not to mention the mental confusion that would be caused by scenery rapidly flashing by.

And not so long ago, in the early days of the automobile, many cities considered these new-fangled inventions a threat to public safety and tranquillity and passed severely restrictive laws against them when they did not ban them outright. St. Louis, for one, levied a $10 fee on any motorist passing through.

Recalling these and other examples of our ancestors' irrational opposition to technical advances, Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, has been moved to coin a new word: "technophobia," the fear of technology.

We, of course, no longer suffer from this primitive complaint. In fact, we have gone to the other extreme, embracing changes simply for the sake of change. Or have we?

Seaborg cites the example of the fluoridation of drinking water, an issue mixing morality, politics and technophobia that still divides many communities.

In Seaborg's own field, popular fears of nuclear energy retard the exploitation of its peaceful possibilities. The public remembers the Bomb and thinks of nuclear power generators as potential bombs. Yet the first use of atomic energy was a controlled reaction; turning it into a bomb was a much more difficult process.

There have been remarkably few accidents since the first reactor was assembled under Stagg Field at the University of Chicago in 1942. During this period of almost a quarter of a century, in no accident was the health and safety of the general public endangered.

There are, says Seaborg, plenty of real dangers arising from technology -- air pollution, for instance -- without worrying about those that don't exist.

Fortunately, the very technology that creates these problems also gives us the weapons we need to deal with them.

The Texan squeezed the lemon and got almost a pint of juice. Tossing aside the lemon rind, he said, "I'd like to see anyone else get that much juice from just one lemon."

A little fellow standing near-by said, "Let me have a tall glass and the lemon rind you just threw away." He then took the lemon rind and squeezed another full glass of juice from the already used rind.

"Man!" exclaimed the Texan. "I never saw anything like that. How did you do it?"

"Well, you see," replied the man quietly, "I'm with the Internal Revenue Service."

NEVER A DULL MOMENT FOR ROYAL DOMESTICS

Servants are servants to servants at Buckingham Palace, where more than 200 persons man the 760 rooms. But in spite of exacting formalities, rigid discipline, long hours, and skimpy earnings, the Catholic Digest notes that it's still a swinging p(a)lace to work.

The royal domestic staff has certain advantages, in spite of salaries ranging from $18 to $36.50 a week (compared to an average of $45 in industry). Besides security of employment, pensions (provided they don't sell their memoirs), and a year's sick pay, they have a chance each year for the thrill of a lifetime: to dance with the Queen or Prince Philip at the Christmas staff ball.

And there's the chance to rub elbows with Charles Oulton, the palace steward and #1 servant in the world. They can watch him press the red and green traffic lights outside the banquet hall, telling footmen and underbutlers when to wait and when to go. He also carves the royal turkey on Christmas.

When things get dull, they can observe the royal clock winder, who winds 300 clocks a day; the royal electrician, who maintains 50 TV sets; and the Yeoman of the Silver Pantry, the Pages of the Presence, and the Clerk of the Closet. And the undernannies, footmen, ladies-in - waiting, pages, and chauffeurs can always try to sneak in a session learning "The Philip," the London twist.

Cuba, left in Communist hands only 90 miles from our shore, may seem to Cubans and Communists alike a slow form of surrender by the United States.

The best informed anti-communists think men high in our diplomatic service installed Communist Castro to become an ugly dictator of this garden spot. The Cuban situation necessarily creates a foreboding influence on all other Latin American countries.

The United States' conduct of the Bay of Pigs fiasco indicated that we preferred that Cuba not become free.

Likewise, the United States' attitude toward heads of all governments friendly to our country, of which few remain, may indicate to nations abroad that we prefer them to become Communist nations or, if not, at least countries steeped in vigorous socialism.

Our present attitude in Santo Domingo is in the nature of a revolution on our part. Those in the best position to know state if a neutral government is formed Communists in the cabinet will take control in a short time. The Dominican affair is said to fit neatly into a blueprint for Communist subversion prepared in Castro's Cuba in November 1964 at a highly secret meeting of Communist Party representatives from 22 Latin American countries.

Our present courageous stand in South Vietnam, considered in the light of what happened in Korea and Laos, is also a revolution which we must hope will be for the better and continued in the cause of sanity. It is very important that our government not depend on those in our diplomatic service who participated in handing over China, Laos and Cuba to the Communists. Possible saboteurs should not be risked to shape the policy ostensibly designed to ward off Communism in other countries friendly to us. HLH

WASHINGTON, D. C. — During a conversation with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, head of the German Government, shortly before he conferred with President Johnson, I asked him how his nation became the world's most prosperous land after so devastating a defeat 20 years ago. How did it develop an economy which has a million jobs open, waiting for workers from any part of the world?

Here is the Chancellor's reply as he submitted it in writing. It is the first time Mr. Erhard has put himself on record in an exclusive interview with an American newspaperman.

By Ludwig Erhard
Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany

"All over the world today, socialism is still being offered as a ready-made answer to economic and political problems. And yet such a solution is illogical in light of what is happening today in Europe and America.

"In the past, socialism was an attempt to provide an answer to the social injustices and economic crises caused by the industrial revolution and the rise of capitalist economies. As far as Germany is concerned — and I know this is true of other countries as well — these crises have been largely overcome.

"And as for the remaining problems, we now know how they are to be solved. The fact is that Germany, like most Western democracies, is no longer a society of class conflict and exploitation but a community that has found democratic equilibrium and social and economic balance.

"Socialist philosophy cannot answer the problems all of us face today. This is true even of democratic socialism which — in contrast to communism — has come around to recognizing the pluralism of our society, the freedom to own property and parliamentary democracy itself.

"It was not socialism that built a new Europe and a new Germany out of the ashes of war. It was not Socialist theory that forged a democratic alliance among the North Atlantic nations for the defense of our liberties; that created the Common Market and thus ended ancient continental rivalries; that set aside billions of dollars for aid to Asian and African countries; that absorbed 13 million penniless refugees from behind the Iron Curtain into Germany, including many hundreds of thousands of workers fleeing from the "workers' paradise" of communism.

"The world speaks of the German miracle, but I see it as a natural and logical development that came out of individual cooperation, freedom and opportunity. This unity was one of the causes of our rapid economic recovery.

"Another was the decision to free our economy from all restrictions and red tape. This freedom to let our economy grow organically did not, as some then believed, imperil our society but, on the contrary, was its best guarantee for the security of all.

"In the true democratic tradition of government guidance rather than dominance, we "shaped" our society so it could be in a position to answer the needs of the people for housing, clothing, food, transportation. We instituted measures to protect one segment of the population from another. We limited self-interest and set up rules to stabilize government and inspire confidence. We tried to use wisely the generous aid given by the U.S. to get us going along the path of democracy under the Marshall Plan.

"Frankly, we were surprised by how much a free people can accomplish in so short a time. Although our country is torn in two, the free part of Germany now produces more than twice as much steel and over eleven times the amount of cars and trucks as it did in pre-war Germany.

"With our new economic methods of producing wealth and consuming it equitably, we have created 27 million jobs (half our total population), not only for German citizens, but for a million workers coming from a dozen countries stretching from Turkey to Spain.

"Almost 40 per cent of the German work force are women who receive equal pay for equal work, a provision written into our Constitution. And there are another million jobs still unfilled, which is the reason we are called an "over-employed" country.

"Seventeen years ago it was considered radical to give unrestricted freedom and economic opportunity to the people, but we felt our policies would set free the inherent energies of all individuals who yearn to build a present and a future for themselves and their families. We could not, of course, gauge the extent to which this yearning for freedom would build a society of material wealth and cultural enjoyment.

"No one can deny that we are in the midst of a serious challenge to our society and our way of life. This means not only Germany but all those countries on both sides of the Atlantic that have developed a system of advanced technology combined with social security.

"The essence of the challenge is not military power — but whether the free society of the West can develop and grow at a more rapid pace and in a more fruitful manner than the society established by the Communists in eastern Europe and Asia.

"I believe we shall be able to do it by completing what I call the "dynamic society", a society with a constantly growing technology in which individual citizens voluntarily work for the common good as well as for themselves, a society in which responsibility is the corollary of freedom.

"Only this kind of society will be able to meet the challenge which we face from those who are bent on erasing individual freedom and exalting communal effort beyond natural bounds.

"Only then will we be able to shape our future so that the new countries of Asia and Africa will follow our example. They will do this only if our society will appear to them to have more solid values, and to be more progressive and productive than the Communist system.

"This has been the case in the past, and it must be the goal for the future."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Johnson doesn't know it, but last week Lt. Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force Chief of Staff, dropped word at an Air Force staff meeting that there would be some new Chiefs of Staff around the Pentagon soon.

Since it's the President's job to appoint new Chiefs of Staff, General McConnell's remark may come as a surprise to LBJ.

However, McConnell went on to say that he was going to fight for a bigger military pay increase than the 5 per cent Johnson had recommended, that the Chiefs of Staff of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps were all with him, and would maintain a united front when called before the House and Senate Armed Services Committees to testify. They planned to blast the Administration for proposing such a meager pay increase.

If he failed, Gen. McConnell told his staff, he didn't plan to be around Washington any longer.

—MILITARY CHAMPION—

Shortly after Gen. McConnell's private remarks, Rep. Mendel Rivers, who comes from Sumter, S.C., the city where the south first fired on the north, staged his own rebellion against the Johnson Administration. He proposed a 10 per cent pay increase for the military instead of 5 per cent.

"The Administration pay increase is nothing short of scandalous," Rep. Rivers told congressmen.

Rivers, who is Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, listened scornfully as Secretary of Defense McNamara explained to congressmen that a 5 per cent increase would bring the total earnings of the average military officer up to or "exceed those of an average college graduate — even one in engineering or science for the first twenty-two years, and exceed such earnings by 20 per cent thereafter."

The McNamara increase would cost the taxpayers $369 million annually. The pay raise proposed by the congressman from South Carolina would cost the taxpayers $825 million annually.

Not many who watched the by-play between McNamara and Rivers knew that almost every weekend the Air Force has trundled out an airplane at the MATS terminal in Washington for congressman Rivers to fly back to Charleston, S.C., with another plane returning him to Washington Monday morning.

The Navy has been equally kind to the courtly South Carolinian. When he has suffered from one of his benders, the Navy has sent an ambulance to take him up to the Bethesda Naval Hospital to dry out.

—DELIGHTFUL WHEN SOBER—

Rivers is a charming, delightful person when sober. He was one of the few Southern Solons to welcome Lady Bird Johnson on her southern political trip last October. However, as previously reported in this column in detail, he has disgraced himself on foreign junkets. And for proven periods he has had to hide out in private quarters while friends and doctors worked to sober him up.

Despite this, "seniority," which automatically promotes congressmen if they remain in office long enough, has elevated Rivers to the powerful position of Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Note: Lyndon Johnson when in Congress was a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee, serving with Rivers; later ranked high on the Senate Armed Services Committee and on the Military Appropriations Subcommittee. In these positions he was a great champion of the armed services. Some critics today claim this is why he has followed a vigorous military policy in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. As President, however, he has to balance pay increases for both the military and civilians.

—OVER THE BRINK??—

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have been making secret recommendations to President Johnson regarding Viet Nam. Their recommendations worry the President regarding the possibility of all-out war.

1. The use of nuclear weapons against Red China if the Chinese send troops into North Viet Nam. The Joint Chiefs have unanimously recommended a nuclear strike against the Chinese mainland, first to knock out the Chinese nuclear laboratories, later Chinese industrial cities.

2. That we bomb Russian Ilyushin bombers recently spotted in North Viet Nam. The Air Force believes Russia sent them to test American reaction, therefore has recommended that they be blasted immediately.

Pentagon sources leaked the presence of the Ilyushin bombers to Pentagon-oriented newsmen when the President did not act immediately on the Air Force recommendation.

Ilyushin bombers have been present in Cuba for two years, but the United States has taken the position under both Kennedy and Johnson that they are defensive weapons, actually considered obsolete.

3. The Pentagon has recommended to LBJ that we bomb SAM anti-aircraft missile sites now being installed around Hanoi. We have not bombed similar SAM sites in Cuba, have considered them defensive and not dangerous.

President Johnson has asked for an intelligence estimate as to the Russian reaction if we bombed their missile sites around Hanoi. The estimate came back that the Russians would protest bitterly but would not retaliate militarily. The President is not sure, however, that this is correct.

These are some of the difficult, dangerous decisions the President is weighing at a time when anti-American leader Mikhail Suslov is becoming more powerful inside the Kremlin.

Every military campaign creates new slang and fresh expressions that make our English language more colorful.

The war in South Viet Nam has produced a number of them already — and more will follow as the fighting goes on.

For example French maps are used here that measure distances in kilometers rather than in miles. But no one calls kilometer a kilometer. It's a "click."

In Korea, the enemy was referred to as "gooks." Here they are called the Viet Cong, but the U.S. Marines have shortened this to "them Congs."

The big verb over here is some form of the word "zap." You don't shoot an enemy — you zap him.

But by far the most widely used expression is "sorry about that." It is ironical in nature and can be translated roughly as meaning, "I know you've got big troubles, but why do you think that makes you any different from me? Solve them yourself."

Many of the servicemen now are wearing "sorry about that" shoulder patches sewn on to their uniforms by Chinese or Indian tailors. When someone starts to pour out his woes to you, you simply point at the patch, smile sympathetically—, and go your way.

Weary of insect pests, a couple of correspondents told the waitress at the Da Nang press center, "Can't you find us a couple of fly swatters?"

The girl smiled, nodded, disappeared. She returned shortly and set two glasses of ice water before them.

The newsmen were mystified. Finally, one said glumly:

"I get it. You ask for fly swatters and you get iced waters. I'm afraid we're going to be in this country longer than I thought."

Tall, slender Herbert J. Minikus, 35, an Air Force sergeant who plans to settle in Austin, Tex., some day, received the pleasant news that he had been promoted to master sergeant. In a mood of celebration he went to the noncommissioned officers club, "Take Ten."

Mary Wells Says Vows With John Reuber In Springfield

Mary Wells of Springfield, Mo. and John Reuber, son of Mrs. Helen Reuber, were married in Springfield at 10 a.m. June 5 in the parlor of First Presbyterian Church in the presence of their immediate families.

The couple was attended by Suzy Kaiser of Kansas City, Mo., and Harold Reuber, brother of the groom.

Mrs. Reuber graduated this spring from Southwest Missouri State College. Mr. Reuber has been teaching for three years at Fulton. Following a trip to New Orleans, the couple will go to Denver, Colo., where Mr. Reuber will start work on his Masters Degree at the University of Denver.

The Modern Christian

Is it not a fact today, that many Christians are narrow and complacent in their faith?

If our Christian life is to have depth and wide dimensions, it must expand in and through Christ.

To deepen our Christian life, faith - consciousness, is to strive for a personal and communal awareness of who Christ is, and what He stands for. In this way, the message we are, and the message we give, is Christ.

We can never be complacent with our present awareness of Christ that we live or transmit to others.

This is why we need to meditate (not just read) on the Old and New Testaments. The Scriptures help us to understand our share in the mystery of redemption.

Taking passages in context, we ask ourselves what was going through the mind of Christ, that we might recapture the mentality of Christ. The Word of God has a charism all its own that our thoughts and words can never match.

The avenue to God is Christ. Our awareness of this precious gift largely depends upon our meditation of the Testaments and the consequent exercise of God's gifts.

Complacency comes from an outlook centered on self. The genuine Christian, however, directs his life as service for others. Complacency may well be a fact today, and if so, its root is not the wealth of society or the lack of education, but unconcern for others. The New Testament reveals the Son of God as giving the maximum of his life for others.

Sadecki Bombed! Cards Lose 8 To 7

"I'm in a rut," said St. Louis pitcher Ray Sadecki Thursday, after losing his sixth game in eight decisions to the Cincinnati Reds, 8-7.

"I can't seem to do anything right," explained the 24-year-old lefthander who gave up five of Cincinnati's 13 hits. One was Frank Robinson's 300th career home run -- the 14th Sadecki has yielded this year.

Sadecki, who won 20 victories last year, was sent to the bullpen after being routed Thursday.

"I'll put him there for a while," Manager Red Schoendienst said, "and maybe that will help bring him around."

The Cardinals leg, 1-0, after one inning in which Lou Brock singled, stole second and then reached home on two more hits. Then the Reds roared back, leading 7-2 after four and a half frames.

The Cardinals fought back and made a contest of the game, but never caught up despite 14 hits, including Bill White's pair of homers and Dick Groat's four singles in five trips to the plate.

John Tsitouris, who relieved Jim Maloney in the Cardinal's three-run fifth inning, was credited with the victory - his fourth against four losses.

Ray Washburn 4-3 will face the second - place Milwaukee Braves and Denny Lemaster 3-5 in tonight's action at Busch Stadium.

The Athletics, who were idle Thursday, will send Roland Sheldon 0-1 against the Cleveland Indians' Luis Tiant 5-2 tonight at Kansas City.

COLLEGE WORLD SERIES
By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

OMAHA (AP) —Steve Arlin's courageous 15-inning job for Ohio State, a three-hitter with 20 strikeouts, overshadowed Arizona State's relentless drive to its first College World Series Championship.

Arlin pitched a four-hit victory over Florida State Monday, had one day of rest, started Wednesday against Arizona State and was knocked out in the first inning by four solid hits and four Ohio State errors. Then he came back Thursday with possibly the top game in Series history.

His 1-0 shutout eliminated Washington State. Then Arizona ousted St. Louis 6-2, making it a two-team race.

Arizona State, 4-0 in the double elimination tourney, can wrap it up by beating the Buckeyes tonight. Starting time is 9 p.m., EST.

Ohio State, 3-1 must whip ASU two straight, Friday and Saturday, to claim its first NCAA baseball crown and the Big Ten's sixth.

Arizona State, 52-7 with 16 straight victories, beat Ohio State 9-4 in the third round and swept three early season games from them. Coach Bobby Winkles is ready with Ron Lea, senior right-hander with an 11-2 record and 2.92 earned run average.

Ohio State's cause is far from hopeless, even though Arlin is through for the Series, barring rainouts. Marty Karow will start left-hander John Durant, a senior with a 6-2 record and 2.09 ERA. Durant pitched a six-hit 14-1 victory over Washington State Tuesday.

If Durant wins, Karow can come back Saturday with Ron Kitchon, senior right-hander who held ASU to one run in 7 2-3 innings Wednesday. ASU likely would counter with Lefty Jim Merrick, 12-2, its winner that night.

Arlin's 15 innings pitched and 20 strikeouts broke Series pitching records of 13 innings and 16 strikeouts. He walked only five, two intentionally.

Arlin, a sophomore right-hander with an outstanding fast ball, was on the brink of defeat in the last of the 13th after permitting only two runners as far as second base until then.

WSU's Dale Ford led off the 13th with a 420-foot triple to center. Then Arlin issued the two intentional walks, got Dale Scilley on a weak grounder to the mound for a double play and struck out Duane Rossman.

The winning run scored on an error with two out in the 5th.

The 15 inning tied the Series record for longevity, set by Michigan and Santa Clara in the 1962 title game. Michigan won it, 5-4.

ASU has a team batting average of .329, has outscored its tourney foes by a combined 42-10 and its defense hasn't permitted a single unearned run in the tournament. Sal Bando, ASU third baseman, is hitting .500 in the tourney.

Potlatch Forrest Wins Over Bloomfield, On 2 Hitter

Sikeston Potlatch picked up their third win of the season downing Bloomfield last night at V. F. W. Stadium by the score of 2 to 1. The game was highlighted by outstanding pitching and defensive play. Pitchers Stallings and Spear gave up only two hits, making it a miserable night for Bloomfield hitters. Moore went all the way for Bloomfield allowing only 5 hits, while striking out 7 Sikeston hitters. Moore was the loser and Stallings got the win.

In the sixth inning the first two batters for Bloomfield, McAdoo and Dale Underwood walked. Johnson hit a line drive which Heacox snared, he immediately turned and fired to second, to retire McAdoo, then second baseman Scudder fired to first, to get Underwood before he could get to the bag. The Wildcats were retired on a fabulous triple play.

Sikeston picked up a run in the second inning, when Heacox singled, stole second and scored on Owens' base hit. The other Forrester run came in the third, Metz singled, but was out on a fielder's choice which put Scudder at first, he went to second on a pass ball, then went to third on a wild pitch and finally scored on another pass ball.

Bloomfield threatened in the last inning, when Bollinger walked, Harris pitch hit for Don Underwood and responded with a single, but that was all for the Bloomfield's rally as the next two men were retired.

Stallings struck out the side in the first inning. Spears and Stallings combined and struck out 11, while walking three, while getting one hit batsman.

Metz had two hits for Sikeston, Heath, Heacox and Owens had one each.

Casper Takes Lead In Cleveland Open

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The first-round leaders in the $135,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament are nursing a variety of ailments, but their scores are healthy enough.

Billy Casper, the veteran Californian, said he didn't think he would even play Thursday after surgery the night before to remove a hemorrhoid.

But the 33-year-old Casper showed up anyway and posted a strong four-under-par 67 over Highland Park's 6,821-yard course.

"It didn't bother me a bit," Casper said of his minor operation after he moved into a first-place deadlock with defending titlist Tony Lema.

Champagne Tony, who rang up five birdies and a bogey in registering his 67, said he felt "lousy" because of a heavy cold.

"A few more birdies and I would have forgotten I had a cold," Lema jested after his impressive round.

And Tommy Aaron, one of five pros chasing the leaders only a stroke behind at 68, said he has been taking penicillin for a strep throat he picked up last weekend at the Buick Open.

Another pro fighting a nagging cold, Arnold Palmer, started slowly but finished with an even par 71.

For two of the tour's champions, it was a long day. U.S. Open titlist Ken Venturi, plagued by a circulatory ailment in his hands, shot a 76 while PGA king Bobby Nichols came in with a 75.

Venturi, who says frankly "I am playing poorly," will defend his Open crown in St. Louis next week.

Early toll roads were called turnpikes because travelers were stopped at the turnstiles. or turnpikes. to pay their fares.

Crothers Downs Snell In 880

TORONTO (AP) —Bill Crothers tried for three years and finally beat Peter Snell, New Zealand's double Olympic champion, in the 880-yard run, the highlight of Toronto's international track meet Thursday night.

A crowd of 19,633 saw the 24-year-old Markham, Ont., pharmacist beat Snell by about two yards in the meet record time of 1:48.4. It was the Canadian's first victory over the New Zealander in five races. They clashed for the first time at the 1962 British Empire Games in Perth, Australia.

It also was the first defeat for Snell in the half-mile since 1961 when he lost to George Kerr of Jamaica.

Crothers stayed close on Snell's heels until the start of the final turn. Then he made his bid to move ahead and caught Snell after a hair-raising stretch duel with 35 yards to go to the finish line.

Snell, timed in 1:48.6, wasn't duly upset.

"You can't go on finishing first time after time," he said. "If I had to be beaten, I'm glad it was Crothers."

Snell did not compete in the mile run won by Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore., in 3:58.3.

Kiwanis And Jaycees Win National League Contests

The first game of the National League at Puckett Field last night went into overtime as Jaycees edged to a victory over Legion with a tight score of 4 to 3. Legion took the lead in the third frame as they scored three runs off Shy's homer, to Jaycees' two. That score remained until the sixth when Jaycees scored again to tie it all up. In the bottom of the seventh Jaycees pounded in another run to break the tie and take the victory. Boardman chalked up the win as Puckett was forced with the loss.

THE REAL THING

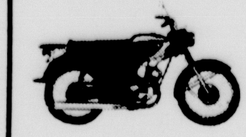

A boy accompanied by his younger brother stopped an elderly woman on the street and said, "Lady. . . for a nickel I'll have my little brother imitate a bird for you."

Charmed by the approach, the woman smiled and asked, "And how does he do that . . . by chirping?"

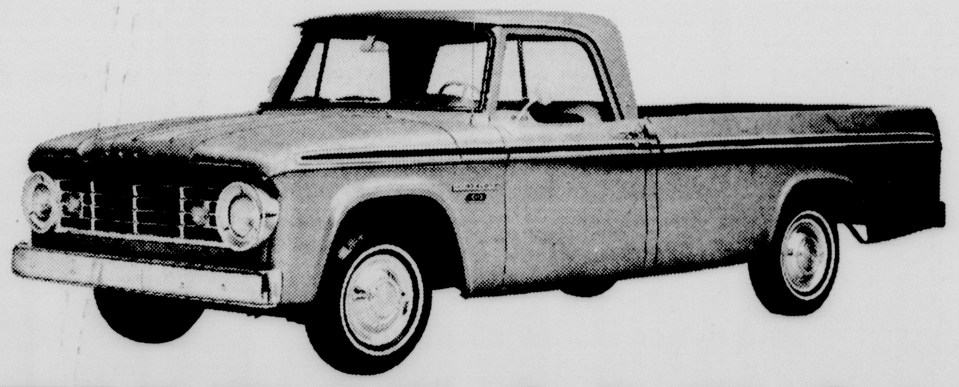

"No, ma'am," the boy replied, "none of those cheap imitations . . . I'll have him eat a worm for you." — Lucille J. Goodyear

The president of the board of trustees of a large corporation had presided over an unusually hectic meeting. The atmosphere had been so explosive that right afterwards he was rushed to the hospital with a bleeding ulcer. The next day he received a telegram from the secretary of the corporation.

"The board has voted to wish you a speedy recovery," the telegram stated. "The vote was eight to seven." — Spice Box

Fishing Forecast For The Weekend

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Fishing in Missouri lakes and streams is only fair this week, the state Conservation Commission reports. Water is mostly dingy to muddy.

Conditions by region;

Northwest -- Rivers muddy, producing some catfish. Lakes in good condition and success fair for bass, bluegill and channel cats. Ponds clear to dingy, productive for bass and bluegill.

North Central--Rivers muddy but some producing channel cats. Lakes and ponds generally in good condition and producing bass and bluegill.

North east--Streams not expected to be in good condition by this weekend.

West central -- Upper Osage muddy and some flooding with channel cat and carp fishing fair to good. Upper Pomme de Terre dingy to muddy but success fair for catfish and carp. Lower Pomme good for walleye. Sac and South Grand muddy, yielding rough fish only.

Southeast -- Black River in good condition and producing fair to good strings of channels and white bass; other rivers muddy.

Southwest -- James muddy to murky but providing fair strings of channels and perch. Elk clear and black bass, channels and perch hitting well.

LAKES

Bull Shoals -- Forsythe arm clear, upper Theodosia murky to clear. Walleye fishing good, black bass fair, crappie and white bass fair to good.

Table Rock -- Clear with fishing fair to good for black bass, crappie, white bass and bluegill.

Norfork--Murky and best bet channels.

Lake of the Ozarks -- Headwaters murky, rest good, Walleye good on Osage and Niangua arms, black bass fair to good and white bass fair on Niangua arm; trotlines taking good catches of channels.

Trimble -- Clear to slightly dingy; bass, walleye and channels hitting fairly well.

Jacomo -- Clear; black bass, channels and bluegill fair.

Reed Area -- Two lakes clear, two dingy.

Duck Creek -- Clear and black bass and bluegill fair to good.

Safety Check At New Madrid On June 19

NEW MADRID--New Madrid's volunteer vehicle Safety-Check will be held June 19, at the court house parking lot from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to an announcement of Shelton Rhodes, chairman of a Rotary Club committee in charge.

The check lanes will be set up in the parking lot at the court house. The lanes will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will be operated by volunteer qualified automobile mechanics.

Vehicles with all items in safe condition will receive a safety - check windshield sticker.

Items to be checked are brakes, front and rear lights (turn signals, stop lights), steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers (and washers), rearview mirror, horn, and seat belts.

Things Looking Up At Big Oak State Park

A new pump has been installed at the state park lake, and it is delivering approximately 850 gallons of water per minute, according to a report from Conservation Agent Art Province.

Last summer and fall a combination of factors all but ruined this lake. The prolonged drought and rapid evaporation caused the lake level to fall dangerously low. The deep well and pump virtually failed, and as a result the 23-acre lake area shrank to about one-third its normal size.

A group of experts also visited the lake last week and applied chemicals calculated to help control the dense growth of water plants, Province said.

Province also accompanied a representative of the fisheries section on a tour of the blue holes last week. This time the fisheries section was interested in probing the depth of these washouts or blue holes. To the surprise of all concerned the Nolen Blue Hole tested deepest. Next came the Coonskin Johnson Hole, and third the Byrd Blue Hole. Depth ranged from 39 to nearly 50 feet.

There is a strong possibility that the Conservation Commission will improve roadways into several of the blue holes, and also that a river access point will be developed.

Mississippi county is bounded on three sides by the Mississippi River, and the county has 85 miles of river frontage but there is not one boat ramp on the riverfront. Boaters must go either to Cairo or to Cape Girardeau to launch their boats.

Applications Mailed In

The neighborhood youth corp summer program is designed for young men and women, 16 to 21. Applications for admittance were sent to the state department of education in Jefferson City. The board of education will be notified when the program is approved. Successful applicants will then be notified. Further applications will be taken after Sept. 1.

Little Theater Board Meets To Elect Officers

Statler is the retiring president.

The board approved bills for the three productions of the season, "J.B.," "Come Blow Your Horn," and "The Sound of Music." The Board also considered ways and means of securing a community building and started plans for next season's productions.

Hearnes Birthday Dinner Planned

JEFFERSON CITY - Democrats are planning a $25 a plate birthday dinner for Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, July 24 - the day the governor becomes 42 and his wife 38.

Proceeds will go to the Democratic state committee.

Delton L. Houtchens, Democratic state chairman, announced today John R. Hahn of Jefferson City, a colonel on the governor's staff, will be the dinner chairman and former Congressman Charles H. Brown of Springfield will be the main speaker.

THE MAIL BAG

Dear Editor:

I wonder if someone would help me invent an invention. I have the idea, but know practically nothing about what I should know to do the job.

I want an electronic instrument that will do two things. Both would make money. Since money is the root of all evil, let's get devilish??

It would be a "thought revealer." For example, one could place it where the horses parade before a race at Santa Anita. By getting thoughts revealed, one could predict winners right from the horse's head!! It would be an electronic plug guage!!

Since the "Great Society" is going to have a lot of trouble in proving their accusations as to who is a hater, who is a discriminator, who is a lover and what not, I think they will soon be in the market, and will pay well. After all, a person is innocent until proven guilty, and the proof must look good, at least. This device would also be great for detecting "hate groups"!!

Sincerely,
George Spriestersbach

Johnson Administration Direction No Longer Clear

WASHINGTON (AP) — At one time the direction of the Johnson administration seemed clear but it is complex now and the question can fairly be asked: Where are we going?

The clear part was in the administration's heavy concentration on home problems. But suddenly, and with increasing intensity as time passes, the administration spread its attention to foreign affairs.

And the deeper the United States gets involved in the war in Viet Nam — to take one example — the more complex the future looks.

For more than a year after he succeeded the assassinated President John F. Kennedy in November 1963, President Johnson put almost all his attention on the field where he was expert, domestic doings and dealings with Congress.

He did extremely well and under his prodding Congress made remarkable progress. If Johnson had been able to occupy himself this well until the end of his elected term, the final judgment on his record appeared certain to be excellent.

But within a month after taking office on his own last January, Johnson plunged into the foreign field where his experience was limited and his ability never proven because it was never tested.

He moved in a big way, ordering the bombing of North Viet Nam, an order still being carried out although the North Vietnamese have not visibly budged an inch.

Ironically, unless there is a quick solution in Asia where none is in sight, the final judgment on the success or failure or wisdom of the Johnson administration may have to be made in this field least familiar to it, foreign problems.

At this minute no one outside the administration, and perhaps no one inside it, can say whether the United States is going to get into a big land war in Asia.

Adding to the uncertainty is the way in which American involvement is being stepped up until what looked once like a limited role for American forces now seems much less limited.

No president could be expected to telegraph his punches to an enemy with detailed public announcement beforehand of policies and intentions but there is a certain puzzle about this:

Does Johnson have thought-out plans for each step the United States intends to take in Viet Nam or are those steps more the product of events than of planning?

For instance, last March, when Marines were sent into Viet Nam, the U.S. Defense Department said the South Vietnamese government asked for them to guard the airbase at Da Nang and gave this official explanation:

"The limited mission of the Marines will be to relieve the government of South Viet Nam forces now engaged in security duty for action in the pacification programs and in offensive roles against Communist guerrillas."

That made it seem the Americans would sit tight, doing guard duty, while the Vietnamese did the fighting. There were 27,000 troops and Marines in Viet Nam in March. Gradually the number was increased until now there are 54,000.

And now the Americans' role seems a lot less limited. Last Friday a military spokesman in Saigon said these U.S. forces had a dual role: of defense and taking part in battle in support of Vietnamese forces when help is asked.

A State Department spokesman indicated the same thing Tuesday, which seemed to be putting U.S. forces far deeper into war. And Wednesday a White House spokesman said that while the Americans are in Viet Nam to guard important bases they can be used in combat to help the Vietnamese under certain circumstances.

So gradually American involvement has increased. There was a similar stepup in explanations when Johnson sent troops into the Dominican Republic. First, he said it was to save American lives; then he added that it was to prevent a Communist takeover.

There is another uncertainty about Johnson's future foreign policy. Will he be as quick to use American armed force in other situations which may arise in these next four years as he was in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic?

Cherry Harvest

It's cherry picking time in June-
lets bake a cherry pie
So lucious sweet and yet so tart,
with cherries all piled high.

The trees bear well the crimson fruit, and with plenty to spare
For the sassy jays and robins who demand an equal share.

There'll be rows of tangy sweet preserves,
tucked down the cellar way
Just watting there to tempt you, on a cold and wintery day.

The many fruits that grow on the land,
each with it's own harvest time,
Gathered in full abundance
A blessing to all mankind.

Southeast Missouri Tops In Queen Elections

Bootheel Beat

By MAX STURM

Well, we are approaching the annual queen contest season in the Bootheel again, and as is my custom I would like to give you a run-down on most of the major beauty events coming up so you can watch out for them and attend those in which you are interested.

The reason I keep this information before you is because it is my belief that the old Bootheel, among other accomplishments, can claim to have more beauty queens elected each year than any other rural area of its size in the world.

While there is no closed season on queen contests in our region what with various school, club and community events held during the year, the big ones, don't get underway until the Fourth of July and on into the rest of the year.

The first one of these will be the Miss Missouri Bootheel contest of the Hayti Junior Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July celebration in Northside Park on July 4 (not on Monday, July 5, the legal holiday this year). The contest is being sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority and will be staged at 2 p.m. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Betty Mathis and Mrs. Mary Ellen Ray, sorority members. Any girls, who would like to enter and might not be contacted otherwise, are invited to get in touch with them for details. The qualifications are ages 15 to 24 and unmarried. A $10 registration fee is required since the sorority needs the money.

The contestants, Mrs. Mathis said, will appear in one-piece swim suits. The queen and two alternates will be selected by a panel of judges and they will be awarded trophies.

The regulation calling for one-piece swim suits only is new this year to eliminate the confusion over whether two-piece suits might be used, which came up in last year's contest. There was mumbling about the possibility that two-piece suits could be quite brief, something that the contest directors might not be able to control, and that might constitute throwing a monkey wrench into the contest. It was decided that one-piece suits would make all contestants equal as far as attire is concerned. How they fill them out is what impresses the judges, is the basic thinking.

After that event will be the next big one, the "Miss Mississippi River" contest which will be a feature of the ski and water show to be presented by the Triangle Boating Club at its marina three miles east of Hayti on July 19. The ages are 14 to 24 and girls must be unmarried. Girls wearing two-piece suits will not be disqualified as long as the suits are not definitely in the bikini class, according to Mrs. Max Sturm, Hayti, contest director. No registration fee is charged. A queen and two alternates will be selected who will receive trophies. Interested girls should contact Mrs. Sturm.

At this point I would like to comment again on how times have changed in the presentation of queen contests in the Bootheel. Shortly after World War II, when such contests were introduced, contestants were reluctant to appear in swim suits, and this part of a contest was held privately only for the judges. The girls appeared later in evening gowns in the part of the contest held for the public. Now, it appears, you have to put in regulations to control how brief the swim suits can be.

In passing on this subject, Johnny Carson on his "Tonight" TV show stated that he had been invited to serve on a panel of judges at a queen contest to be held in a nudist colony. . .

Anyway, other queen contests regularly held in the Bootheel include the Hornersville Watermelon Festival late in August; the Portageville National Soybean Festival early in September; the Kennett Delta Fair and Livestock Show in September; the Sikeston American Legion Cotton Carnival in September and the Caruthersville American Legion Fair in October. Sandwiched between these events are cotton carnivals by the American Legion at New Madrid, the Rotary Club at Wardell, the Lions Club at Cooter, one at Lilbourn, and the Peach Festival at Campbell, all of which elect queens. There are others of a lesser nature that we have overlooked. Now, tell us if you know of any other geographical area in the world that has as many queen contests!

WATER SKIING APPEARS TO BE one of the nation's fastest growing sports with participants now estimated at upwards to a million or more people. It can be dangerous, and there are a growing number of people who are killed and injured in it. Along with water skiing, of course, is motor boating.

Hundreds of people enjoy both motor boating and skiing in the Bootheel each year, and it is surprising that there has not been more serious accidents in this activity than there have been.

The object in mentioning this subject here, is to alert motor boatists and skiiers that Missouri is tightening up this summer on control of boat operators and skiiers on unsafe or hazardous practices. So on any body of water in Missouri, you boatists and skiiers who go merrily along ignoring all safety regulations may find an officer handing you a summons to magistrate court, the same as for a highway or city street traffic violation. What was formerly just regulations covering safe boating and skiing practices as issued by the Missouri Boating Commission have now become laws with teeth in them.

Fritz McKay, chief of police of Hayti, who also is president of the Triangle Boating Club, stated that plans were being made to tighten control of boating and skiing in the chute in front of the club's marina on the Mississippi River east of Hayti.

"Many boat and boat dock owners have complained about the high speed of boats and the unsafe practices of skiiers passing to and fro along the marina," he said, "and in the past we were not able to control it by law. It appears, however, that under these new 1965 boating and skiing state laws we can do it. We want everyone to enjoy boating and skiing at our facility, but we want to slow down the speed boat demons and dare-devil skiiers who endanger the lives of other people and also damage boat docks with their big waves and backwash."

Wheat Crop Falls Below Last Year

WASHINGTON - The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's wheat crop at 1,282,986,000 bushels, down 1 per cent from last year.

Winter wheat production was indicated at 1,016,587,000 bushels. This compared with 977,779,000 forecast a month ago, 1,024,888,000 produced last year and 966,560,000 for the five-year (1959 - 63) average.

The spring wheat crop was forecast at 266,399,000 bushels. This compared with 262 million indicated on the basis of farmers' planting intentions, 265,580,000 produced last year and 223,203,000 for the five-year average.

Acreage for harvest, yield per harvested acre and production respectively, included for winter wheat:

Missouri 1,141,000 acres, 30 bushels per acre, and 34,290,000 bushels.

Plaque Is Given to Mrs. Croom

Mrs. Croom has been a 4-H leader 20 years with approximately 15 of those years as community leader, a post which she resigned this past year.

Mrs. Croom had charge of the program at the meeting. She discussed good grooming habits and the points to keep in mind for the contest held each year at the 4-H county fair. She asked that each member prepare a good grooming skit to be presented at the July meeting.

Mrs. Dale Geske and her son, Mike, demonstrated an exercise for the members to practice. This carries out the 4-H fitness program being conducted by the club.

It was announced that Mrs. Peter Myers, community leader, and Mrs. Dale Geske would take 4-H members on a rat poison sales tour of the area Saturday. Anyone wishing to purchase rat poison from the club and who will not be at home Saturday may call their order to any club member or leader.

It was announced that the next meeting will be July 12.

For entertainment members of the club presented talent skits. Pam Lasters and Joe Myers did a dance skit to the number "Mary Poppins", Harold and Teressa Malloy sang a song; and Terry Lowry, Jeannie Summers and Martha Lasters also sang a song with Martha Lasters serving as pianist of the latter group.

In addition to Mrs. Croom, Mrs. Peter Myers' mother, from Racine, Wis., was a guest at this meeting. Also present were five leaders and 13 members.

New Church Filled for Dedication

MATTHEWS -- A capacity audience, including many out-of-town guests, filled the new Christ Lutheran church for the dedicatory service at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Rev. Harold Belsheim delivered the sermon.

Miss Kathryn Clark gave a program of organ music preceding the service, and was accompanist for other musical numbers.

Mrs. Dale Geske and Mrs. Eddie Schrader sang "Bless This House" and vocal solos were sung by Miss Yvonne DuSablon and Mrs. Bill Hailey.

Floral arrangements decorated the interior of the sanctuary. A hallway extending the length of the building makes entrance from the front or graveled parking lot at the rear easily accesible to the sanctuary, choir loft, fellowship hall, kitchen, and rest rooms.

ABC Tries To Attract Young People

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co., highly conscious that much of its current success is due to its large audience of young people, makes special efforts to attract them.

On June 28 it will completely overhaul — with a new name, new characters, new viewpoint, even new title — one of its daytime serials, "Flame in the Wind," specifically to attract more young housewives.

When its "12 O'clock High" returns next fall in an earlier time period it will have replaced its star—Robert Lansing playing a general — with Paul Burke playing a major. The switch was dictated by the network's theory that the added young viewers of the World War II drama would identify closer to a more boyish-looking officer of lesser rank.

On the other hand, NBC appears to be actively engaged in sloughing off some of its younger fans.

Next week, for instance, it moves its early evening rock 'n' roll hour, "Hullabaloo," to the end of its Tuesday night prime-time schedule, a late hour for kids on the East and West Coasts.

Its most drastic switch comes next season when "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." is plucked from its popular early Monday evening spot and stuck in a 10 p.m. time period of Fridays.

Al Hirt's forthcoming CBS variety series, which will replace the Jackie Gleason show for the summer, will be called "Fanfare" and will premier June 19.

Rhubarb

Rhubarb, or pieplant, was used by the Chinese as early as 2700 B.C. and garden rhubarb was introduced into Europe from the East relatively late. A Maine gardener brought it to the United States near the end of the 18th century.

Warn of Candy Like Fireworks

WASHINGTON -- George P. Larrick, commissioner of food and drugs of the department of health education, and welfare, has warned parents and retail dealers across the country to be on the lookout for a new kind of fireworks, which can be dangerous to children in an unusual way.

The fireworks, having the appearance of small colored candy balls, sometimes marketed under the name "Cracker Balls," may easily be mistaken for candy and some children in Ohio and the District of Columbia were injured when they bit into them.

Commissioner Larrick said FDA inspectors are on the lookout for these novelty items with a view toward legal action unless they are labeled to meet all requirements of the federal hazardous substances labeling act. He questions, however, whether any labeling can be devised which would make these products free from the danger of being mistaken for candy.

Commissioner Larrick added that any stocks which can be shown to be in violation of the federal labeling law will be removed from the market under the seizure provisions of that statute. Samples obtained thus far are imports from Japan.

A habit of devout fellowship with God is the spring of all our life, and the strength of it. Such prayer, meditation and converse with God restores and renews the temper of our minds; so that by this contact with the world unseen we receive continual accesses of strength.

SHOW YOURSELF A MAN

When I Was A Boy

B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

July 18, 1919

When I was a boy both boys and girls went barefooted from early spring until late in the fall. The boys and girls of 12 to 15 years of age wore no shoes in the summer as well as those of more tender years. There were no corns or bunions to worry with then, and when they did wear shoes they were calf skin shoes with low flat heels. Now it is a rare thing to see little children without shoes. The French high heeled shoes for ladies look pretty neat on a pretty foot, even though the shoes is two sizes too small. Our mothers and grandmothers never suffered with corns or bunions because they were not ashamed to wear a shoe that fit their feet.

When I was a boy my brother was thrown from a horse and his arm was broken. This created quite a sensation and about all the neighbors came in as soon as they heard about it. Among the number was a young man named Woods, son of a wealthy neighbor. He was so full of sympathy that he gave me a dime, the first one I had ever had. I have never forgotten that young man and never will. Knowing how proud that dime made me has caused me to give away a lot of dimes, nickels and pennies to little children for it makes them so happy and costs so little, and then it is so nice to scatter a little sunshine as we go along, for we will only pass this way once.

When I was a boy a man named John Tatum landed at Glasgow from a steamboat. He was a Virginian and came to Missouri to teach school. He walked six or seven miles from town to our house and on the road out he found lots of buckeyes on the ground, and thinking they were a larger variety of chestnuts than he had ever seen in Virginia he filled his pockets, and as he walked he ate all he wanted. When he arrived he had a pocketful, which he thought would be a treat for us kids, but when the old folks learned that he had eaten a lot they thought sure he would die, as they were considered very poisonous, but a few snorts of whisky allayed their fears and he was not even made sick, but tolerably drunk.

When I was a boy of seven my grandfather married a maiden lady of 30, up in Randolph county. When they got home to the "infair" feast the whole neighborhood was there to greet them. I have rarely, if ever, seen as great a feast as was spread on that occasion and it took a long time to feed that multitude of hungry people. I remember the pyramids of cakes, nearly two feet high, with a large cake at the bottom and tapering off until the top was a cup cake. There were a number of those stacks scattered along the long table. About midnight they were greeted by about forty men and boys with drums, tin pans, bells by the dozen and a few guns. After circling the house three times they were called in and ate and drank all they wanted and left. This was in 1845.

When I was a boy there was no Republican party. It was Whigs and Democrats, and the campaigns for office were more exciting than any of today. As I remember women never attended political meetings as they do now. I remember one instance that occurred at an election in Howard county. A man when voting handed his ticket to one of the judges who read it out so that everybody knew how his neighbors voted. One man handed up his ticket to vote and just then a man spoke up and challenged his right to vote. He was asked on what grounds he objected, and he said, "He is a thief; I caught him coming out of my smokehouse with a side of bacon on his shoulder." That created great excitement as the man was thought to be an honest man. In the excitement the man disappeared from the polls.

When I was a boy we all looked upon slavery as a divine institution. We were raised that way and everybody believed in slavery and hated abolitionists. But at Fayette one New Year's Day I first thought there was something wrong about slavery, and it was this: A Negro man, his wife and several children were put on the block and sold to pay their master's debts. The man was sold to a man near Roanoke, his wife went near New Franklin and the children went to different men. The poor Negroes cried like their hearts would break, and kid as I was then, I felt that a great wrong had been done that Negro and his family, but I did not know just how it was, and now I thank God that slavery exists no more in this free land of ours.

When I was a boy Polk was the Democratic candidate for President, and was elected. You could tell where every Democrat in the county lived, for in the summer every place owned by a Democrat had great branches of Polkberries tied to a pole, or barn or gate post and some enthusiastic Democrats even had polkberry juice rubbed on their houses. The Whigs had to hustle and they did but could not win. There was one Whig procession in Fayette in which a Negro man carried a live coon on the end of a pole. There was no secret of where a man stood then as there is with many men today, who try to "hold with the hare and run with the hounds."

When I was a boy nobody in the country had ever seen or heard of a professional evangelist. When it was decided to hold a series of meetings the pastor and officers of the church would call on a neighboring preacher to help, and the meeting would start with everybody willing to help, and those meetings often resulted in wonderful revivals where scores were converted. Why people actually belived that God converted men and women, strange as it may seem now. It is different now.

When I was a boy it was a rare thing to see anyone wearing glasses and when you did they were worn by old persons, but never do I remember seeing young men or young women wearing specs. But now it is more common to see little children wearing specs than it was to see old people wearing glasses when I was a boy. What has caused this change?

When I was a boy there was an old woman roved through the country half crazy, but harmless. When she would stop at a house she would always insist on doing the house work even to doing the washing and would never take anything for it, but strange to say she had a mania for spitting in the water bucket, or gourd before she left, so the people soon got in the habit of keeping a close watch on her.

Bloomfield Man To News Post

BLOOMFIELD -- Donald J. Brydon was appointed executive assistant of the southwest division of United Press International and joined the division headquarters at Dallas, Tex., from Tokyo where he had been general news manager for Asia since 1962. He assisted in the UPI coverage of the Gemini space flight last week.

While in Tokyo, he supervised news coverage of an area from Japan to Afghanistan, including the Vietnamese war from which he recently returned. He was in Saigon at the time of the recent coup.

Brydon will function in both business and news capacities in the nine-state area. He joined UPI at St. Louis in 1947. Prior to going to Japan in 1962, he had been regional executive in Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. He is the son of Mrs. Maud Brydon.

Privettville Fails To Be Dunklin Town

KENNETT -- An order was issued Monday by the Dunklin County Court turning down a petition filed by 19 persons asking that an area south of Holcomb be incorporated into a town called "Privettville."

The petition, filed June 4, requested the privilege of incorporating and establishing a local government for the proposed community.

County Court Judges Virgil O'Connor, R. B. King and Fred Neal, issued a statement that the petition was not found to be justifiable.

The petition grew out of a suit filed by the City of Holcomb in Dunklin County circuit court May 20, 1964, which asked the judgment of the court on the annexation of property to the city of areas about 200 feet on either side of Highway 25 south of Holcomb and Highway 53 north of the city.

Mayor Buren Napper said that the Holcomb city council, after filing the suit, decided later that some of the proposed area in the suit should not have been included and other sections, specifically eight acres south of the Holcomb School for which the owner, W. T. Raspberry, has signed an option to the city for the building of a low-rent housing development, should be added. For this reason, Napper said, the suit was dismissed on May 24, p965, until the city could draw up a new suit which would allow for changes in the boundary of the areas to be annexed.

Napper said the city plans to file a new suit soon, in spite of the opposition as evidenced by the "Privettville" group, stating the need of Holcomb to expand.

Then, Napper explained, they would wait on the circuit court to pronounce a declaratory judgment and the matter would then be taken to the citizens of Holcomb to vote on the proposition.

Jo Ellen Ledbetter

Meter Maid Appointed

CHARLESTON--Miss Jo Ellen Ledbetter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ledbetter, was appointed to the police force this week as assistant "meter maid."

Miss Ledbetter, a 1965 graduate of Charleston high school, started work Monday.

She will work on the meters in the morning, and work in city hall in the afternoon except when Mrs. Ledbetter, the regular patrolwoman, is not available for afternoon meter work.

Illinois Woman Charged In Death

CAIRO, Ill.--A Mound City woman was arrested by Pulaski County Sheriff Jack Gunn Wednesday on a murder warrant.

Eleanor Stovall, 57, was charged in connection with the death of her husband, who died in a house fire at Mound City the morning of March 22.

Investigation showed that the victim, Floyd Stovall, had been struck in the head with a blunt instrument prior to the fire.

Ronald Dale McAdoo

Scholar To West Point

CHARLESTON -- Ronald Dale McAdoo, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. McAdoo of Bertrand, graduated May 21 as an honor student at Bloomfield high school.

He has accepted appointment to West Point Military Academy, which he received from Congressman Paul C. Jones. Ronnie will report to West Point July 1, 1965.

During his four years of high school, Ronnie was a member of the Beta club, student council, Pep club and Lettermen's club. He was a member of the band four years and sang in the mixed chorus and boys' glee club for two years. He was president of the student council during his junior year. In March, 1965, he represented Bloomfield Beta club in the talent show in St. Louis and won first place by singing a solo.

He lettered in baseball and band for four years, basketball three years and chorus two years. As a junior he received the history and AMA mathematics awards and the physics award as a senior. His class voted him "Most Talented" and "Most Likely to Succeed."

As a senior, he was named semi-finalist and later attained the status of finalist in the 1964 - 65 National Merit Scholarship competition. As a finalist he ranked in the top half of the 99th percentile.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. McAdoo of Bloomfield.

Artesian Well

An artesian well is one formed by boring or drilling into a layer of porous rock, such as sandstone or loose sand, from which water flows under its own pressure.

Boundary Suit Arguments Heard

CHARLESTON — Circuit Judge Marshall Craig yesterday heard arguments in the boundary change suit between the R-1 and R-2 School district, taking the case under advisement.

The arguments were heard in chambers, temporarily located in the offices of W. Clifton Banta.

The suit filed by the R-1 district, challenges the validity of petitions submitted in 1964, which called for an election to approve a change of boundaries between the two districts.

A public hearing was held and testimony taken last week.

Plan Reunion Of 1955 Class

CHARLESTON — Plans are being completed for the Aug. 7 and 8 reunion of the CHS class of 1955. All members have been contacted except Joyce Beydler and Margie Mann. If anyone knows the address of either of these people, they may contact Mrs. Charles Brink at MU 3-3733.

Pool Reserve Saves Life

POPLAR BLUFF — Bill Brannon, 20-year-old son of Mrs. Lula Brannon of 1405 Bradley, is alive today because of the rescue efforts of lifeguards at the Hillcrest Pool.

Brannon was found on the bottom of the pool in 8½ feet of water about 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Liefguard John Eastburn dived in to bring him out and immediately started mouth to mouth resuscitation. Eastburn stated that after a few breaths, Brannon coughed. Dewey Brown, and Hugh Boevving, lifeguards, and Bill Green who was swimming, joined with Eastburn to continue the reviving of Brannon and had him breathing when firemen arrived with the resuscitator.

Brannon suffered cramps in both legs when he slipped into the pool and couldn't come to the top of the water to call for help.

Youth Shoots Self In Leg

QULIN — David Hardin, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hardin of route one, accidentally shot himself in the right leg with a .22 caliber pistol at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The youth stated that he had been out shooting the pistol and that he thought he had unloaded it. He said that the hammer on the pistol slipped from under his thumb while he was putting it in the holster and the gun fired and the bullet struck him above the right knee.

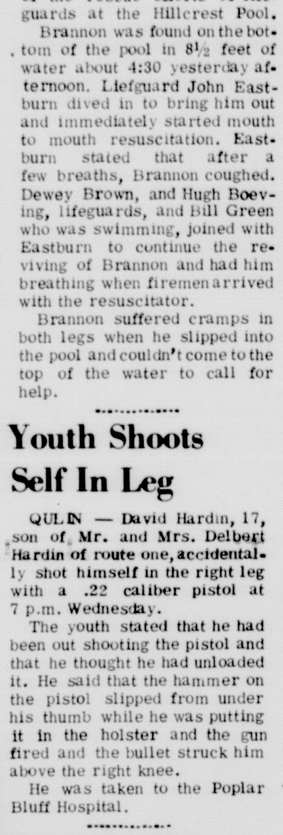

He was taken to the Poplar Bluff Hospital.

Wounded Soldier Visits in SEMO

BLOOMFIELD — Sgt. William Junior Heaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Heaton of Idalia, returned to Baltimore, Md., Thursday from Korea where he was hospitalized for a month because of injuries in Vietnam. A jeep in which he was riding ran into a mine which exploded.

He arrived at Sikeston Saturday to be with his wife and five children who are living there. He visited his parents Sunday.

Heaton, who has been with the Army for ten years, will report back to duty June 30.

WOOLEN WAY — Accenting the softness trend Darlene of New York has come up with this bikini for fun in the sun comfort. Departing abruptly from the recent trend to nylons and similar fibers, this year's line is in Angora wool.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2 inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6 inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Missouri Avenue to Broadway in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvements shall consist of furnishing all costs, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of June, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 218 inc 224

Quench not the Spirit. (I Thessalonians 5:19)

PRAYER: O Holy Spirit, descend upon us and guide us to make the right decisions. Close the doors when they lead to the wrong ways. Show us the way to go that will make our lives useful for Thee. In Jesus' name we ask these things. Amen.

Tahl Joins FBI's Most Wanted List

WASHINGTON-William Albert Autur Tahl, alleged violent murderer who is charged with a double gunshot slaying in San Diego, Calif. and a knife murder in Dallas, Tex., has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Reportedly armed with a .22 caliber rifle and known to usually carry a large, sharp fisherman's knife, Tahl is additionally sought for rape, attempted robbery and grand theft of an automobile and has reportedly stated he will not be captured alive.

A violent crime rampage began about 4 a.m. on April 1, 1965, when Tahl allegedly shot a man and wife at a San Diego yacht club during an attempted robbery. The elderly couple, caretakers of the yacht club where Tahl also was employed, subsequently died of shotgun wounds in the abdomen, inflicted at close range.

Shortly after the shootings, Tahl allegedly raped an 18-year-old San Diego woman, after threatening to kill her and her two-year-old child with his knife. He thereafter reportedly stole an automobile in San Diego and fled from the State of California.

Investigation traced Tahl to Dallas, Texas, where he obtained temporary factory work until April 26th when he abruptly departed. On that same date, the dead body of a Navy deserter, with whom Tahl lived in Dallas, was found in their shared room with a stab wound in the heart.

A Federal warrant, issued at San Diego, California, on April 28, 1965, charges Tahl with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder, rape, attempted robbery and grand theft of an automobile. In addition, a local warrant was issued at Dallas, Texas, on April 28, 1965, charging him with the murder of his roommate.

Tahl has a reputation of being a highly accomplished auto thief who will steal a car at the slightest provocation. He was convicted of auto theft in Ohio in 1958 and served a 1- to 20-year sentence at the Ohio State Reformatory in Mansfield. He was paroled in May, 1959, and subsequently charged with parole violation on several occasions.

In 1956, Tahl was given a bad conduct discharge from the United States Navy after nine months' service.

Tahl, noted for his assaultive nature, especially when intoxicated, is said to display great hostility towards women, to be constantly attempting to seduce young girls and to also have strong homosexual tendencies. He has allegedly threatened violence against a man in Cleveland, Ohio, and was described shortly after the San Diego shootings as acting and talking "like a crazy man."

Tahl is a white American who was reportedly born on July 1, 1938, in Alaska. He is 5' 11" to 6' tall, weighs 170 to 175 pounds, has a medium build, dark complexion, brown eyes and black hair. He has a vaccination scar on his left arm, a scar on his left index finger, one on his right little finger and another scar on the upper portion of his right arm. He has a birthmark on the left side of his abdomen and a tattoo of the name "Art" on his left forearm. Tattooed on the left side of his chest is a flying eyeball, and a snake's head with wings is tattooed on the upper part of his right arm.

He has worked as a laborer, maintenance man and plumber's helper and reportedly likes to work near boating areas. He is known to frequently change jobs.

He has been described as a neat dresser who enjoys watching television, drinks beer and whisky heavily, smokes cigarettes and likes to eat, being particularly fond of Mexican dishes and sea food. Tahl is reportedly allergic to tomatoes which cause him to break out in a rash. He is said to enjoy swimming and skin diving and to be a very fast runner.

In view of the violent crimes charged against him and the possibility that he is armed with a .22 caliber rifle and sharp fisherman's knife, he should be considered extremely dangerous.

Any person having information concerning the whereabouts of Tahl is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

Earliest Subway

World's first subway system was proposed for London, England, in 1843. Work, which began in 1860, was finished in 1863, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was very disappointed that a sophisticated dame like you would fall for that tear-jerker. I refer to the letter from the kid who wrote about his dog who was hit by a car and left in the street to die.

I'm with the driver. If I hit a mutt I would not ruin the inside of my car taking him to an animal hospital. And I wouldn't stop and try to cheer up the kid either.

People should know that most dogs are stupid and no match for modern traffic. Folks who love a dog will not allow him to run loose. In many cities there is a law against it, but people ignore the law -- and now and then a dog gets hit. If the dog means so little to the family that they don't keep him on a leash they deserve whatever they get. NO PATSY.

Dear No: I agree that dogs should not be allowed to run loose, but that was not the question.

A driver who hits a dog should stop and do whatever he can to alleviate the animal's suffering. The dog is not to blame if a careless master allows him to run unleashed. You are my candidate for The Meanest Man In Town Award.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 20 years old (Boy) and have a driver's license but nothing to drive. For three years I have been asking my folks for a car. They say, "Go out and earn it." It is hard to get a job when you don't have a car.

I've had six jobs since I dropped out of high school. None of them lasted very long. One of the problems is I can't get to work on time. If I had a car the problem would be solved.

When I am working I give my folks $15 a week room and board. Now they don't get anything. So you see it would be better for them if they bought me a car, too.

It isn't as if they can't afford it. Both my parents are working and together they make $8,000 a year. I am not asking for a Rolls Royce. Any make will do. Please give me a hand. NEED WHEELS

Dear Wheels: A kid who can't get to work on time on public transportation is not likely to do better if he has his own car. He'd probably do worse.

My advice: Forget about a car and concentrate on a high school diploma. Either go back to school or take night courses. Drop-outs are a problem to society, to their families and to themselves. Right now you need education -- not wheels.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married nearly 20 years. We are in our middle 40's. We moved to this city seven months ago and like it very much.

My husband's mother wrote us several weeks ago that a third cousin of my husband lives in this city and she would like to see us. The woman was divorced several years ago and my husband remembers her as a "beautiful blonde." He hasn't seen her in 22 years.

Now my husband is nagging me to invite this woman to dinner. I keep making up excuses. The truth is if she has any looks left, and if she behaves like most divorcees, it could mean trouble.

Am I right or wrong? Mrs. XXX

Dear Mrs. : Wrong. If Cuz had ulterior motives she would have called your husband at his place of business. She would not have written to his mother.

Invite her to dinner and fast. Be relaxed and friendly. Your reluctance may give your husband ideas he never had before.

Today In U. S. History

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, Congress appointed a committee to draft a Declaration of Independence. The committee included Franklin and John Adams.

On this date

In 1859, the Comstock Load was discovered in Nevada.

In 1936, a new Soviet constitution was submitted to the people of the Soviet Union.

In 1942, an announcement was made of a lend-lease agreement between Russia and the United States.

In 1945, the Senate voted to continue the Office of Price Administration for another year.

Ten years ago - The Atomic Energy Commission reported that the hydrogen bomb could be constructed in almost unlimited size from the cheapest atomic explosives.

Five years ago - White House news secretary James Hagerty went to Tokyo to arrange the details of a visit by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

One year ago - the State Department announced that reconnaissance flights over Laos would continue "as necessary," with the consent of Premier Souvanna Phouma.

Civic Center Urged For Poplar Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF -- The possibility of locating a civic center on the site of the present city hall was advanced by Mayor J. C. Allen at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

Mayor Allen cited the need for such a center in drawing to Poplar Bluff district and regional conventions of various organizations as well as meetings for local clubs and other groups. Such a center, he added, has long been needed.

The mayor said he felt the proposed location was an excellent one as it afforded a central location to the business district.

To make way for such an undertaking, the city hall would have to be moved.

Whoever originated the saying, "As clean as a whistle," certainly must never have heard some guys whistle at girls."

FREEWHEELING, U.S. STYLE—Top Newschart above shows the continuing increase in the number of automotive vehicles in the United States. Auto ownership has increased faster than the population, with registrations more than doubling since 1940. By 1980 cars will number 100 million and other vehicles 20 million. Miles these vehicles have traveled in urban areas (lower chart) more than doubled between 1940 and 1960 and are expected to double again by 1980. Data from Committee on Economic Development.

Three Arrested In Stolen Car

MALDEN — Alton Thomas Barnett, 18, William Robert Reando, 17, a 16-year-old girl of St. Louis, and a 16-year-old boy of Wortham, were apprehended in a stolen car at approximately 2 p.m. Wednesday near Malden by Trooper Melvin E. Moyers of the State Highway Patrol.

The 16-year-old youth escaped while they were being taken to the Stoddard County jail at Bloomfield.

He is described as five feet, seven inches, 125 pounds, blue eyes and long bushy brown hair. He was wearing a black knit short sleeve pullover shirt and dark trousers.

At the time of their arrests, they were riding in a 1954 Ford coach which had been stolen earlier from D.L. Cox of Dudley. Reando has admitted the theft of the Ford, authorities said.

The 16-year-old girl told authorities that she was Barnett's wife.

Highway Patrol officers reported that the youths have admitted stealing a 1952 Chevrolet at Irondale, and have also admitted selling the car at a service station near Greenville.

"Quinine, he said, because of the prevalence of malaria in the swamp land, was as staple as sugar or salt. I don't suppose there was a dinner table in all Southeast Missouri that didn't have its bottle of quinine on it right along with the salt."

Besides practicing medicine, Dr. Kendall was in the grain business, and on March 30, 1878, he purchased the Jasper Trotter farm between Trotter Street and Murray Lane on the west side of Kingshighway.

He was never known to charge a widow or an orphan for his services. He never refused to make a call even if he had to go for miles on foot.

Wickliffe Driver Dies On Morehouse Curve

THIS IS THE 1951 Chevrolet in which John Ryon of Wickliffe, Ky., was killed this morning one mile west of Morehouse at the junction of highways 114 and highway 60.

Former Bertrand Man Hurt

An aged Wickliffe, Ky., man was killed and a former Bertrand man injured seriously in two automobile accidents this morning and yesterday afternoon.

A man tentatively identified by papers on his person as John Ryon, 84, of Wickliffe was killed when his car failed to circle a curve one mile west of Morehouse at the intersection of highways 114 and 60.

Charles Voelker, 20-year-old former Bertrand man, was injured in a three-car collision in Ste. Genevieve county yesterday in which a Ste. Genevieve county girl was killed.

Ryon was traveling alone in his 1951 Chevrolet on route 11'4 when he lost control. The car was demolished. His body was taken to Watkins and son Funeral Home.

The accident in which Voelker sustained a fractured back occurred at 12:15 p.m. yesterday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert (Dutch) Voelker of Cape Girardeau and is a student of Southeast Missouri State College there.

Maureen Dempsey, 17, was killed.

Three others were hurt. They are Miriam Dempsey, 50, and Cathleen Dempsey, 10, both of Ste. Genevieve, who suffered fractures and bruises. John Becker, Jr., 22, St. Charles, driver of a second car involved in the crash, received a hip injury and bruises.

The injured were taken to Perry County Memorial Hospital in Perryville.

The Dempsey car was following a car, which was braked suddenly. To avoid a collision the Dempsey car swung to the center line of highway 61 and met head on the approaching car driven by Becker.

Raymond Moore, 27, Jackson, driving the third car, was unable to stop and collided with the Becker vehicle. He was not hurt.

Three Will Attend Forum

NEW MADRID -- Three New Madrid county high school students have been selected in countywide competition to attend the annual Freedom Forum in Mexico, Mo.

Those selected were James Crumley, Marston; Ella Mae Duff, Howardville; and Bernedette Klipfel, Portageville.

The three youngsters will attend the forum under the sponsorship of the New Madrid county Farm Bureau. The Bureau and individuals finance the trip.

While attending the forum, the youngsters will hear speakers of national and international acclaim. Among those scheduled to speak this year are Congressman Richard Ichord of Missouri, John Noble, one time captive of the Russians following World War II, and W. Cleon Skousen, a writer and former FBI agent.

Participants in the county competition were required to submit an essay on the obligations of a citizen in a democracy. Those young people who submitted papers judged best were then interviewed before final selection was made.

TUCSON, Ariz. (AP) -- Jim Johnson, court reporter for the Tucson Daily Citizen for the past five years has been watching the goings-on in the courtrooms as a spectator. Recently he moved up to the defense table, acted as his own attorney and won acquittal on a traffic charge in city court.

U. S. Tax Men Put Chill On Nature's Beauty

WASHINGTON — A nature-loving Missouri newspaper publisher has found a lack of sympathy in the Internal Revenue Service for the Great Society's program to beautify America.

The publisher, Naeter Brothers Publishing Co. of Cape Girardeau, has asked the United States Tax Court to teach IRS a thing or two about esthetic appreciation.

The company, which publishes the Southeast Missourian, invoked the names of former President Harry S. Truman, President Lyndon B. Johnson and federal highway administrator Rex M. Whitton in its plea to the court.

At issue are the maintenance costs of a scenic attraction near Cape Girardeau called Boulder Crest. Naeter Brothers modestly described the place as "a nature laboratory" where plants of the north and south come together to create one verdant paradise.

Boulder Crest covers a 10-acre woodland hillside and boasts an impressive variety of flowers, shrubs and trees, Naeter Brothers told the court.

Truman has visited Boulder Crest and so has Whitton, former chief engineer of the Missouri Highway Department, Naeter Brothers said. Whitton was so impressed, the company said, that recently he telephoned the newspaper asking for photographs of Boulder Crest to include in a presentation illustrating the advantages of highway beautification, in line with President Lyndon B. Johnson's program.

The company presented the facts to the court to deny Internal Revenue's ruling that Naeter Brothers may not deduct maintenance costs for Boulder Crest as a necessary business expense in computing income taxes.

IRS has billed the publisher for $8285 in taxes for 1961, 1962 and 1963 as a result of the disallowed deductions covering caretaker wages, real estates taxes and insurance costs for Boulder Crest.

Naeter Brother asked the court to show a proper appreciation for natural beauty and find that they have no tax liability.

Two Arrested For Shoplifting

Others arrested were Henry Hensley, 310 Kendall, on a charge of assault, Aaron Marble, 107 Luther, on a charge of assault and Loure Ware, 308 Sunset, on a charge of having no city sticker on her automobile.

Raise Fine For Parking

CHARLESTON -- The odds against beating the parking meters were raised by vote of the City Council.

"Many people apparently are taking chances of getting caught because, they reason, the fine if caught is only 10 cents," commented a city official. "The council decided to raise the percentage a little, by boosting the fine to 25 cents, effective next Monday morning." By increasing the "house percentage" council members hope to inspire more frequent use of pennies and nickels in the meters.

In other action the council:

Heard a report on civil defense by the state director, Col. Frank Skelly of Jefferson City.

Decided to try to resurface all old asphalt streets under the "dollar law." This law permits the city to undertake certain work without approval of property owners.

Decided to take annual bids on gasoline for use by city vehicles. A call for bids will be advertised at a later date.

Authorized the state to apply for federal money to undertake a 20-year planning program for Charleston.

Received the following report from the city manager on activities of city departments for May:

It is possible that the swimming pool receipts will carry

Organist Is One Man Band

Rodeo Chairman J. D. Schaffer announced this morning that Dick Warner will appear at the Jaycee Bootheel Rodeo, which begins August 12.

Warner is a cowboy organist, who appears in all parts of the country playing for rodeos. His music can take the place of a band.

School Aid For SEMO

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Gov. Warren E. Hearnes said today many Missouri school districts will share in an estimated $7,794,930 federal aid to education in the next three years.

He had a study made of the 1962 Aid to Dependent Children records to find the location of families which received more than $2,000 in welfare aid during the year.

The study showed there were 2,031 such families with 11,297 school age children.

Under the elementary and secondary education act of 1965 the school districts in which such educationally - deprived children live may receive federal aid to expand and improve their education programs.

Most of the aid will go to districts in St. Louis, Jackson County and southeastern Missouri counties.

Pemiscott County $100,280, New Madrid county $71,300 and Dunklin County $64,860.

Hearnes Will Visit Bloomfield

BLOOMFIELD — Gov. Warren E. Hearnes accepted an invitation to speak at the Amvet post dedicatory Aug. 6, according to a letter from Rep. Tom Baker to Dean Cooper. The ceremony is for a new building.

The Amvets plan to hold a fish fry.

Scramble For Mayor

NEW YORK - Mayor Robert Wagner's decision not to seek a fourth term touched off a scramble for the Democratic mayoral nomination today and promised to have national political repercussions in both parties.

The decision Thursday, which the three-term mayor said was based on family considerations, could produce some political pressure on the national level for the selection and financing of a powerful Democratic opponent to Republican Rep. John V. Lindsay in the Nov. 2 election.

A new name cropped up on the Democratic side shortly after Wagner made his announcement. In Washington, Harlem Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, D-N. Y., boosted Franklin D. Roosevelt, Jr., son of the late president, for the nomination.

Early Day Physician Said There Were Four Medicines

By Richard Smith

Dr. O. E. Kendall, the father of Mrs. James S. Kevil, 354 North Kingshighway, was possibly the second doctor to practice medicine in Sikeston. He was the grandfather of Mayor Kendall Sikes and John Sikes.

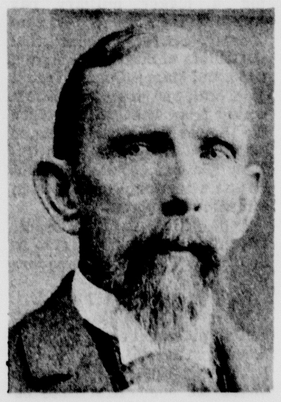

The late Dr. Kendall came to Sikeston in 1868 to help his preceptor, Dr. James Fields, who arrived several years before. He came with the intention of staying only two months, but for 60 years never changed residence.

Sikeston, said Dr. Kendall, "was just a wide place in the road on top of this hill ridge." Sikeston then had four houses and one store. Often Dr. Kendall would travel 20 miles or more on horseback to treat the ill.

On Aug. 13, 1867, Kendall married Lucada Moore. They had one son, the late Dr. Luther Kendall. Mrs. Kendall died in 1867, and in 1877 he married Susan Chaney. She bore him eight children. His son was associated with him in practice.

He was born in Paris, Tenn., Jan. 2, 1846. In 1861, he enlisted in Company G, Ninth Tennessee calvalry and served under General Nathan Forest. He fought in the battle of Harrisburg and a number of other hard skirmishes. He left the service in 1865 and sold drugs for the next two years.

In 1866 and 1867 he attended Vanderbilt Medical School in Nashville, Tenn. After graduating in 1868, he came to Southeast Missouri to practice at Ogden, a settlement located about 10 miles south of Sikeston that is no longer in existence.

Dr. O. E. Kendall

Dr. Kendall told the reporter of a St. Louis paper: "I remember once during one of the coldest winters, there was a man reported to be dying of pneumonia at his shack 12 miles out in the swamps. I started to him on my horse. I came to a slough that I thought had enough ice on it to carry us both, but with the first step the horse fell through. The water was waist high, so I jumped out, grabbed a pole and broke the ice as I waded through the water and lead the horse.

"I made it to my man and stayed with him for three hours without changing my clothes, went back the way I came, broke the ice in the slough again and returned to Sikeston none the worse for wear."

He once said:

Dong Xoai Battle Ends

SAIGON, Viet Nam - The battle for Dong Xoai ended today with heavy casualties on both sides. The routed Viet Cong left district headquarters in ruins, strewn with bodies of men, women and children.

U.S. military authorities said the latest count of American casualties in the battle were 3 dead, 15 wounded and 15 missing. Eight of the missing were crewmen on two helicopters destroyed by enemy fire. A newsman who visited the town 60 miles north of Saigon said several American bodies were found in the ruins.

An 11-man U.S. Army Special Forces team and a nine-man U.S. Navy Seabee squad engaged in building an airstrip were at the district headquarters when the Viet Cong attacked Wednesday night.

The number of U.S. casualties in Viet Nam jumped again when a two-engine C123 transport ferrying ammunition and supplies crashed in flames in central Viet Nam, killing at least eight Americans.

OPEN HOUSE will be held Saturday from 1 to 5 p.m. and Sunday, 2 p.m. to 4 p.m. in the new building of the Dexter Statesman and Messenger. The building contains 5,800 square feet and is air conditioned. The building also houses the Statesman Office Supply Company and the Ben Cowan, Jr. Insurance Agency as well as the weekly newspaper.

Two Die, 18 Hurt In Fire

PLAINFIELD, N. J. - Fire swept through the sprawling century - old Victoria Hotel today, taking at least 2 lives, injuring 18 persons and leaving 2 more missing.

Two bodies were recovered from the ruins and firemen began searching for other victims.

The three-story hotel is located near the business district of this central New Jersey community.

More than 100 permanent and transient guests escaped the burning building located across the street from fire department headquarters.

A telephone dispatcher at the fire house spotted flames shooting from the second floor of the building and turned in the first alarm at 2:36 a.m. The blaze was brought under control at 5 a.m.

Police said the injured, included a policeman who suffered deep smoke inhalation in an attempt to rescue a 93-year-old woman trapped in the building.

The cause of the fire was not known immediately, but investigators believed it started on the second floor of the old frame building.

Space Story Unfolds Today

HOUSTON, Tex. - The story of an adventure crammed with mysterious satellites, a stroll in space and the anxiety of living four days in a hostile environment unfolds to the world today.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt and Edward H. White II relate their experiences to newsmen this morning. They will receive congratulations from President Johnson this afternoon.

In a switch of plans, the astronauts and their wives chose to ask President Johnson to come to Houston so congratulations could be shared with all employes of the Manned Spacecraft Center.

Johnson had invited the two spacemen and their families to his Texas ranch for the weekend. Thursday the President offered instead to make his first visit to the space center, the "astronauts' home."

The astronauts returned to Houston Thursday, and White said their homecoming was an event second only to the successful splashdown Monday.

Five Emergencies

Omission

Johnson Quits As Lilbourn City Marshal

LILBOURN -- The resignation of Monte Johnson as city marshal and the appointment of Johnny Martin of Risco as acting marshal were chief items of business passed upon this week by the city council.

Martin, who will soon move here with his wife and two daughters, is a former Lilbourn resident. For the past several years he has worked for the Risco Cotton and Grain Company.

Johnson has been marshal for more than six years. Prior to his first term as elected marshal, he served the city as night marshal for two years.

He resigned his position effective July 1 to accept employment as a liquor inspector with the state revenue department's division of liquor control. Johnson, his wife, and two daughters, will continue to live in Lilbourn.

In other city business, the council voted the same tax rate as that of previous years and gave approval for the annual vaccination of dogs.

Three Win Divorces

NEW MADRID - No criminal cases were heard and only three divorces were granted this week in the New Madrid County circuit court with Judge William L. Ragland of Caruthersville presiding.

Action in each of the divorce cases:

Joyce Glover versus James W. Glover - decree of divorce to Mrs. Glover with care and custody of two minor children.

Peggy Ruth Finney versus David C. Finney - decree of divorce to Mrs. Finney with care and custody of one minor child and $30 per month child support.

Donald Lee Maglothin versus Joyce Maglothin - decree of divorce to Mr. Maglothin. Mrs. Maglothin granted restoration of maiden name of Brewington.

Clerk Van H. Sharp, Jr., said that the next law day in the court will be June 22.

Cancel Bond Issue Election

NEW MADRID — A $225,000.00 bond issue election for sewer and waterworks extension was ordered cancelled by the board of altermen.

The bond issue had been set up at the May meeting, the $225,000.00 being necessary for establishing of a lagoon-type sewage disposal system instead of dumping the raw sewage into the Mississippi River and for other improvements to the sewer and waterworks system.

The board decided that there is considerable sentiment against the bond proposal and felt that a later date would be more satisfactory. The election had been set for June 22 and publication had been started.

Made Captain

MALMO, Sweden - The Malmo Fire Department has made jazz trumpeter Louis Armstrong an honorary captain.

85 Attend Camp At Bird Farm

The Oakwood day camp at the Lyle Bird farm, 12 miles south of Sikeston, drew 85 junior, senior and Cadette Girl Scouts from Sunday through Friday. With them were 20 leaders and assistants. The Cadette Scouts stayed for overnight camping.

In charge of the six-day encampment was the director, Mrs. Bob Hambrick; Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, assistant director; Mrs. Joe Dye, executive advisor; Mrs. Kenneth Henry, camp nurse, and Mrs. Ronald Eakers as food shopper.

Women who served as consultant leaders for the three groups were, Mrs. Vera Wagner, Mrs. John Sargent, Mrs. Yvonne Holloway, Mrs. Clarice Davis, Miss Nancy Woods and Miss Sharon Spitzmiller.

Activities were hikes, pioneer badge activities, outdoor meal preparation and cooking with handmade fire ovens, food preparation and pots and pan racks.

Individual unit leaders were: Mrs. Doyle Lefler, Mrs. Jerry Dyer, Sally Faulkner, Mrs. Russell Ross and Cheryl Beck; Junior Scouts; Marsha Green and Martha Bess, Senior scout leaders; Mrs. Robert Summers, Mrs. Oren Dahl and Linda Cain; pioneer unit; Mrs. Walter Beck, Mrs. Joe H. Fox, Cadette unit.

The program ended at 2:30 p.m. with the awarding of badges to the Junior Scouts and Cadettes, who completed the requirements on cycling, painting, rambler and pioneering. The senior group will receive awards on program aide and aquatic aide.

Bixler Named Night Marshal

NEW MADRID -- The city council Monday appointed Jackie Bixler as night marshal. Bixler, a life - long Lilbourn resident, has been acting night marshal for the city.

The Council approved the purchase of a new Chevrolet three-quarter ton truck for the city's water and sewer department. Plans were made for reroofing the library.

A request for a liquor license was approved. The license was issued in the name of Robert Hendricks for Roberts Tobacco store on Main street.

In two other actions, the council instructed the mayor to enter into a contract with the Southwest Power Administration to provide city power, and the tax rate for the city was set at $1.60 per $100 of assessed valuation. This tax rate is the same as in past years.

$126,580 Lent To Aged Citizens

LILBOURN - Elderly persons, those who are 62 years and over, are taking advantage of the Farm Home Administration's home building loan program in ever increasing numbers, according to Richard T. Bartlett, county supervisor of the New Madrid county FHA.

In New Madrid County, Bartlett reports, the FHA has lent $126,580 to senior citizens for construction, buying, or repairing of homes during the first 11 months of fiscal 1965.

Wickliffe Driver Dies On Morehouse Curve

THIS IS THE 1951 Chevrolet in which John Ryon of Wickliffe, Ky., was killed this morning one mile west of Morehouse at the junction of highways 114 and highway 60.

Three Will Attend Forum

NEW MADRID -- Three New Madrid county high school students have been selected in countywide competition to attend the annual Freedom Forum in Mexico, Mo.

Those selected were James Crumley, Marston; Ella Mae Duff, Howardville; and Bernedette Klipfel, Portageville.

The three youngsters will attend the forum under the sponsorship of the New Madrid county Farm Bureau. The Bureau and individuals finance the trip.

While attending the forum, the youngsters will hear speakers of national and international acclaim. Among those scheduled to speak this year are Congressman Richard Ichord of Missouri, John Noble, one time captive of the Russians following World War II, and W. Cleon Skousen, a writer and former FBI agent.

Participants in the county competition were required to submit an essay on the obligations of a citizen in a democracy. Those young people who submitted papers judged best were then interviewed before final selection was made.

Former Bertrand Man Hurt

An aged Wickliffe, Ky., man was killed and a former Bertrand man injured seriously in two automobile accidents this morning and yesterday afternoon.

A man tentatively identified by papers on his person as John Ryon, 84, of Wickliffe was killed when his car failed to circle a curve one mile west of Morehouse at the intersection of highways 114 and 60.

Charles Voelker, 20-year-old former Bertrand man, was injured in a three-car collision in Ste. Genevieve county yesterday in which a Ste. Genevieve county girl was killed.

Ryon was traveling alone in his 1951 Chevrolet on route 114 when he lost control. The car was demolished. His body was taken to Watkins and son Funeral Home.

The accident in which Voelker sustained a fractured back occurred at 12:15 p.m. yesterday. He is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Albert (Dutch) Voelker of Cape Girardeau and is a student of Southeast Missouri State College there.

Maureen Dempsey, 17, was killed.

Three others were hurt. They are Miriam Dempsey, 50, and Cathleen Dempsey, 10, both of Ste. Genevieve, who suffered fractures and bruises. John Becker, Jr., 22, St. Charles, driver of a second car involved in the crash, received a hip injury and bruises.

The injured were taken to Perry County Memorial Hospital in Perryville.

The Dempsey car was following a car, which was braked suddenly. To avoid a collision the Dempsey car swung to the center line of highway 61 and met head on the approaching car driven by Becker.

Raymond Moore, 27, Jackson, driving the third car, was unable to stop and collided with the Becker vehicle. He was not hurt.

Johnson Quits As Lilbourn City Marshal

LILBOURN -- The resignation of Monte Johnson as city marshal and the appointment of Johnny Martin of Risco as acting marshal were chief items of business passed upon this week by the city council.

Martin, who will soon move here with his wife and two daughters, is a former Lilbourn resident. For the past several years he has worked for the Risco Cotton and Grain Company.

Johnson has been marshal for more than six years. Prior to his first term as elected marshal, he served the city as night marshal for two years.

He resigned his position effective July 1 to accept employment as a liquor inspector with the state revenue department's division of liquor control. Johnson, his wife, and two daughters, will continue to live in Lilbourn.

In other city business, the council voted the same tax rate as that of previous years and gave approval for the annual vaccination of dogs.

Three Win Divorces

NEW MADRID - No criminal cases were heard and only three divorces were granted this week in the New Madrid County circuit court with Judge William L. Ragland of Caruthersville presiding.

Action in each of the divorce cases:

Joyce Glover versus James W. Glover - decree of divorce to Mrs. Glover with care and custody of two minor children.

Peggy Ruth Finney versus David C. Finney - decree of divorce to Mrs. Finney with care and custody of one minor child and $30 per month child support.

Donald Lee Maglothin versus Joyce Maglothin - decree of divorce to Mr. Maglothin. Mrs. Maglothin granted restoration of maiden name of Brewington.

Clerk Van H. Sharp, Jr., said that the next law day in the court will be June 22.

Cancel Bond Issue Election

NEW MADRID — A $225,000.00 bond issue election for sewer and waterworks extension was ordered cancelled by the board of altermen.

The bond issue had been set up at the May meeting, the $225,000.00 being necessary for establishing of a lagoon-type sewage disposal system instead of dumping the raw sewage into the Mississippi River and for other improvements to the sewer and waterworks system.

The board decided that there is considerable sentiment against the bond proposal and felt that a later date would be more satisfactory. The election had been set for June 22 and publication had been started.

Made Captain

MALMO, Sweden - The Malmo Fire Department has made jazz trumpeter Louis Armstrong an honorary captain.

85 Attend Camp At Bird Farm

The Oakwood day camp at the Lyle Bird farm, 12 miles south of Sikeston, drew 85 junior, senior and Cadette Girl Scouts from Sunday through Friday. With them were 20 leaders and assistants. The Cadette Scouts stayed for overnight camping.

In charge of the six-day encampment was the director, Mrs. Bob Hambrick; Mrs. Maurice Stauffer, assistant director; Mrs. Joe Dye, executive advisor; Mrs. Kenneth Henry, camp nurse, and Mrs. Ronald Eakers as food shopper.

Women who served as consultant leaders for the three groups were, Mrs. Vera Wagner, Mrs. John Sargent, Mrs. Yvonne Holloway, Mrs. Clarice Davis, Miss Nancy Woods and Miss Sharon Spitzmiller.

Activities were hikes, pioneer badge activities, outdoor meal preparation and cooking with handmade fire ovens, food preparation and pots and pan racks.

Individual unit leaders were: Mrs. Doyle Lefler, Mrs. Jerry Dyer, Sally Faulkner, Mrs. Russell Ross and Cheryl Beck; Junior Scouts; Marsha Green and Martha Bess, Senior scout leaders; Mrs. Robert Summers, Mrs. Oren Dahl and Linda Cain; pioneer unit; Mrs. Walter Beck, Mrs. Joe H. Fox, Cadette unit.

The program ended at 2:30 p.m. with the awarding of badges to the Junior Scouts and Cadettes, who completed the requirements on cycling, painting, rambler and pioneering. The senior group will receive awards on program aide and aquatic aide.

Bixler Named Night Marshal

NEW MADRID -- The city council Monday appointed Jackie Bixler as night marshal. Bixler, a life - long Lilbourn resident, has been acting night marshal for the city.

The Council approved the purchase of a new Chevrolet three-quarter ton truck for the city's water and sewer department. Plans were made for reroofing the library.

A request for a liquor license was approved. The license was issued in the name of Robert Hendricks for Roberts Tobacco store on Main street.

In two other actions, the council instructed the mayor to enter into a contract with the Southwest Power Administration to provide city power, and the tax rate for the city was set at $1.60 per $100 of assessed valuation. This tax rate is the same as in past years.

$126,580 Lent To Aged Citizens

LILBOURN - Elderly persons, those who are 62 years and over, are taking advantage of the Farm Home Administration's home building loan program in ever increasing numbers, according to Richard T. Bartlett, county supervisor of the New Madrid county FHA.

In New Madrid County, Bartlett reports, the FHA has lent $126,580 to senior citizens for construction, buying, or repairing of homes during the first 11 months of fiscal 1965.

If the Outdoor Advertising industry means what it says a lot of billboards are going to disappear from the highways.

This industry has a lobby that is as aggressive and effective as it has been successful gobbling up the land of farmers and city dwellers alike to spot big signs on the highways and streets. If beauty lies beyond, motorists don't see it.

The lobby is so persuasive that only a few states have accepted a federal offer to reduce their cost of building interstate highways if they would regulate placing of billboards along the new roads. Legislatures across the land have shown a profound dislike for accepting this reasonable requirement.

In the face of this record and vigorous opposition to billboard regulation in the past, The Outdoor Advertising Association of America, Inc. is supporting President Lyndon B. Johnson's proposed legislation to eliminate most billboards from major highways.

"Billboards have no place in the scenic areas of our highways. Cities and towns, too, in the last half of the 20th century should and must be places of beauty," the association wrote the President.

"Outdoor advertising will, in the future, relate to the environment of the community, and we will support legislation and engage in voluntary effort to meet these ends."

The legislation would reduce various companies' outdoor advertising displays one to 15 per cent.

The association promises that "we will restrict our outdoor advertising structures to those areas zoned for business and industry or predominately used for business and industry."

Sounds great! We'll believe it when we see it happening!

"Tuesday's Supreme Court decision striking down Federal law making it a crime for a Communist to serve as an official of a labor union underscores the absolute necessity of preserving 14 (b) and extending the protection of Right to Work laws to all Americans," Reed Larson, Executive Vice President of the National Right to Work Committee said.

"What this decision means is that if Congress repeals 14 (b), American workers in all 50 states can be forced to pay dues to Communist-dominated unions or lose his job. This is a price no American worker should be forced to pay."

Section 14 (b) is that part of the Taft-Hartley Act that reaffirms the right of the individual States to make compulsory unionism illegal. 19 States have Right to Work laws. The House Subcommittee on labor ended hearings Tuesday on a bill that would repeal 14 (b).

Mr. Larson said that the only people happy with the Court decision were Communists such as Gus Hall. "Mr. Hall was quoted as saying that with this decision union members can again elect Communists without fear of punishment whenever they are convinced it best serves their ownself interests.' What he fails to point out is that where compulsory unionism exists -- in 31 States -- the individual union member cannot leave the union without losing his job when he is convinced that the union and its officials are not serving his own self interests.

A START IS MADE

Some 400 Southeast Missourians, including 100 who are below the age of 21, will receive valuable vocational training as a result of a far-sighted Sikeston Public School program. The project is a part of the federal Manpower Development Act, which seeks to train both school dropouts and those who perennially dot the unemployment roles and turn them into regularly-employed wage earners.

The Sikeston Board of Education and Sikeston's highly - competent superintendent of schools, Lynn Twitty, deserve credit for inaugurating the program in Southeast Missouri by providing not only the initiative for this worthwhile project but classroom space, competent faculty and professional guidance and direction.

Properly developed, the program holds great promise for the chronic unemployed in the Bootheel and those unfortunate youngsters who, for a variety of reasons, quit their education before receiving a high school diploma.

Trainees, who will be enrolled for a period of 50 weeks, will be paid approximately the same amount as they would receive from their unemployment checks. Yet while being paid, the trainees will receive both special education courses and valuable vocational training that will equip them to secure employment upon the completion of the course. Specialized skills will be taught, but even more important, the trainees will be given special courses designed to move them out of the educationally-illiterate category. There is more to vocational training than the actual mechanics of learning a specific job and the program wisely recognizes this fact.

One of the neglected functions of public schools is providing programs not only for the literate but the educational, vocational and social illiterate as well. Most school districts lack the funds to expand programs into this field, but Superintendent Twitty and others were alert enough to find a source that did provide sufficient funds.

Thanks to their leadership, a start is being made to correct one of Southeast Missouri's chronic problems.

SALES MADE AT HOME

A large Canadian retailer told an audience last summer, "The sale takes place in the home, only the transaction takes place in the store."

He was making a plea for more complete newspaper advertisements and contended that if the store's newspaper advertising was to have selling effectiveness it had to be strong in selling points.

He thought that retail advertising was weak in news value and in timing. The most sales result in presenting the sales story when sales opportunities are the greatest.

Newspaper advertising presents the greatest opportunity to do a selling job in the home, he told his listeners. The paper arrives and acutally waits the customer's convenience. It stays around until every member of the family has had an opportunity to get the advertising message.

Men have apparently always feared and resisted change, especially technological change.

It should not surprise us to learn that back in the 13th century, long before the beginning of the industrial age, Edward I of England made it a capital offense to burn coal, because of the "dangerous" fumes.

But it is hard today for us moderns to believe that the use of chloroform as an anaesthetic aroused a public controversy only a century ago. It was considered immoral and against the Biblical injunction that pain was man's--or at least woman's lot.

We are amused to hear of the grave warnings of physicians, when the first railroads were built in England, that human beings could not survive breath-taking speeds like 10 or 15 miles an hour -- not to mention the mental confusion that would be caused by scenery rapidly flashing by.

And not so long ago, in the early days of the automobile, many cities considered these new-fangled inventions a threat to public safety and tranquillity and passed severely restrictive laws against them when they did not ban them outright. St. Louis, for one, levied a $10 fee on any motorist passing through.

Recalling these and other examples of our ancestors' irrational opposition to technical advances, Dr. Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, has been moved to coin a new word: "technophobia," the fear of technology.

We, of course, no longer suffer from this primitive complaint, In fact, we have gone to the other extreme, embracing changes simply for the sake of change. Or have we?

Seaborg cites the example of the fluoridation of drinking water, an issue mixing morality, politics and technophobia that still divides many communities.

In Seaborg's own field, popular fears of nuclear energy retard the exploitation of its peaceful possibilities. The public remembers the Bomb and thinks of nuclear power generators as potential bombs. Yet the first use of atomic energy was a controlled reaction; turning it into a bomb was a much more difficult process.

There have been remarkably few accidents since the first reactor was assembled under Stagg Field at the University of Chicago in 1942. During this period of almost a quarter of a century, in no accident was the health and safety of the general public endangered.

There are, says Seaborg, plenty of real dangers arising from technology -- air pollution, for instance -- without worrying about those that don't exist.

Fortunately, the very technology that creates these problems also gives us the weapons we need to deal with them.

A Texan went into a bar and said, "Give me the tallest glass you've got and one lemon."

The bartender obliged.

The Texan squeezed the lemon and got almost a pint of juice. Tossing aside the lemon rind, he said, "I'd like to see anyone else get that much juice from just one lemon."

A little fellow standing near-by said, "Let me have a tall glass and the lemon rind you just threw away." He then took the lemon rind and squeezed another full glass of juice from the already used rind.

"Man!" exclaimed the Texan. "I never saw anything like that. How did you do it?"

"Well, you see," replied the man quietly, "I'm with the Internal Revenue Service."

NEVER A DULL MOMENT FOR ROYAL DOMESTICS

Servants are servants to servants at Buckingham Palace, where more than 200 persons man the 760 rooms. But in spite of exacting formalities, rigid discipline, long hours, and skimpy earnings, the Catholic Digest notes that it's still a swinging p(a)lace to work.

The royal domestic staff has certain advantages, in spite of salaries ranging from $18 to $36.50 a week (compared to an average of $45 in industry). Besides security of employment, pensions (provided they don't sell their memoirs), and a year's sick pay, they have a chance each year for the thrill of a lifetime: to dance with the Queen or Prince Philip at the Christmas staff ball.

And there's the chance to rub elbows with Charles Oulton, the palace steward and #1 servant in the world. They can watch him press the red and green traffic lights outside the banquet hall, telling footmen and underbutlers when to wait and when to go. He also carves the royal turkey on Christmas.

When things get dull, they can observe the royal clock winder, who winds 300 clocks a day; the royal electrician, who maintains 50 TV sets; and the Yeoman of the Silver Pantry, the Pages of the Presence, and the Clerk of the Closet. And the undernannies, footmen, ladies-in - waiting, pages, and chauffeurs can always try to sneak in a session learning "The Philip," the London twist.

"Forward March!"

Hal Boyle

Every military campaign creates new slang and fresh expressions that make our English language more colorful.

The war in South Viet Nam has produced a number of them already — and more will follow as the fighting goes on.

For example French maps are used here that measure distances in kilometers rather than in miles. But no one calls kilometer a kilometer. It's a "click."

In Korea, the enemy was referred to as "gooks." Here they are called the Viet Cong, but the U.S. Marines have shortened this to "them Congs."

The big verb over here is some form of the word "zap." You don't shoot an enemy — you zap him.

But by far the most widely used expression is "sorry about that." It is ironical in nature and can be translated roughly as meaning, "I know you've got big troubles, but why do you think that makes you any different from me? Solve them yourself."

Many of the servicemen now are wearing "sorry about that" shoulder patches sewn on to their uniforms by Chinese or Indian tailors. When someone starts to pour out his woes to you, you simply point at the patch, smile sympathetically—, and go your way.

Weary of insect pests, a couple of correspondents told the waitress at the Da Nang press center, "Can't you find us a couple of fly swatters?"

The girl smiled, nodded, disappeared. She returned shortly and set two glasses of ice water before them.

The newsmen were mystified. Finally, one said glumly:

"I get it. You ask for fly swatters and you get iced waters. I'm afraid we're going to be in this country longer than I thought."

Tall, slender Herbert J. Minikus, 35, an Air Force sergeant who plans to settle in Austin, Tex., some day, received the pleasant news that he had been promoted to master sergeant. In a mood of celebration he went to the noncommissioned officers club, "Take Ten."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Johnson doesn't know it, but last week Lt. Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force Chief of Staff, dropped word at an Air Force staff meeting that there would be some new Chiefs of Staff around the Pentagon soon.

Since it's the President's job to appoint new Chiefs of Staff, General McConnell's remark may come as a surprise to LBJ.

However, McConnell went on to say that he was going to fight for a bigger military pay increase than the 5 per cent Johnson had recommended, that the Chiefs of Staff of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps were all with him, and would maintain a united front when called before the House and Senate Armed Services Committees to testify. They planned to blast the Administration for proposing such a meager pay increase.

If he failed, Gen. McConnell told his staff, he didn't plan to be around Washington any longer.

—MILITARY CHAMPION—

Shortly after Gen. McConnell's private remarks, Rep. Mendel Rivers, who comes from Sumter, S.C., the city where the south first fired on the north, staged his own rebellion against the Johnson Administration. He proposed a 10 per cent pay increase for the military instead of 5 per cent.

"The Administration pay increase is nothing short of scandalous," Rep. Rivers told congressmen.

Rivers, who is Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, listened scornfully as Secretary of Defense McNamara explained to congressmen that a 5 per cent increase would bring the total earnings of the average military officer up to or "exceed those of an average college graduate —even one in engineering or science for the first twenty-two years, and exceed such earnings by 20 per cent thereafter."

The McNamara increase would cost the taxpayers $369 million annually. The pay raise proposed by the congressman from South Carolina would cost the taxpayers $825 million annually.

Not many who watched the byplay between McNamara and Rivers knew that almost every weekend the Air Force hauls trundled out an airplane at the MATS terminal in Washington for congressman Rivers to fly back to Charleston, S.C., with another plane returning him to Washington Monday morning.

The Navy has been equally kind to the courtly South Carolinian. When he has suffered from one of his benders, the Navy has sent an ambulance to take him up to the Bethesda Naval Hospital to dry out.

—DELIGHTFUL WHEN SOBER—

Rivers is a charming, delightful person when sober. He was one of the few Southern Solons to welcome Lady Bird Johnson on her southern political trip last October. However, as previously reported in this column in detail, he has disgraced himself on foreign junkets. And for proven periods he has had to hide out in private quarters while friends and doctors worked to sober him up.

Despite this, "seniority," which automatically promotes congressmen if they remain in office long enough, has elevated Rivers to the powerful position of Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Note: Lyndon Johnson when in Congress was a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee, serving with Rivers; later ranked high on the Senate Armed Services Committee and on the Military Appropriations Subcommittee. In these positions he was a great champion of the armed services. Some critics today claim this is why he has followed a vigorous military policy in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. As President, however, he has to balance pay increases for both the military and civilians.

—OVER THE BRINK??—

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have been making secret recommendations to President Johnson regarding Viet Nam. Their recommendations worry the President regarding the possibility of all-out war.

1. The use of nuclear weapons against Red China if the Chinese send troops into North Viet Nam. The Joint Chiefs have unanimously recommended a nuclear strike against the Chinese mainland, first to knock out the Chinese nuclear laboratories, later Chinese industrial cities.

2. That we bomb Russian Ilyushin bombers recently spotted in North Viet Nam. The Air Force believes Russia sent them to test American reaction, therefore has recommended that they be blasted immediately.

Pentagon sources leaked the presence of the Ilyushin bombers to Pentagon-oriented newsmen when the President did not act immediately on the Air Force recommendation.

Ilyushin bombers have been present in Cuba for two years, but the United States has taken the position under both Kennedy and Johnson that they are defensive weapons, actually considered obsolete.

3. The Pentagon has recommended to LBJ that we bomb SAM anti-aircraft missile sites now being installed around Hanoi. We have not bombed similar SAM sites in Cuba, have considered them defensive and not dangerous.

President Johnson has asked for an intelligence estimate as to the Russian reaction if we bombed their missile sites around Hanoi. The estimate came back that the Russians would protest bitterly but would not retaliate militarily. The President is not sure, however, that this is correct.

These are some of the difficult, dangerous decisions the President is weighing at a time when anti-American leader Mikhail Suslov is becoming more powerful inside the Kremlin.

Cuba, left in Communist hands only 90 miles from our shore, may seem to Cubans and Communists alike a slow form of surrender by the United States.

The best informed anti-communists think men high in our diplomatic service installed Communist Castro to become an ugly dictator of this garden spot. The Cuban situation necessarily creates a foreboding influence on all other Latin American countries.

The United States' conduct of the Bay of Pigs fiasco indicated that we preferred that Cuba not become free.

Likewise, the United States' attitude toward heads of all governments friendly to our country, of which few remain, may indicate to nations abroad that we prefer them to become Communist nations or, if not, at least countries steeped in vigorous socialism.

Our present attitude in Santo Domingo is in the nature of a revolution on our part. Those in the best position to know state if a neutral government is formed Communists in the cabinet will take control in a short time. The Dominican affair is said to fit neatly into a blueprint for Communist subversion prepared in Castro's Cuba in November 1964 at a highly secret meeting of Communist Party representatives from 22 Latin American countries.

Our present courageous stand in South Vietnam, considered in the light of what happened in Korea and Laos, is also a revolution which we must hope will be for the better and continued in the cause of sanity. It is very important that our government not depend on those in our diplomatic service who participated in handing over China, Laos and Cuba to the Communists. Possible saboteurs should not be risked to shape the policy ostensibly designed to ward off Communism in other countries friendly to us. HLH

WASHINGTON, D. C. — During a conversation with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, head of the German Government, shortly before he conferred with President Johnson, I asked him how his nation became the world's most prosperous land after so devastating a defeat 20 years ago. How did it develop an economy which has a million jobs open, waiting for workers from any part of the world?

Here is the Chancellor's reply as he submitted it in writing. It is the first time Mr. Erhard has put himself on record in an exclusive interview with an American newspaperman.

By Ludwig Erhard
Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany

"All over the world today, socialism is still being offered as a ready-made answer to economic and political problems. And yet such a solution is illogical in light of what is happening today in Europe and America.

"In the past, socialism was an attempt to provide an answer to the social injustices and economic crises caused by the industrial revolution and the rise of capitalist economies. As far as Germany is concerned —and I know this is true of other countries as well — these crises have been largely overcome.

"And as for the remaining problems, we now know how they are to be solved. The fact is that Germany, like most Western democracies, is no longer a society of class conflict and exploitation but a community that has found democratic equilibrium and social and economic balance.

"Socialist philosophy cannot answer the problems all of us face today. This is true even of democratic socialism which — in contrast to communism — has come around to recognizing the pluralism of our society, the freedom to own property and parliamentary democracy itself.

"It was not socialism that built a new Europe and a new Germany out of the ashes of war. It was not Socialist theory that forged a democratic alliance among the North Atlantic nations for the defense of our liberties; that created the Common Market and thus ended ancient continental rivalries; that set aside billions of dollars for aid to Asian and African countries; that absorbed 13 million penniless refugees from behind the Iron Curtain into Germany, including many hundreds of thousands of workers fleeing from the "workers' paradise" of communism.

"The world speaks of the German miracle, but I see it as a natural and logical development that came out of individual cooperation, freedom and opportunity. This unity was one of the causes of our rapid economic recovery.

"Another was the decision to free our economy from all restrictions and red tape. This freedom to let our economy grow organically did not, as some then believed, imperil our society but, on the contrary, was its best guarantee for the security of all.

"In the true democratic tradition of government guidance rather than dominance, we "shaped" our society so it could be in a position to answer the needs of the people for housing, clothing, food, transportation. We instituted measures to protect one segment of the population from another. We limited self-interest and set up rules to stabilize government and inspire confidence. We tried to use wisely the generous aid given by the U.S. to get us going along the path of democracy under the Marshall Plan.

"Frankly, we were surprised by how much a free people can accomplish in so short a time. Although our country is torn in two, the free part of Germany now produces more than twice as much steel and over eleven times the amount of cars and trucks as it did in pre-war Germany.

"With our new economic methods of producing wealth and consuming it equitably, we have created 27 million jobs (half our total population), not only for German citizens, but for a million workers coming from a dozen countries stretching from Turkey to Spain.

"Almost 40 per cent of the German work force are women who receive equal pay for equal work, a provision written into our Constitution. And there are another million jobs still unfilled, which is the reason we are called an "over-employed" country.

"Seventeen years ago it was considered radical to give unrestricted freedom and economic opportunity to the people, but we felt our policies would set free the inherent energies of all individuals who yearn to build a present and a future for themselves and their families. We could not, of course, gauge the extent to which this yearning for freedom would build a society of material wealth and cultural enjoyment.

"No one can deny that we are in the midst of a serious challenge to our society and our way of life. This means not only Germany but all those countries on both sides of the Atlantic that have developed a system of advanced technology combined with social security.

"The essence of the challenge is not military power — but whether the free society of the West can develop and grow at a more rapid pace and in a more fruitful manner than the society established by the Communists in eastern Europe and Asia.

"I believe we shall be able to do it by completing what I call the "dynamic society", a society with a constantly growing technology in which individual citizens voluntarily work for the common good as well as for themselves, a society in which responsibility is the corollary of freedom.

"Only this kind of society will be able to meet the challenge which we face from those who are bent on erasing individual freedom and exalting communal effort beyond natural bounds.

"Only then will we be able to shape our future so that the new countries of Asia and Africa will follow our example. They will do this only if our society will appear to them to have more solid values, and to be more progressive and productive than the Communist system.

"This has been the case in the past, and it must be the goal for the future."

If the Outdoor Advertising industry means what it says a lot of billboards are going to disappear from the highways.

This industry has a lobby that is as aggressive and effective as it has been successful gobbling up the land of farmers and city dwellers alike to spot big signs on the highways and streets. If beauty lies beyond, motorists don't see it.

The lobby is so persuasive that only a few states have accepted a federal offer to reduce their cost of building interstate highways if they would regulate placing of billboards along the new roads. Legislatures across the land have shown a profound dislike for accepting this reasonable requirement.

In the face of this record and vigorous opposition to billboard regulation in the past, The Outdoor Advertising Association of America, Inc. is supporting President Lyndon B. Johnson's proposed legislation to eliminate most billboards from major highways.

"Billboards have no place in the scenic areas of our highways. Cities and towns, too, in the last half of the 20th century should and must be places of beauty," the association wrote the President.

"Outdoor advertising will, in the future, relate to the environment of the community, and we will support legislation and engage in voluntary effort to meet these ends."

The legislation would reduce various companies' outdoor advertising displays one to 15 per cent.

The association promises that "we will restrict our outdoor advertising structures to those areas zoned for business and industry or predominately used for business and industry."

Sounds great! We'll believe it when we see it happening!

"Tuesday's Supreme Court decision striking down Federal law making it a crime for a Communist to serve as an official of a labor union underscores the absolute necessity of preserving 14 (b) and extending the protection of Right to Work laws to all Americans," Reed Larson, Executive Vice President of the National Right to Work Committee said.

"What this decision means is that if Congress repeals 14 (b), American workers in all 50 states can be forced to pay dues to Communist-dominated unions or lose his job. This is a price no American worker should be forced to pay."

Section 14 (b) is that part of the Taft-Hartley Act that reaffirms the right of the individual States to make compulsory unionism illegal. 19 States have Right to Work laws. The House Subcommittee on labor ended hearings Tuesday on a bill that would repeal 14 (b).

Mr. Larson said that the only people happy with the Court decision were Communists such as Gus Hall. "Mr. Hall was quoted as saying that with this decision union members can again elect Communists without fear of punishment whenever they are convinced it best serves their ownself interests.' What he fails to point out is that where compulsory unionism exists -- in 31 States -- the individual union member cannot leave the union without losing his job when he is convinced that the union and its officials are not serving his own self interests.

A START IS MADE

Some 400 Southeast Missourians, including 100 who are below the age of 21, will receive valuable vocational training as a result of a far-sighted Sikeston Public School program. The project is a part of the federal Manpower Development Act, which seeks to train both school dropouts and those who perennially dot the unemployment roles and turn them into regularly-employed wage earners.

The Sikeston Board of Education and Sikeston's highly - competent superintendent of schools, Lynn Twitty, deserve credit for inaugurating the program in Southeast Missouri by providing not only the initiative for this worthwhile project but classroom space, competent faculty and professional guidance and direction.

Properly developed, the program holds great promise for the chronic unemployed in the Bootheel and those unfortunate youngsters who, for a variety of reasons, quit their education before receiving a high school diploma.

Trainees, who will be enrolled for a period of 50 weeks, will be paid approximately the same amount as they would receive from their unemployment checks. Yet while being paid, the trainees will receive both special education courses and valuable vocational training that will equip them to secure employment upon the completion of the course. Specialized skills will be taught, but even more important, the trainees will be given special courses designed to move them out of the educationally-illiterate category. There is more to vocational training than the actual mechanics of learning a specific job and the program wisely recognizes this fact.

One of the neglected functions of public schools is providing programs not only for the literate but the educational, vocational and social illiterate as well. Most school districts lack the funds to expand programs into this field, but Superintendent Twitty and others were alert enough to find a source that did provide sufficient funds.

Thanks to their leadership, a start is being made to correct one of Southeast Missouri's chronic problems.

SALES MADE AT HOME

A large Canadian retailer told an audience last summer, "The sale takes place in the home, only the transaction takes place in the store."

He was making a plea for more complete newspaper advertisements and contended that if the store's newspaper advertising was to have selling effectiveness it had to be strong in selling points.

He thought that retail advertising was weak in news value and in timing. The most sales result in presenting the sales story when sales opportunities are the greatest.

Newspaper advertising presents the greatest opportunity to do a selling job in the home, he told his listeners. The paper arrives and acutally waits the customer's convenience. It stays around until every member of the family has had an opportunity to get the advertising message.

Men have apparently always feared and resisted change, especially technological change.

It should not surprise us to learn that back in the 13th century, long before the beginning of the industrial age, Edward I of England made it a capital offense to burn coal, because of the "dangerous" fumes.

But it is hard today for us moderns to believe that the use of chloroform as an anaesthetic aroused a public controversy only a century ago. It was considered immoral and against the Biblical injunction that pain was man's--or at least woman's lot.

We are amused to hear of the grave warnings of physicians, when the first railroads were built in England, that human beings could not survive breath-taking speeds like 10 or 15 miles an hour -- not to mention the mental confusion that would be caused by scenery rapidly flashing by.

And not so long ago, in the early days of the automobile, many cities considered these new-fangled inventions a threat to public safety and tranquillity and passed severely restrictive laws against them when they did not ban them outright. St. Louis, for one, levied a $10 fee on any motorist passing through.

Recalling these and other examples of our ancestors' irrational opposition to technical advances, Dr Glenn T. Seaborg, chairman of the U.S. Atomic Energy Commission, has been moved to coin a new word: "technophobia," the fear of technology.

We, of course, no longer suffer from this primitive complaint, In fact, we have gone to the other extreme, embracing changes simply for the sake of change. Or have we?

Seaborg cites the example of the fluoridation of drinking water, an issue mixing morality, politics and technophobia that still divides many communities.

In Seaborg's own field, popular fears of nuclear energy retard the exploitation of its peaceful possibilities. The public remembers the Bomb and thinks of nuclear power generators as potential bombs. Yet the first use of atomic energy was a controlled reaction; turning it into a bomb was a much more difficult process.

There have been remarkably few accidents since the first reactor was assembled under Stagg Field at the University of Chicago in 1942. During this period of almost a quarter of a century, in no accident was the health and safety of the general public endangered.

There are, says Seaborg, plenty of real dangers arising from technology -- air pollution, for instance -- without worrying about those that don't exist.

Fortunately, the very technology that creates these problems also gives us the weapons we need to deal with them.

A Texan went into a bar and said, "Give me the tallest glass you've got and one lemon."

The bartender obliged.

The Texan squeezed the lemon and got almost a pint of juice. Tossing aside the lemon rind, he said, "I'd like to see anyone else get that much juice from just one lemon."

A little fellow standing near-by said, "Let me have a tall glass and the lemon rind you just threw away." He then took the lemon rind and squeezed another full glass of juice from the already used rind.

"Man!" exclaimed the Texan. "I never saw anything like that. How did you do it?"

"Well, you see," replied the man quietly, "I'm with the Internal Revenue Service."

NEVER A DULL MOMENT FOR ROYAL DOMESTICS

Servants are servants to servants at Buckingham Palace, where more than 200 persons man the 760 rooms. But in spite of exacting formalities, rigid discipline, long hours, and skimpy earnings, the Catholic Digest notes that it's still a swinging p(a)lace to work.

The royal domestic staff has certain advantages, in spite of salaries ranging from $18 to $36.50 a week (compared to an average of $45 in industry). Besides security of employment, pensions (provided they don't sell their memoirs), and a year's sick pay, they have a chance each year for the thrill of a lifetime: to dance with the Queen or Prince Philip at the Christmas staff ball.

And there's the chance to rub elbows with Charles Oulton, the palace steward and #1 servant in the world. They can watch him press the red and green traffic lights outside the banquet hall, telling footmen and underbutlers when to wait and when to go. He also carves the royal turkey on Christmas.

When things get dull, they can observe the royal clock winder, who winds 300 clocks a day; the royal electrician, who maintains 50 TV sets; and the Yeoman of the Silver Pantry, the Pages of the Presence, and the Clerk of the Closet. And the undernannies, footmen, ladies-in - waiting, pages, and chauffeurs can always try to sneak in a session learning "The Philip," the London twist.

Cuba, left in Communist hands only 90 miles from our shore, may seem to Cubans and Communists alike a slow form of surrender by the United States.

The best informed anti-communists think men high in our diplomatic service installed Communist Castro to become an ugly dictator of this garden spot. The Cuban situation necessarily creates a foreboding influence on all other Latin American countries.

The United States' conduct of the Bay of Pigs fiasco indicated that we preferred that Cuba not become free.

Likewise, the United States' attitude toward heads of all governments friendly to our country, of which few remain, may indicate to nations abroad that we prefer them to become Communist nations or, if not, at least countries steeped in vigorous socialism.

Our present attitude in Santo Domingo is in the nature of a revolution on our part. Those in the best position to know state if a neutral government is formed Communists in the cabinet will take control in a short time. The Dominican affair is said to fit neatly into a blueprint for Communist subversion prepared in Castro's Cuba in November 1964 at a highly secret meeting of Communist Party representatives from 22 Latin American countries.

Our present courageous stand in South Vietnam, considered in the light of what happened in Korea and Laos, is also a revolution which we must hope will be for the better and continued in the cause of sanity. It is very important that our government not depend on those in our diplomatic service who participated in handing over China, Laos and Cuba to the Communists. Possible saboteurs should not be risked to shape the policy ostensibly designed to ward off Communism in other countries friendly to us. HLH

WASHINGTON, D. C. — During a conversation with Chancellor Ludwig Erhard, head of the German Government, shortly before he conferred with President Johnson, I asked him how his nation became the world's most prosperous land after so devastating a defeat 20 years ago. How did it develop an economy which has a million jobs open, waiting for workers from any part of the world?

Here is the Chancellor's reply as he submitted it in writing. It is the first time Mr. Erhard has put himself on record in an exclusive interview with an American newspaperman.

By Ludwig Erhard
Chancellor of the Federal Republic of Germany

"All over the world today, socialism is still being offered as a ready-made answer to economic and political problems. And yet such a solution is illogical in light of what is happening today in Europe and America.

"In the past, socialism was an attempt to provide an answer to the social injustices and economic crises caused by the industrial revolution and the rise of capitalist economies. As far as Germany is concerned — and I know this is true of other countries as well — these crises have been largely overcome.

"And as for the remaining problems, we now know how they are to be solved. The fact is that Germany, like most Western democracies, is no longer a society of class conflict and exploitation but a community that has found democratic equilibrium and social and economic balance.

"Socialist philosophy cannot answer the problems all of us face today. This is true even of democratic socialism which — in contrast to communism — has come around to recognizing the pluralism of our society, the freedom to own property and parliamentary democracy itself.

"It was not socialism that built a new Europe and a new Germany out of the ashes of war. It was not Socialist theory that forged a democratic alliance among the North Atlantic nations for the defense of our liberties; that created the Common Market and thus ended ancient continental rivalries; that set aside billions of dollars for aid to Asian and African countries; that absorbed 13 million penniless refugees from behind the Iron Curtain into Germany, including many hundreds of thousands of workers fleeing from the "workers' paradise" of communism.

"The world speaks of the German miracle, but I see it as a natural and logical development that came out of individual cooperation, freedom and opportunity. This unity was one of the causes of our rapid economic recovery.

"Another was the decision to free our economy from all restrictions and red tape. This freedom to let our economy grow organically did not, as some then believed, imperil our society but, on the contrary, was its best guarantee for the security of all.

"In the true democratic tradition of government guidance rather than dominance, we "shaped" our society so it could be in a position to answer the needs of the people for housing, clothing, food, transportation. We instituted measures to protect one segment of the population from another. We limited self-interest and set up rules to stabilize government and inspire confidence. We tried to use wisely the generous aid given by the U.S. to get us going along the path of democracy under the Marshall Plan.

"Frankly, we were surprised by how much a free people can accomplish in so short a time. Although our country is torn in two, the free part of Germany now produces more than twice as much steel and over eleven times the amount of cars and trucks as it did in pre-war Germany.

"With our new economic methods of producing wealth and consuming it equitably, we have created 27 million jobs (half our total population), not only for German citizens, but for a million workers coming from a dozen countries stretching from Turkey to Spain.

"Almost 40 per cent of the German work force are women who receive equal pay for equal work, a provision written into our Constitution. And there are another million jobs still unfilled, which is the reason we are called an "over-employed" country.

"Seventeen years ago it was considered radical to give unrestricted freedom and economic opportunity to the people, but we felt our policies would set free the inherent energies of all individuals who yearn to build a present and a future for themselves and their families. We could not, of course, gauge the extent to which this yearning for freedom would build a society of material wealth and cultural enjoyment.

"No one can deny that we are in the midst of a serious challenge to our society and our way of life. This means not only Germany but all those countries on both sides of the Atlantic that have developed a system of advanced technology combined with social security.

"The essence of the challenge is not military power — but whether the free society of the West can develop and grow at a more rapid pace and in a more fruitful manner than the society established by the Communists in eastern Europe and Asia.

"I believe we shall be able to do it by completing what I call the "dynamic society", a society with a constantly growing technology in which individual citizens voluntarily work for the common good as well as for themselves, a society in which responsibility is the corollary of freedom.

"Only this kind of society will be able to meet the challenge which we face from those who are bent on erasing individual freedom and exalting communal effort beyond natural bounds.

"Only then will we be able to shape our future so that the new countries of Asia and Africa will follow our example. They will do this only if our society will appear to them to have more solid values, and to be more progressive and productive than the Communist system.

"This has been the case in the past, and it must be the goal for the future."

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Drew Pearson

WASHINGTON — President Johnson doesn't know it, but last week Lt. Gen. John P. McConnell, Air Force Chief of Staff, dropped word at an Air Force staff meeting that there would be some new Chiefs of Staff around the Pentagon soon.

Since it's the President's job to appoint new Chiefs of Staff, General McConnell's remark may come as a surprise to LBJ.

However, McConnell went on to say that he was going to fight for a bigger military pay increase than the 5 per cent Johnson had recommended, that the Chiefs of Staff of the Army, Navy and Marine Corps were all with him, and would maintain a united front when called before the House and Senate Armed Services Committees to testify. They planned to blast the Administration for proposing such a meager pay increase.

If he failed, Gen. McConnell told his staff, he didn't plan to be around Washington any longer.

—MILITARY CHAMPION—

Shortly after Gen. McConnell's private remarks, Rep. Mendel Rivers, who comes from Sumter, S.C., the city where the south first fired on the north, staged his own rebellion against the Johnson Administration. He proposed a 10 per cent pay increase for the military instead of 5 per cent.

"The Administration pay increase is nothing short of scandalous," Rep. Rivers told congressmen.

Rivers, who is Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee, listened scornfully as Secretary of Defense McNamara explained to congressmen that a 5 per cent increase would bring the total earnings of the average military officer up to or "exceed those of an average college graduate — even one in engineering or science for the first twenty-two years, and exceed such earnings by 20 per cent thereafter."

The McNamara increase would cost the taxpayers $369 million annually. The pay raise proposed by the congressman from South Carolina would cost the taxpayers $825 million annually.

Not many who watched the by-play between McNamara and Rivers knew that almost every weekend the Air Force has trundled out an airplane at the MATS terminal in Washington for congressman Rivers to fly back to Charleston, S.C., with another plane returning him to Washington Monday morning.

The Navy has been equally kind to the courtly South Carolinian. When he has suffered from one of his benders, the Navy has sent an ambulance to take him up to the Bethesda Naval Hospital to dry out.

—DELIGHTFUL WHEN SOBER—

Rivers is a charming, delightful person when sober. He was one of the few Southern Solons to welcome Lady Bird Johnson on her southern political trip last October. However, as previously reported in this column in detail, he has disgraced himself on foreign junkets. And for proven periods he has had to hide out in private quarters while friends and doctors worked to sober him up.

Despite this, "seniority," which automatically promotes congressmen if they remain in office long enough, has elevated Rivers to the powerful position of Chairman of the House Armed Services Committee.

Note: Lyndon Johnson when in Congress was a member of the House Naval Affairs Committee, serving with Rivers; later ranked high on the Senate Armed Services Committee and on the Military Appropriations Subcommittee. In these positions he was a great champion of the armed services. Some critics today claim this is why he has followed a vigorous military policy in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic. As President, however, he has to balance pay increases for both the military and civilians.

—OVER THE BRINK??—

The Joint Chiefs of Staff have been making secret recommendations to President Johnson regarding Viet Nam. Their recommendations worry the President regarding the possibility of all-out war.

1. The use of nuclear weapons against Red China if the Chinese send troops into North Viet Nam. The Joint Chiefs have unanimously recommended a nuclear strike against the Chinese mainland, first to knock out the Chinese nuclear laboratories, later Chinese industrial cities.

2. That we bomb Russian Ilyushin bombers recently spotted in North Viet Nam. The Air Force believes Russia sent them to test American reaction, therefore has recommended that they be blasted immediately.

Pentagon sources leaked the presence of the Ilyushin bombers to Pentagon-oriented newsmen when the President did not act immediately on the Air Force recommendation.

Ilyushin bombers have been present in Cuba for two years, but the United States has taken the position under both Kennedy and Johnson that they are defensive weapons, actually considered obsolete.

3. The Pentagon has recommended to LBJ that we bomb SAM anti-aircraft missile sites now being installed around Hanoi. We have not bombed similar SAM sites in Cuba, have considered them defensive and not dangerous.

President Johnson has asked for an intelligence estimate as to the Russian reaction if we bombed their missile sites around Hanoi. The estimate came back that the Russians would protest bitterly but would not retaliate militarily. The President is not sure, however, that this is correct.

These are some of the difficult, dangerous decisions the President is weighing at a time when anti-American leader Mikhail Suslov is becoming more powerful inside the Kremlin.

Every military campaign creates new slang and fresh expressions that make our English language more colorful.

The war in South Viet Nam has produced a number of them already — and more will follow as the fighting goes on.

For example French maps are used here that measure distances in kilometers rather than in miles. But no one calls kilometer a kilometer. It's a "click."

In Korea, the enemy was referred to as "gooks." Here they are called the Viet Cong, but the U.S. Marines have shortened this to "them Congs."

The big verb over here is some form of the word "zap." You don't shoot an enemy — you zap him.

But by far the most widely used expression is "sorry about that." It is ironical in nature and can be translated roughly as meaning, "I know you've got big troubles, but why do you think that makes you any different from me? Solve them yourself."

Many of the servicemen now are wearing "sorry about that" shoulder patches sewn on to their uniforms by Chinese or Indian tailors. When someone starts to pour out his woes to you, you simply point at the patch, smile sympathetically—, and go your way.

Weary of insect pests, a couple of correspondents told the waitress at the Da Nang press center, "Can't you find us a couple of fly swatters?"

The girl smiled, nodded, disappeared. She returned shortly and set two glasses of ice water before them.

The newsmen were mystified. Finally, one said glumly:

"I get it. You ask for fly swatters and you get iced waters. I'm afraid we're going to be in this country longer than I thought."

Tall, slender Herbert J. Minikus, 35, an Air Force sergeant who plans to settle in Austin, Tex., some day, received the pleasant news that he had been promoted to master sergeant. In a mood of celebration he went to the noncommissioned officers club, "Take Ten."

Mary Wells Says Vows With John Reuber In Springfield

Mary Wells of Springfield, Mo. and John Reuber, son of Mrs. Helen Reuber, were married in Springfield at 10 a.m. June 5 in the parlor of First Presbyterian Church in the presence of their immediate families.

The couple was attended by Suzy Kaiser of Kansas City, Mo., and Harold Reuber, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Reuber were honored with a brunch at the Holiday Inn in Springfield.

Mrs. Reuber graduated this spring from Southwest Missouri State College. Mr. Reuber has been teaching for three years at Fulton. Following a trip to New Orleans, the couple will go to Denver, Colo., where Mr. Reuber will start work on his Masters Degree at the University of Denver.

The Modern Christian

Is it not a fact today, that many Christians are narrow and complacent in their faith?

If our Christian life is to have depth and wide dimensions, it must expand in and through Christ.

To deepen our Christian life, faith - consciousness, is to strive for a personal and communal awareness of who Christ is, and what He stands for. In this way, the message we are, and the message we give, is Christ.

We can never be complacent with our present awareness of Christ that we live or transmit to others.

This is why we need to meditate (not just read) on the Old and New Testaments. The Scriptures help us to understand our share in the mystery of redemption.

Taking passages in context, we ask ourselves what was going through the mind of Christ, that we might recapture the mentality of Christ. The Word of God has a charism all its own that our thoughts and words can never match.

The avenue to God is Christ. Our awareness of this precious gift largely depends upon our meditation of the Testaments and the consequent exercise of God's gifts.

Complacency comes from an outlook centered on self. The genuine Christian, however, directs his life as service for others. Complacency may well be a fact today, and if so, its root is not the wealth of society or the lack of education, but unconcern for others. The New Testament reveals the Son of God as giving the maximum of his life for others.

Bible School Exercises To Be Saturday Evening

The Church of God of Prophecy will have its closing exercises of their Vacation Bible School Saturday evening, June 12, at 7:30 p.m. at the church on South New Madrid Street.

The theme for the school, which has been conducted at night, was "Discovering with Christ," with classes for all ages. The adult department was under the direction of Mrs. E.R. Pulliam. The teen-age department was taught by Miss Delores Blackburn with Ruth Culbertson and Dale Gardner as craft teachers. Junior department teachers were Gary Kindred and Mike Hopkins. Primary department director was Mrs. Mabel Gardner assisted by Mrs. Ann Mitchell, and beginner department teacher was Mrs. Bonnie Carden with Sondra Stephens as craft instructor. Vacation Bible School director was Mrs. Marjorie Hopkins.

The public is invited to attend the program Saturday evening and to see the work and craft of each of these departments afterwards, with refreshments served in the church basement.

Mrs. John Reuber

Mary Wells Says Vows With John Reuber In Springfield

Mary Wells of Springfield, Mo. and John Reuber, son of Mrs. Helen Reuber, were married in Springfield at 10 a.m. June 5 in the parlor of First Presbyterian Church in the presence of their immediate families.

The couple was attended by Suzy Kaiser of Kansas City, Mo., and Harold Reuber, brother of the groom.

Following the ceremony, Mr. and Mrs. Reuber were honored with a brunch at the Holiday Inn in Springfield.

Mrs. Reuber graduated this spring from Southwest Missouri State College. Mr. Reuber has been teaching for three years at Fulton. Following a trip to New Orleans, the couple will go to Denver, Colo., where Mr. Reuber will start work on his Masters Degree at the University of Denver.

The Modern Christian

Is it not a fact today, that many Christians are narrow and complacent in their faith?

If our Christian life is to have depth and wide dimensions, it must expand in and through Christ.

To deepen our Christian life, faith - consciousness, is to strive for a personal and communal awareness of who Christ is, and what He stands for. In this way, the message we are, and the message we give, is Christ.

We can never be complacent with our present awareness of Christ that we live or transmit to others.

This is why we need to meditate (not just read) on the Old and New Testaments. The Scriptures help us to understand our share in the mystery of redemption.

Taking passages in context, we ask ourselves what was going through the mind of Christ, that we might recapture the mentality of Christ. The Word of God has a charism all its own that our thoughts and words can never match.

The avenue to God is Christ. Our awareness of this precious gift largely depends upon our meditation of the Testaments and the consequent exercise of God's gifts.

Complacency comes from an outlook centered on self. The genuine Christian, however, directs his life as service for others. Complacency may well be a fact today, and if so, its root is not the wealth of society or the lack of education, but unconcern for others. The New Testament reveals the Son of God as giving the maximum of his life for others.

Bride-Elect Is Honored With Shower Tuesday

Miss Carol Jane Bartholomew was honored with a lingerie shower at 7 p.m. June 8 at the home of Mrs. Gail Harrison; Mrs. Larry Gardner was hostess for the evening.

Miss Bartholomew was presented a corsage of carnations in blue and white, the bride - elect's chosen colors. She received her guests in a two piece outfit of pink and white complemented with white accessories.

The gift table was covered with a lace cloth with streamers of blue crepe paper and wedding bells encircling it. On the table was an arrangement of flowers, also blue, to carry out the bride-to-be's color scheme.

Refreshments of individual cakes inscribed with "Carol and Ron," nuts and punch were served to the guests.

Those attending or sending gifts were Shirley Altom, Cynthia Mulcahy, Mrs. Joe Galemore of Charleston, Joy Cauthorn, Pam Warf, Linda Johnson, Dorothy Harrison, Dorothy Harrison, Dotti Gardner of New Madrid and Mrs. Henry Bartholomew.

Miss Bartholomew will become the bride of Ronald Galemore at the First Baptist church on June 27.

Sadecki Bombed! Cards Lose 8 To 7

"I'm in a rut," said St. Louis pitcher Ray Sadecki Thursday, after losing his sixth game in eight decisions to the Cincinnati Reds, 8-7.

"I can't seem to do anything right," explained the 24-year-old lefthander who gave up five of Cincinnati's 13 hits. One was Frank Robinson's 300th career home run -- the 14th Sadecki has yielded this year.

Sadecki, who won 20 victories last year, was sent to the bullpen after being routed Thursday.

"I'll put him there for a while," Manager Red Schoendienst said, "and maybe that will help bring him around."

The Cardinals leg, 1-0, after one inning in which Lou Brock singled, stole second and then reached home on two more hits. Then the Reds roared back, leading 7-2 after four and a half frames.

The Cardinals fought back and made a contest of the game, but never caught up despite 14 hits, including Bill White's pair of homers and Dick Groat's four singles in five trips to the plate.

John Tsitouris, who relieved Jim Maloney in the Cardinal's three-run fifth inning, was credited with the victory - his fourth against four losses.

Ray Washburn 4-3 will face the second - place Milwaukee Braves and Denny Lemaster 3-5 in tonight's action at Busch Stadium.

The Athletics, who were idle Thursday, will send Roland Sheldon 0-1 against the Cleveland Indians' Luis Tiant 5-2 tonight at Kansas City.

COLLEGE WORLD SERIES
By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

OMAHA (AP) —Steve Arlin's courageous 15-inning job for Ohio State, a three-hitter with 20 strikeouts, overshadowed Arizona State's relentless drive to its first College World Series Championship.

Arlin pitched a four-hit victory over Florida State Monday, had one day of rest, started Wednesday against Arizona State and was knocked out in the first inning by four solid hits and four Ohio State errors. Then he came back Thursday with possibly the top game in Series history.

His 1-0 shutout eliminated Washington State. Then Arizona ousted St. Louis 6-2, making it a two-team race.

Arizona State, 4-0 in the double elimination tourney, can wrap it up by beating the Buckeyes tonight. Starting time is 9 p.m., EST.

Ohio State, 3-1 must whip ASU two straight, Friday and Saturday, to claim its first NCAA baseball crown and the Big Ten's sixth.

Arizona State, 52-7 with 16 straight victories, beat Ohio State 9-4 in the third round and swept three early season games from them. Coach Bobby Winkles is ready with Ron Lea, senior right-hander with an 11-2 record and 2.92 earned run average.

Ohio State's cause is far from hopeless, even though Arlin is through for the Series, barring rainouts. Marty Karow will start left-hander John Durant, a senior with a 6-2 record and 2.09 ERA. Durant pitched a six-hit 14-1 victory over Washington State Tuesday.

If Durant wins, Karow can come back Saturday with Ron Kitchon, senior right-hander who held ASU to one run in 7 2-3 innings Wednesday. ASU likely would counter with Lefty Jim Merrick, 12-2, its winner that night.

Arlin's 15 innings pitched and 20 strikeouts broke Series pitching records of 13 innings and 16 strikeouts. He walked only five, two intentionally.

Arlin, a sophomore right-hander with an outstanding fast ball, was on the brink of defeat in the last of the 13th after permitting only two runners as far as second base until then.

WSU's Dale Ford led off the 13th with a 420-foot triple to center. Then Arlin issued the two intentional walks, got Dale Scilley on a weak grounder to the mound for a double play and struck out Duane Rossman.

The 15 inning tied the Series record for longevity, set by Michigan and Santa Clara in the 1962 title game. Michigan won it, 5-4.

ASU has a team batting average of .329, has outscored its tourney foes by a combined 42-10 and its defense hasn't permitted a single unearned run in the tournament. Sal Bando, ASU third baseman, is hitting .500 in the tourney.

Potlatch Forrest Wins Over Bloomfield, On 2 Hitter

Sikeston Potlatch picked up their third win of the season downing Bloomfield last night at V. F. W. Stadium by the score of 2 to 1. The game was highlighted by outstanding pitching and defensive play. Pitchers Stallings and Spear gave up only two hits, making it a miserable night for Bloomfield hitters. Moore went all the way for Bloomfield allowing only 5 hits, while striking out 7 Sikeston hitters. Moore was the loser and Stallings got the win.

In the sixth inning the first two batters for Bloomfield, McAdoo and Dale Underwood walked. Johnson hit a line drive which Heacox snared, he immediately turned and fired to second, to retire McAdoo, then second baseman Scudder fired to first, to get Underwood before he could get to the bag. The Wildcats were retired on a fabulous triple play.

Sikeston picked up a run in the second inning, when Heacox singled, stole second and scored on Owens' base hit. The other Forrester run came in the third, Metz singled, but was out on a fielder's choice which put Scudder at first, he went to second on a pass ball, then went to third on a wild pitch and finally scored on another pass ball.

Bloomfield threatened in the last inning, when Bollinger walked, Harris pitch hit for Don Underwood and responded with a single, but that was all for the Bloomfield's rally as the next two men were retired.

Stallings struck out the side in the first inning. Spears and Stallings combined and struck out 11, while walking three, while getting one hit batsman.

Metz had two hits for Sikeston, Heath, Heacox and Owens had one each.

Casper Takes Lead In Cleveland Open

By HAL PARIS
Associated Press Sports Writer

CLEVELAND (AP) — The first-round leaders in the $135,000 Cleveland Open Golf Tournament are nursing a variety of ailments, but their scores are healthy enough.

Billy Casper, the veteran Californian, said he didn't think he would even play Thursday after surgery the night before to remove a hemorrhoid.

But the 33-year-old Casper showed up anyway and posted a strong four-under-par 67 over Highland Park's 6,821-yard course.

"It didn't bother me a bit," Casper said of his minor operation after he moved into a first-place deadlock with defending titlist Tony Lema.

Champagne Tony, who rang up five birdies and a bogey in registering his 67, said he felt "lousy" because of a heavy cold.

"A few more birdies and I would have forgotten I had a cold," Lema jested after his impressive round.

And Tommy Aaron, one of five pros chasing the leaders only a stroke behind at 68, said he has been taking penicillin for a strep throat he picked up last weekend at the Buick Open.

Another pro fighting a nagging cold, Arnold Palmer, started slowly but finished with an even par 71.

For two of the tour's champions, it was a long day. U.S. Open titlist Ken Venturi, plagued by a circulatory ailment in his hands, shot a 76 while PGA king Bobby Nichols came in with a 75.

Venturi, who says frankly "I am playing poorly," will defend his Open crown in St. Louis next week.

Early toll roads were called turnpikes because travelers were stopped at the turnstiles. or turnpikes. to pay their fares.

Crothers Downs Snell In 880

TORONTO (AP) —Bill Crothers tried for three years and finally beat Peter Snell, New Zealand's double Olympic champion, in the 880-yard run, the highlight of Toronto's international track meet Thursday night.

A crowd of 19,633 saw the 24-year-old Markham, Ont., pharmacist beat Snell by about two yards in the meet record time of 1:48.4. It was the Canadian's first victory over the New Zealander in five races. They clashed for the first time at the 1962 British Empire Games in Perth, Australia.

It also was the first defeat for Snell in the half-mile since 1961 when he lost to George Kerr of Jamaica.

Crothers stayed close on Snell's heels until the start of the final turn. Then he made his bid to move ahead and caught Snell after a hair-raising stretch duel with 35 yards to go to the finish line.

Snell, timed in 1:48.6, wasn't duly upset.

"You can't go on finishing first time after time," he said. "If I had to be beaten, I'm glad it was Crothers."

Snell did not compete in the mile run won by Jim Grelle of Portland, Ore., in 3:58.3.

Kiwanis And Jaycees Win National League Contests

The first game of the National League at Puckett Field last night went into overtime as Jaycees edged to a victory over Legion with a tight score of 4 to 3. Legion took the lead in the third frame as they scored three runs off Shy's homer, to Jaycees' two. That score remained until the sixth when Jaycees scored again to tie it all up. In the bottom of the seventh Jaycees pounded in another run to break the tie and take the victory. Boardman chalked up the win as Puckett was forced with the loss.

THE REAL THING

A boy accompanied by his younger brother stopped an elderly woman on the street and said, "Lady. . . for a nickel I'll have my little brother imitate a bird for you."

Charmed by the approach, the woman smiled and asked, "And how does he do that . . . by chirping?"

"No, ma'am," the boy replied, "none of those cheap imitations . . . I'll have him eat a worm for you." — Lucille J. Goodyear

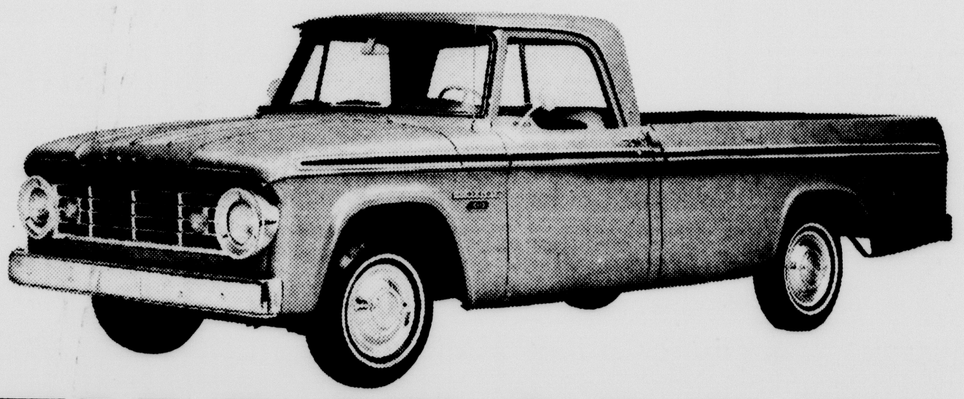

The president of the board of trustees of a large corporation had presided over an unusually hectic meeting. The atmosphere had been so explosive that right afterwards he was rushed to the hospital with a bleeding ulcer. The next day he received a telegram from the secretary of the corporation.

"The board has voted to wish you a speedy recovery," the telegram stated. "The vote was eight to seven." — Spice Box

Sadecki Bombed! Cards Lose 8 To 7

"I'm in a rut," said St. Louis pitcher Ray Sadecki Thursday, after losing his sixth game in eight decisions to the Cincinnati Reds, 8-7.

"I can't seem to do anything right," explained the 24-year-old lefthander who gave up five of Cincinnati's 13 hits. One was Frank Robinson's 300th career home run -- the 14th Sadecki has yielded this year.

Sadecki, who won 20 victories last year, was sent to the bullpen after being routed Thursday.

"I'll put him there for a while," Manager Red Schoendienst said, "and maybe that will help bring him around."

The Cardinals leg, 1-0, after one inning in which Lou Brock singled, stole second and then reached home on two more hits. Then the Reds roared back, leading 7-2 after four and a half frames.

The Cardinals fought back and made a contest of the game, but never caught up despite 14 hits, including Bill White's pair of homers and Dick Groat's four singles in five trips to the plate.

John Tsitouris, who relieved Jim Maloney in the Cardinal's three-run fifth inning, was credited with the victory - his fourth against four losses.

Ray Washburn 4-3 will face the second - place Milwaukee Braves and Denny Lemaster 3-5 in tonight's action at Busch Stadium.

The Athletics, who were idle Thursday, will send Roland Sheldon 0-1 against the Cleveland Indians' Luis Tiant 5-2 tonight at Kansas City.

COLLEGE WORLD SERIES
By JIM VAN VALKENBURG
Associated Press Sports Writer

OMAHA (AP) —Steve Arlin's courageous 15-inning job for Ohio State, a three-hitter with 20 strikeouts, overshadowed Arizona State's relentless drive to its first College World Series Championship.

Arlin pitched a four-hit victory over Florida State Monday, had one day of rest, started Wednesday against Arizona State and was knocked out in the first inning by four solid hits and four Ohio State errors. Then he came back Thursday with possibly the top game in Series history.

His 1-0 shutout eliminated Washington State. Then Arizona ousted St. Louis 6-2, making it a two-team race.

Arizona State, 4-0 in the double elimination tourney, can wrap it up by beating the Buckeyes tonight. Starting time is 9 p.m., EST.

Ohio State, 3-1 must whip ASU two straight, Friday and Saturday, to claim its first NCAA baseball crown and the Big Ten's sixth.

Arizona State, 52-7 with 16 straight victories, beat Ohio State 9-4 in the third round and swept three early season games from them. Coach Bobby Winkles is ready with Ron Lea, senior right-hander with an 11-2 record and 2.92 earned run average.

Ohio State's cause is far from hopeless, even though Arlin is through for the Series, barring rainouts. Marty Karow will start left-hander John Durant, a senior with a 6-2 record and 2.09 ERA. Durant pitched a six-hit 14-1 victory over Washington State Tuesday.

If Durant wins, Karow can come back Saturday with Ron Kitchon, senior right-hander who held ASU to one run in 7 2-3 innings Wednesday. ASU likely would counter with Lefty Jim Merrick, 12-2, its winner that night.

Arlin's 15 innings pitched and 20 strikeouts broke Series pitching records of 13 innings and 16 strikeouts. He walked only five, two intentionally.

Arlin, a sophomore right-hander with an outstanding fast ball, was on the brink of defeat in the last of the 13th after permitting only two runners as far as second base until then.

WSU's Dale Ford led off the 13th with a 420-foot triple to center. Then Arlin issued the two intentional walks, got Dale Scilley on a weak grounder to the mound for a double play and struck out Duane Rossman.

The 15 inning tied the Series record for longevity, set by Michigan and Santa Clara in the 1962 title game. Michigan won it, 5-4.

ASU has a team batting average of .329, has outscored its tourney foes by a combined 42-10 and its defense hasn't permitted a single unearned run in the tournament. Sal Bando, ASU third baseman, is hitting .500 in the tourney.

Kiwanis And Jaycees Win National League Contests

The first game of the National League at Puckett Field last night went into overtime as Jaycees edged to a victory over Legion with a tight score of 4 to 3. Legion took the lead in the third frame as they scored three runs off Shy's homer, to Jaycees' two. That score remained until the sixth when Jaycees scored again to tie it all up. In the bottom of the seventh Jaycees pounded in another run to break the tie and take the victory. Boardman chalked up the win as Puckett was forced with the loss.

THE REAL THING

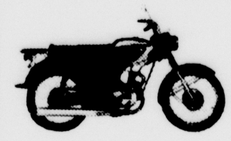

A boy accompanied by his younger brother stopped an elderly woman on the street and said, "Lady. . . for a nickel I'll have my little brother imitate a bird for you."

Charmed by the approach, the woman smiled and asked, "And how does he do that . . . by chirping?"

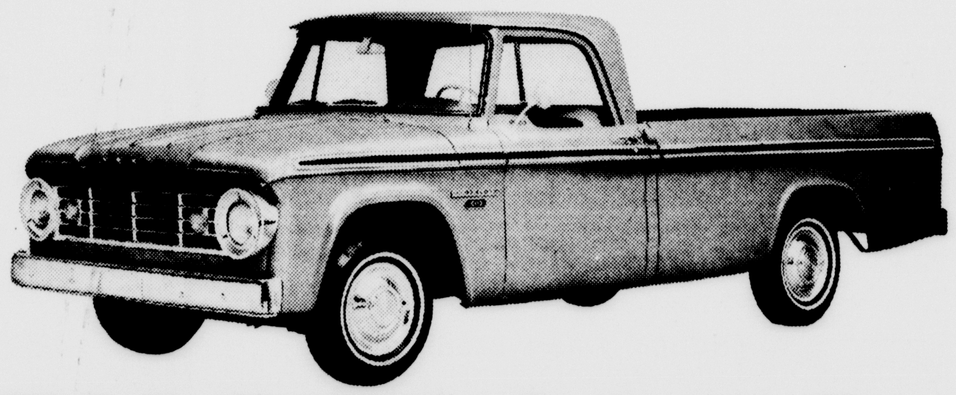

"No, ma'am," the boy replied, "none of those cheap imitations . . . I'll have him eat a worm for you." — Lucille J. Goodyear

The president of the board of trustees of a large corporation had presided over an unusually hectic meeting. The atmosphere had been so explosive that right afterwards he was rushed to the hospital with a bleeding ulcer. The next day he received a telegram from the secretary of the corporation.

"The board has voted to wish you a speedy recovery," the telegram stated. "The vote was eight to seven." — Spice Box

TAKE IT OUT ON DODGE!
The Dodge Boys figure out the answer to tough trucking problems... FAST! And then, make it easy for you to own the answer by dealin' high, wide and then-some on the Dodge best suited for your particular problem. Next, they back up their words with the longest, strongest warranty in the industry.
TAKE IT OUT ON DODGE FOR 5 YEARS OR 50,000 MILES!
HERE'S HOW THIS WARRANTY COVERAGE PROTECTS YOU: Chrysler Corporation warrants for 5 years or 50,000 miles or 1500 hours of operation, whichever comes first, against defects in materials and workmanship and will replace or repair at a Chrysler Motors Corporation authorized dealer's place of business gasoline and Perkins diesel engines (i.e., block, heads, and internal parts), intake manifold, water pump, flywheel, flywheel housing, clutch housing, torque converter, transmission (i.e., case and internal parts, excluding manual clutch), transfer case and all internal parts, drive shafts, center bearings, universal joints, driving axles and differentials, and drive wheel bearings of its new Dodge trucks, provided the owner has (1) the engine oil changed and universal joints (except sealed-type) lubricated and the oil-bath type carburetor air filter cleaned every 3 months or 4000 miles (every 2 months or 2000 miles on models 400 through 1000), whichever comes first, (2) the engine oil filter replaced and dry-type carburetor air filter cleaned every second oil change, and dry-type carburetor air filter element replaced every 24,000 miles, (3) the crankcase ventilation system cleaned and serviced every 4000 miles, and (4) the transmission, transfer case and driving axle lubricants changed every 32,000 miles (every 20,000 miles on models 400 through 1000). The foregoing services must be performed more often when reasonably required due to severe dust or regular "stop and go" operation. Every 6 months the owner must furnish to such dealer evidence of performance of the required service and request the dealer to certify (1) receipt of such evidence and (2) the truck's then current mileage.

Fishing Forecast For The Weekend

JEFFERSON CITY AP--Fishing in Missouri lakes and streams is only fair this week, the state Conservation Commission reports. Water is mostly dingy to muddy.

Conditions by region;

Northwest -- Rivers muddy, producing some catfish. Lakes in good condition and success fair for bass, bluegill and channel cats. Ponds clear to dingy, productive for bass and bluegill.

North Central--Rivers muddy but some producing channel cats. Lakes and ponds generally in good condition and producing bass and bluegill.

North east--Streams not expected to be in good condition by this weekend.

West central -- Upper Osage muddy and some flooding with channel cat and carp fishing fair to good. Upper Pomme de Terre dingy to muddy but success fair for catfish and carp. Lower Pomme good for walleye. Sac and South Grand muddy, yielding rough fish only.

Southeast -- Black River in good condition and producing fair to good strings of channels and white bass; other rivers muddy.

LAKES

Safety Check At New Madrid On June 19

NEW MADRID--New Madrid's volunteer vehicle Safety-Check will be held June 19, at the court house parking lot from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m., according to an announcement of Shelton Rhodes, chairman of a Rotary Club committee in charge.

The check lanes will be set up in the parking lot at the court house. The lanes will be open from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. and will be operated by volunteer qualified automobile mechanics.

Vehicles with all items in safe condition will receive a safety - check windshield sticker.

Items to be checked are brakes, front and rear lights (turn signals, stop lights), steering, tires, exhaust system, glass, windshield wipers (and washers), rearview mirror, horn, and seat belts.

Things Looking Up At Big Oak State Park

A new pump has been installed at the state park lake, and it is delivering approximately 850 gallons of water per minute, according to a report from Conservation Agent Art Province.

Last summer and fall a combination of factors all but ruined this lake. The prolonged drought and rapid evaporation caused the lake level to fall dangerously low. The deep well and pump virtually failed, and as a result the 23-acre lake area shrank to about one-third its normal size.

A group of experts also visited the lake last week and applied chemicals calculated to help control the dense growth of water plants, Province said.

Province also accompanied a representative of the fisheries section on a tour of the blue holes last week. This time the fisheries section was interested in probing the depth of these washouts or blue holes. To the surprise of all concerned the Nolen Blue Hole tested deepest. Next came the Coonskin Johnson Hole, and third the Byrd Blue Hole. Depth ranged from 39 to nearly 50 feet.

There is a strong possibility that the Conservation Commission will improve roadways into several of the blue holes, and also that a river access point will be developed.

Mississippi county is bounded on three sides by the Mississippi River, and the county has 85 miles of river frontage but there is not one boat ramp on the riverfront. Boaters must go either to Cairo or to Cape Girardeau to launch their boats.

Applications Mailed In

The neighborhood youth corp summer program is designed for young men and women, 16 to 21. Applications for admittance were sent to the state department of education in Jefferson City. The board of education will be notified when the program is approved. Successful applicants will then be notified. Further applications will be taken after Sept. 1.

Hearnes Birthday Dinner Planned

JEFFERSON CITY - Democrats are planning a $25 a plate birthday dinner for Gov. and Mrs. Warren E. Hearnes, July 24 - the day the governor becomes 42 and his wife 38.

Proceeds will go to the Democratic state committee.

Delton L. Houtchens, Democratic state chairman, announced today John R. Hahn of Jefferson City, a colonel on the governor's staff, will be the dinner chairman and former Congressman Charles H. Brown of Springfield will be the main speaker.

THE MAIL BAG

Dear Editor:

I wonder if someone would help me invent an invention. I have the idea, but know practically nothing about what I should know to do the job.

I want an electronic instrument that will do two things. Both would make money. Since money is the root of all evil, let's get devilish??

Since the "Great Society" is going to have a lot of trouble in proving their accusations as to who is a hater, who is a discriminator, who is a lover and what not, I think they will soon be in the market, and will pay well. After all, a person is innocent until proven guilty, and the proof must look good, at least. This device would also be great for detecting "hate groups"!!

Johnson Administration Direction No Longer Clear

WASHINGTON (AP) — At one time the direction of the Johnson administration seemed clear but it is complex now and the question can fairly be asked: Where are we going?

The clear part was in the administration's heavy concentration on home problems. But suddenly, and with increasing intensity as time passes, the administration spread its attention to foreign affairs.

And the deeper the United States gets involved in the war in Viet Nam — to take one example — the more complex the future looks.

For more than a year after he succeeded the assassinated President John F. Kennedy in November 1963, President Johnson put almost all his attention on the field where he was expert, domestic doings and dealings with Congress.

He did extremely well and under his prodding Congress made remarkable progress. If Johnson had been able to occupy himself this well until the end of his elected term, the final judgment on his record appeared certain to be excellent.

But within a month after taking office on his own last January, Johnson plunged into the foreign field where his experience was limited and his ability never proven because it was never tested.

He moved in a big way, ordering the bombing of North Viet Nam, an order still being carried out although the North Vietnamese have not visibly budged an inch.

Ironically, unless there is a quick solution in Asia where none is in sight, the final judgment on the success or failure or wisdom of the Johnson administration may have to be made in this field least familiar to it, foreign problems.

At this minute no one outside the administration, and perhaps no one inside it, can say whether the United States is going to get into a big land war in Asia.

Adding to the uncertainty is the way in which American involvement is being stepped up until what looked once like a limited role for American forces now seems much less limited.

No president could be expected to telegraph his punches to an enemy with detailed public announcement beforehand of policies and intentions but there is a certain puzzle about this:

Does Johnson have thought-out plans for each step the United States intends to take in Viet Nam or are those steps more the product of events than of planning?

For instance, last March, when Marines were sent into Viet Nam, the U.S. Defense Department said the South Vietnamese government asked for them to guard the airbase at Da Nang and gave this official explanation:

"The limited mission of the Marines will be to relieve the government of South Viet Nam forces now engaged in security duty for action in the pacific-action programs and in offensive roles against Communist guerrillas."

That made it seem the Americans would sit tight, doing guard duty, while the Vietnamese did the fighting. There were 27,000 troops and Marines in Viet Nam in March. Gradually the number was increased until now there are 54,000.

And now the Americans' role seems a lot less limited. Last Friday a military spokesman in Saigon said these U.S. forces had a dual role: of defense and taking part in battle in support of Vietnamese forces when help is asked.

A State Department spokesman indicated the same thing Tuesday, which seemed to be putting U.S. forces far deeper into war. And Wednesday a White House spokesman said that while the Americans are in Viet Nam to guard important bases they can be used in combat to help the Vietnamese under certain circumstances.

So gradually American involvement has increased. There was a similar stepup in explanations when Johnson sent troops into the Dominican Republic. First, he said it was to save American lives; then he added that it was to prevent a Communist takeover.

There is another uncertainty about Johnson's future foreign policy. Will he be as quick to use American armed force in other situations which may arise in these next four years as he was in Viet Nam and the Dominican Republic?

Cherry Harvest

It's cherry picking time in June-
lets bake a cherry pie
So lucious sweet and yet so tart,
with cherries all piled high.

The trees bear well the crimson fruit, and with plenty to spare
For the sassy jays and robins who demand an equal share.

There'll be rows of tangy sweet preserves,
tucked down the cellar way

The many fruits that grow on the land,
each with it's own harvest time,
Gathered in full abundance
A blessing to all mankind.

Southeast Missouri Tops In Queen Elections

By MAX STURM

Well, we are approaching the annual queen contest season in the Bootheel again, and as is my custom I would like to give you a run-down on most of the major beauty events coming up so you can watch out for them and attend those in which you are interested.

The reason I keep this information before you is because it is my belief that the old Bootheel, among other accomplishments, can claim to have more beauty queens elected each year than any other rural area of its size in the world.

While there is no closed season on queen contests in our region what with various school, club and community events held during the year, the big ones, don't get underway until the Fourth of July and on into the rest of the year.

The first one of these will be the Miss Missouri Bootheel contest of the Hayti Junior Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July celebration in Northside Park on July 4 (not on Monday, July 5, the legal holiday this year). The contest is being sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority and will be staged at 2 p.m. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Betty Mathis and Mrs. Mary Ellen Ray, sorority members. Any girls, who would like to enter and might not be contacted otherwise, are invited to get in touch with them for details. The qualifications are ages 15 to 24 and unmarried. A $10 registration fee is required since the sorority needs the money.

The contestants, Mrs. Mathis said, will appear in one-piece swim suits. The queen and two alternates will be selected by a panel of judges and they will be awarded trophies.

The regulation calling for one-piece swim suits only is new this year to eliminate the confusion over whether two-piece suits might be used, which came up in last year's contest. There was mumbling about the possibility that two-piece suits could be quite brief, something that the contest directors might not be able to control, and that might constitute throwing a monkey wrench into the contest. It was decided that one-piece suits would make all contestants equal as far as attire is concerned. How they fill them out is what impresses the judges, is the basic thinking.

After that event will be the next big one, the "Miss Mississippi River" contest which will be a feature of the ski and water show to be presented by the Triangle Boating Club at its marina three miles east of Hayti on July 19. The ages are 14 to 24 and girls must be unmarried. Girls wearing two-piece suits will not be disqualified as long as the suits are not definitely in the bikini class, according to Mrs. Max Sturm, Hayti, contest director. No registration fee is charged. A queen and two alternates will be selected who will receive trophies. Interested girls should contact Mrs. Sturm.

At this point I would like to comment again on how times have changed in the presentation of queen contests in the Bootheel. Shortly after World War II, when such contests were introduced, contestants were reluctant to appear in swim suits, and this part of a contest was held privately only for the judges. The girls appeared later in evening gowns in the part of the contest held for the public. Now, it appears, you have to put in regulations to control how brief the swim suits can be.

In passing on this subject, Johnny Carson on his "Tonight" TV show stated that he had been invited to serve on a panel of judges at a queen contest to be held in a nudist colony. . .

Anyway, other queen contests regularly held in the Bootheel include the Hornersville Watermelon Festival late in August; the Portageville National Soybean Festival early in September; the Kennett Delta Fair and Livestock Show in September; the Sikeston American Legion Cotton Carnival in September and the Caruthersville American Legion Fair in October. Sandwiched between these events are cotton carnivals by the American Legion at New Madrid, the Rotary Club at Wardell, the Lions Club at Cooter, one at Lilbourn, and the Peach Festival at Campbell, all of which elect queens. There are others of a lesser nature that we have overlooked. Now, tell us if you know of any other geographical area in the world that has as many queen contests!

WATER SKIING APPEARS TO BE one of the nation's fastest growing sports with participants now estimated at upwards to a million or more people. It can be dangerous, and there are a growing number of people who are killed and injured in it. Along with water skiing, of course, is motor boating.

Hundreds of people enjoy both motor boating and skiing in the Bootheel each year, and it is surprising that there has not been more serious accidents in this activity than there have been.

The object in mentioning this subject here, is to alert motor boatists and skiiers that Missouri is tightening up this summer on control of boat operators and skiiers on unsafe or hazardous practices. So on any body of water in Missouri, you boatists and skiiers who go merrily along ignoring all safety regulations may find an officer handing you a summons to magistrate court, the same as for a highway or city street traffic violation. What was formerly just regulations covering safe boating and skiing practices as issued by the Missouri Boating Commission have now become laws with teeth in them.

Fritz McKay, chief of police of Hayti, who also is president of the Triangle Boating Club, stated that plans were being made to tighten control of boating and skiing in the chute in front of the club's marina on the Mississippi River east of Hayti.

"Many boat and boat dock owners have complained about the high speed of boats and the unsafe practices of skiiers passing to and fro along the marina," he said, "and in the past we were not able to control it by law. It appears, however, that under these new 1965 boating and skiing state laws we can do it. We want everyone to enjoy boating and skiing at our facility, but we want to slow down the speed boat demons and dare-devil skiiers who endanger the lives of other people and also damage boat docks with their big waves and backwash."

Wheat Crop Falls Below Last Year

WASHINGTON - The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's wheat crop at 1,282,986,000 bushels, down 1 per cent from last year.

Winter wheat production was indicated at 1,016,587,000 bushels. This compared with 977,779,000 forecast a month ago, 1,024,888,000 produced last year and 966,560,000 for the five-year (1959 - 63) average.

The spring wheat crop was forecast at 266,399,000 bushels. This compared with 262 million indicated on the basis of farmers' planting intentions, 265,580,000 produced last year and 223,203,000 for the five-year average.

Acreage for harvest, yield per harvested acre and production respectively, included for winter wheat:

Plaque Is Given to Mrs. Croom

Mrs. Croom has been a 4-H leader 20 years with approximately 15 of those years as community leader, a post which she resigned this past year.

Mrs. Croom had charge of the program at the meeting. She discussed good grooming habits and the points to keep in mind for the contest held each year at the 4-H county fair. She asked that each member prepare a good grooming skit to be presented at the July meeting.

Mrs. Dale Geske and her son, Mike, demonstrated an exercise for the members to practice. This carries out the 4-H fitness program being conducted by the club.

It was announced that Mrs. Peter Myers, community leader, and Mrs. Dale Geske would take 4-H members on a rat poison sales tour of the area Saturday. Anyone wishing to purchase rat poison from the club and who will not be at home Saturday may call their order to any club member or leader.

It was announced that the next meeting will be July 12.

For entertainment members of the club presented talent skits. Pam Lasters and Joe Myers did a dance skit to the number "Mary Poppins", Harold and Teressa Malloy sang a song; and Terry Lowry, Jeannie Summers and Martha Lasters also sang a song with Martha Lasters serving as pianist of the latter group.

In addition to Mrs. Croom, Mrs. Peter Myers' mother, from Racine, Wis., was a guest at this meeting. Also present were five leaders and 13 members.

New Church Filled for Dedication

MATTHEWS -- A capacity audience, including many out-of-town guests, filled the new Christ Lutheran church for the dedicatory service at 2:30 p.m. Sunday. Rev. Harold Belsheim delivered the sermon.

Miss Kathryn Clark gave a program of organ music preceding the service, and was accompanist for other musical numbers.

Mrs. Dale Geske and Mrs. Eddie Schrader sang "Bless This House" and vocal solos were sung by Miss Yvonne DuSablon and Mrs. Bill Hailey.

ABC Tries To Attract Young People

By CYNTHIA LOWRY
AP TV-Radio Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — The American Broadcasting Co., highly conscious that much of its current success is due to its large audience of young people, makes special efforts to attract them.

On June 28 it will completely overhaul — with a new name, new characters, new viewpoint, even new title — one of its daytime serials, "Flame in the Wind," specifically to attract more young housewives.

When its "12 O'clock High" returns next fall in an earlier time period it will have replaced its star—Robert Lansing playing a general — with Paul Burke playing a major. The switch was dictated by the network's theory that the added young viewers of the World War II drama would identify closer to a more boyish-looking officer of lesser rank.

On the other hand, NBC appears to be actively engaged in sloughing off some of its younger fans.

Next week, for instance, it moves its early evening rock 'n' roll hour, "Hullabaloo," to the end of its Tuesday night prime-time schedule, a late hour for kids on the East and West Coasts.

Its most drastic switch comes next season when "The Man from U.N.C.L.E." is plucked from its popular early Monday evening spot and stuck in a 10 p.m. time period of Fridays.

Al Hirt's forthcoming CBS variety series, which will replace the Jackie Gleason show for the summer, will be called "Fanfare" and will premier June 19.

Rhubarb

Rhubarb, or pieplant, was used by the Chinese as early as 2700 B.C. and garden rhubarb was introduced into Europe from the East relatively late. A Maine gardener brought it to the United States near the end of the 18th century.

Warn of Candy Like Fireworks

WASHINGTON -- George P. Larrick, commissioner of food and drugs of the department of health education, and welfare, has warned parents and retail dealers across the country to be on the lookout for a new kind of fireworks, which can be dangerous to children in an unusual way.

The fireworks, having the appearance of small colored candy balls, sometimes marketed under the name "Cracker Balls," may easily be mistaken for candy and some children in Ohio and the District of Columbia were injured when they bit into them.

Commissioner Larrick said FDA inspectors are on the lookout for these novelty items with a view toward legal action unless they are labeled to meet all requirements of the federal hazardous substances labeling act. He questions, however, whether any labeling can be devised which would make these products free from the danger of being mistaken for candy.

Commissioner Larrick added that any stocks which can be shown to be in violation of the federal labeling law will be removed from the market under the seizure provisions of that statute. Samples obtained thus far are imports from Japan.

A habit of devout fellowship with God is the spring of all our life, and the strength of it. Such prayer, meditation and converse with God restores and renews the temper of our minds; so that by this contact with the world unseen we receive continual accesses of strength.

Southeast Missouri Tops In Queen Elections

By MAX STURM

Well, we are approaching the annual queen contest season in the Bootheel again, and as is my custom I would like to give you a run-down on most of the major beauty events coming up so you can watch out for them and attend those in which you are interested.

The reason I keep this information before you is because it is my belief that the old Bootheel, among other accomplishments, can claim to have more beauty queens elected each year than any other rural area of its size in the world.

While there is no closed season on queen contests in our region what with various school, club and community events held during the year, the big ones, don't get underway until the Fourth of July and on into the rest of the year.

The first one of these will be the Miss Missouri Bootheel contest of the Hayti Junior Chamber of Commerce Fourth of July celebration in Northside Park on July 4 (not on Monday, July 5, the legal holiday this year). The contest is being sponsored by the Beta Sigma Phi sorority and will be staged at 2 p.m. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Betty Mathis and Mrs. Mary Ellen Ray, sorority members. Any girls, who would like to enter and might not be contacted otherwise, are invited to get in touch with them for details. The qualifications are ages 15 to 24 and unmarried. A $10 registration fee is required since the sorority needs the money.

The contestants, Mrs. Mathis said, will appear in one-piece swim suits. The queen and two alternates will be selected by a panel of judges and they will be awarded trophies.

The regulation calling for one-piece swim suits only is new this year to eliminate the confusion over whether two-piece suits might be used, which came up in last year's contest. There was mumbling about the possibility that two-piece suits could be quite brief, something that the contest directors might not be able to control, and that might constitute throwing a monkey wrench into the contest. It was decided that one-piece suits would make all contestants equal as far as attire is concerned. How they fill them out is what impresses the judges, is the basic thinking.

After that event will be the next big one, the "Miss Mississippi River" contest which will be a feature of the ski and water show to be presented by the Triangle Boating Club at its marina three miles east of Hayti on July 19. The ages are 14 to 24 and girls must be unmarried. Girls wearing two-piece suits will not be disqualified as long as the suits are not definitely in the bikini class, according to Mrs. Max Sturm, Hayti, contest director. No registration fee is charged. A queen and two alternates will be selected who will receive trophies. Interested girls should contact Mrs. Sturm.

At this point I would like to comment again on how times have changed in the presentation of queen contests in the Bootheel. Shortly after World War II, when such contests were introduced, contestants were reluctant to appear in swim suits, and this part of a contest was held privately only for the judges. The girls appeared later in evening gowns in the part of the contest held for the public. Now, it appears, you have to put in regulations to control how brief the swim suits can be.

In passing on this subject, Johnny Carson on his "Tonight" TV show stated that he had been invited to serve on a panel of judges at a queen contest to be held in a nudist colony. . .

Anyway, other queen contests regularly held in the Bootheel include the Hornersville Watermelon Festival late in August; the Portageville National Soybean Festival early in September; the Kennett Delta Fair and Livestock Show in September; the Sikeston American Legion Cotton Carnival in September and the Caruthersville American Legion Fair in October. Sandwiched between these events are cotton carnivals by the American Legion at New Madrid, the Rotary Club at Wardell, the Lions Club at Cooter, one at Lilbourn, and the Peach Festival at Campbell, all of which elect queens. There are others of a lesser nature that we have overlooked. Now, tell us if you know of any other geographical area in the world that has as many queen contests!

WATER SKIING APPEARS TO BE one of the nation's fastest growing sports with participants now estimated at upwards to a million or more people. It can be dangerous, and there are a growing number of people who are killed and injured in it. Along with water skiing, of course, is motor boating.

Hundreds of people enjoy both motor boating and skiing in the Bootheel each year, and it is surprising that there has not been more serious accidents in this activity than there have been.

The object in mentioning this subject here, is to alert motor boatists and skiers that Missouri is tightening up this summer on control of boat operators and skiers on unsafe or hazardous practices. So on any body of water in Missouri, you boatists and skiers who go merrily along ignoring all safety regulations may find an officer handing you a summons to magistrate court, the same as for a highway or city street traffic violation. What was formerly just regulations covering safe boating and skiing practices as issued by the Missouri Boating Commission have now become laws with teeth in them.

Fritz McKay, chief of police of Hayti, who also is president of the Triangle Boating Club, stated that plans were being made to tighten control of boating and skiing in the chute in front of the club's marina on the Mississippi River east of Hayti.

"Many boat and boat dock owners have complained about the high speed of boats and the unsafe practices of skiers passing to and fro along the marina," he said, "and in the past we were not able to control it by law. It appears, however, that under these new 1965 boating and skiing state laws we can do it. We want everyone to enjoy boating and skiing at our facility, but we want to slow down the speed boat demons and dare-devil skiers who endanger the lives of other people and also damage boat docks with their big waves and backwash."

Wheat Crop Falls Below Last Year

WASHINGTON - The Agriculture Department today forecast this year's wheat crop at 1,282,986,000 bushels, down 1 per cent from last year.

Winter wheat production was indicated at 1,016,587,000 bushels. This compared with 977,779,000 forecast a month ago, 1,024,888,000 produced last year and 966,560,000 for the five-year (1959 - 63) average.

The spring wheat crop was forecast at 266,399,000 bushels. This compared with 262 million indicated on the basis of farmers' planting intentions, 265,580,000 produced last year and 223,203,000 for the five-year average.

Acreage for harvest, yield per harvested acre and production respectively, included for winter wheat:

Plaque Is Given to Mrs. Croom

Mrs. Croom has been a 4-H leader 20 years with approximately 15 of those years as community leader, a post which she resigned this past year.

Mrs. Croom had charge of the program at the meeting. She discussed good grooming habits and the points to keep in mind for the contest held each year at the 4-H county fair. She asked that each member prepare a good grooming skit to be presented at the July meeting.

Mrs. Dale Geske and her son, Mike, demonstrated an exercise for the members to practice. This carries out the 4-H fitness program being conducted by the club.

It was announced that Mrs. Peter Myers, community leader, and Mrs. Dale Geske would take 4-H members on a rat poison sales tour of the area Saturday. Anyone wishing to purchase rat poison from the club and who will not be at home Saturday may call their order to any club member or leader.

It was announced that the next meeting will be July 12.

For entertainment members of the club presented talent skits. Pam Lasters and Joe Myers did a dance skit to the number "Mary Poppins", Harold and Teressa Malloy sang a song; and Terry Lowry, Jeannie Summers and Martha Lasters also sang a song with Martha Lasters serving as pianist of the latter group.

In addition to Mrs. Croom, Mrs. Peter Myers' mother, from Racine, Wis., was a guest at this meeting. Also present were five leaders and 13 members.

SHOW YOURSELF A MAN

When I Was A Boy

B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

July 18, 1919

When I was a boy both boys and girls went barefooted from early spring until late in the fall. The boys and girls of 12 to 15 years of age wore no shoes in the summer as well as those of more tender years. There were no corns or bunions to worry with then, and when they did wear shoes they were calf skin shoes with low flat heels. Now it is a rare thing to see little children without shoes. The French high heeled shoes for ladies look pretty neat on a pretty foot, even though the shoes is two sizes too small. Our mothers and grandmothers never suffered with corns or bunions because they were not ashamed to wear a shoe that fit their feet.

When I was a boy my brother was thrown from a horse and his arm was broken. This created quite a sensation and about all the neighbors came in as soon as they heard about it. Among the number was a young man named Woods, son of a wealthy neighbor. He was so full of sympathy that he gave me a dime, the first one I had ever had. I have never forgotten that young man and never will. Knowing how proud that dime made me has caused me to give away a lot of dimes, nickels and pennies to little children for it makes them so happy and costs so little, and then it is so nice to scatter a little sunshine as we go along, for we will only pass this way once.

When I was a boy a man named John Tatum landed at Glasgow from a steamboat. He was a Virginian and came to Missouri to teach school. He walked six or seven miles from town to our house and on the road out he found lots of buckeyes on the ground, and thinking they were a larger variety of chestnuts than he had ever seen in Virginia he filled his pockets, and as he walked he ate all he wanted. When he arrived he had a pocketful, which he thought would be a treat for us kids, but when the old folks learned that he had eaten a lot they thought sure he would die, as they were considered very poisonous, but a few snorts of whisky allayed their fears and he was not even made sick, but tolerably drunk.

When I was a boy of seven my grandfather married a maiden lady of 30, up in Randolph county. When they got home to the "infair" feast the whole neighborhood was there to greet them. I have rarely, if ever, seen as great a feast as was spread on that occasion and it took a long time to feed that multitude of hungry people. I remember the pyramids of cakes, nearly two feet high, with a large cake at the bottom and tapering off until the top was a cup cake. There were a number of those stacks scattered along the long table. About midnight they were greeted by about forty men and boys with drums, tin pans, bells by the dozen and a few guns. After circling the house three times they were called in and ate and drank all they wanted and left. This was in 1845.

When I was a boy there was no Republican party. It was Whigs and Democrats, and the campaigns for office were more exciting than any of today. As I remember women never attended political meetings as they do now. I remember one instance that occurred at an election in Howard county. A man when voting handed his ticket to one of the judges who read it out so that everybody knew how his neighbors voted. One man handed up his ticket to vote and just then a man spoke up and challenged his right to vote. He was asked on what grounds he objected, and he said, "He is a thief; I caught him coming out of my smokehouse with a side of bacon on his shoulder." That created great excitement as the man was thought to be an honest man. In the excitement the man disappeared from the polls.

When I was a boy we all looked upon slavery as a divine institution. We were raised that way and everybody believed in slavery and hated abolitionists. But at Fayette one New Year's Day I first thought there was something wrong about slavery, and it was this: A Negro man, his wife and several children were put on the block and sold to pay their master's debts. The man was sold to a man near Roanoke, his wife went near New Franklin and the children went to different men. The poor Negroes cried like their hearts would break, and kid as I was then, I felt that a great wrong had been done that Negro and his family, but I did not know just how it was, and now I thank God that slavery exists no more in this free land of ours.

When I was a boy Polk was the Democratic candidate for President, and was elected. You could tell where every Democrat in the county lived, for in the summer every place owned by a Democrat had great branches of Polkberries tied to a pole, or barn or gate post and some enthusiastic Democrats even had polkberry juice rubbed on their houses. The Whigs had to hustle and they did but could not win. There was one Whig procession in Fayette in which a Negro man carried a live coon on the end of a pole. There was no secret of where a man stood then as there is with many men today, who try to "hold with the hare and run with the hounds."

When I was a boy nobody in the country had ever seen or heard of a professional evangelist. When it was decided to hold a series of meetings the pastor and officers of the church would call on a neighboring preacher to help, and the meeting would start with everybody willing to help, and those meetings often resulted in wonderful revivals where scores were converted. Why people actually believed that God converted men and women, strange as it may seem now. It is different now.

When I was a boy it was a rare thing to see anyone wearing glasses and when you did they were worn by old persons, but never do I remember seeing young men or young women wearing specs. But now it is more common to see little children wearing specs than it was to see old people wearing glasses when I was a boy. What has caused this change?

When I was a boy there was an old woman roved through the country half crazy, but harmless. When she would stop at a house she would always insist on doing the house work even to doing the washing and would never take anything for it, but strange to say she had a mania for spitting in the water bucket, or gourd before she left, so the people soon got in the habit of keeping a close watch on her.

Bloomfield Man To News Post

BLOOMFIELD -- Donald J. Brydon was appointed executive assistant of the southwest division of United Press International and joined the division headquarters at Dallas, Tex., from Tokyo where he had been general news manager for Asia since 1962. He assisted in the UPI coverage of the Gemini space flight last week.

While in Tokyo, he supervised news coverage of an area from Japan to Afghanistan, including the Vietnamese war from which he recently returned. He was in Saigon at the time of the recent coup.

Brydon will function in both business and news capacities in the nine-state area. He joined UPI at St. Louis in 1947. Prior to going to Japan in 1962, he had been regional executive in Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. He is the son of Mrs. Maud Brydon.

Privettville Fails To Be Dunklin Town

KENNETT -- An order was issued Monday by the Dunklin County Court turning down a petition filed by 19 persons asking that an area south of Holcomb be incorporated into a town called "Privettville."

The petition, filed June 4, requested the privilege of incorporating and establishing a local government for the proposed community.

County Court Judges Virgil O'Connor, R. B. King and Fred Neal, issued a statement that the petition was not found to be justifiable.

The petition grew out of a suit filed by the City of Holcomb in Dunklin County circuit court May 20, 1964, which asked the judgment of the court on the annexation of property to the city of areas about 200 feet on either side of Highway 25 south of Holcomb and Highway 53 north of the city.

Mayor Buren Napper said that the Holcomb city council, after filing the suit, decided later that some of the proposed area in the suit should not have been included and other sections, specifically eight acres south of the Holcomb School for which the owner, W. T. Raspberry, has signed an option to the city for the building of a low-rent housing development, should be added. For this reason, Napper said, the suit was dismissed on May 24, p965, until the city could draw up a new suit which would allow for changes in the boundary of the areas to be annexed.

Napper said the city plans to file a new suit soon, in spite of the opposition as evidenced by the "Privettville" group, stating the need of Holcomb to expand.

Then, Napper explained, they would wait on the circuit court to pronounce a declaratory judgment and the matter would then be taken to the citizens of Holcomb to vote on the proposition.

Illinois Woman Charged In Death

CAIRO, Ill.--A Mound City woman was arrested by Pulaski County Sheriff Jack Gunn Wednesday on a murder warrant.

Eleanor Stovall, 57, was charged in connection with the death of her husband, who died in a house fire at Mound City the morning of March 22.

Investigation showed that the victim, Floyd Stovall, had been struck in the head with a blunt instrument prior to the fire.

Ronald Dale McAdoo

Scholar To West Point

CHARLESTON -- Ronald Dale McAdoo, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. McAdoo of Bertrand, graduated May 21 as an honor student at Bloomfield high school.

He has accepted appointment to West Point Military Academy, which he received from Congressman Paul C. Jones. Ronnie will report to West Point July 1, 1965.

During his four years of high school, Ronnie was a member of the Beta club, student council, Pep club and Lettermen's club. He was a member of the band four years and sang in the mixed chorus and boys' glee club for two years. He was president of the student council during his junior year. In March, 1965, he represented Bloomfield Beta club in the talent show in St. Louis and won first place by singing a solo.

He lettered in baseball and band for four years, basketball three years and chorus two years. As a junior he received the history and AMA mathematics awards and the physics award as a senior. His class voted him "Most Talented" and "Most Likely to Succeed."

As a senior, he was named semi-finalist and later attained the status of finalist in the 1964 - 65 National Merit Scholarship competition. As a finalist he ranked in the top half of the 99th percentile.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. McAdoo of Bloomfield.

Boundary Suit Arguments Heard

CHARLESTON — Circuit Judge Marshall Craig yesterday heard arguments in the boundary change suit between the R-1 and R-2 School district, taking the case under advisement.

The arguments were heard in chambers, temporarily located in the offices of W. Clifton Banta.

The suit filed by the R-1 district, challenges the validity of petitions submitted in 1964, which called for an election to approve a change of boundaries between the two districts.

A public hearing was held and testimony taken last week.

Plan Reunion Of 1955 Class

CHARLESTON — Plans are being completed for the Aug. 7 and 8 reunion of the CHS class of 1955. All members have been contacted except Joyce Beydler and Margie Mann. If anyone knows the address of either of these people, they may contact Mrs. Charles Brink at MU 3-3733.

Pool Reserve Saves Life

POPLAR BLUFF — Bill Brannon, 20-year-old son of Mrs. Lula Brannon of 1405 Bradley, is alive today because of the rescue efforts of lifeguards at the Hillcrest Pool.

Brannon was found on the bottom of the pool in 8½ feet of water about 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Lifeguard John Eastburn dived in to bring him out and immediately started mouth to mouth resuscitation. Eastburn stated that after a few breaths, Brannon coughed. Dewey Brown, and Hugh Boeving, lifeguards, and Bill Green who was swimming, joined with Eastburn to continue the reviving of Brannon and had him breathing when firemen arrived with the resuscitator.

Brannon suffered cramps in both legs when he slipped into the pool and couldn't come to the top of the water to call for help.

Youth Shoots Self In Leg

QULIN — David Hardin, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hardin of route one, accidentally shot himself in the right leg with a .22 caliber pistol at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The youth stated that he had been out shooting the pistol and that he thought he had unloaded it. He said that the hammer on the pistol slipped from under his thumb while he was putting it in the holster and the gun fired and the bullet struck him above the right knee.

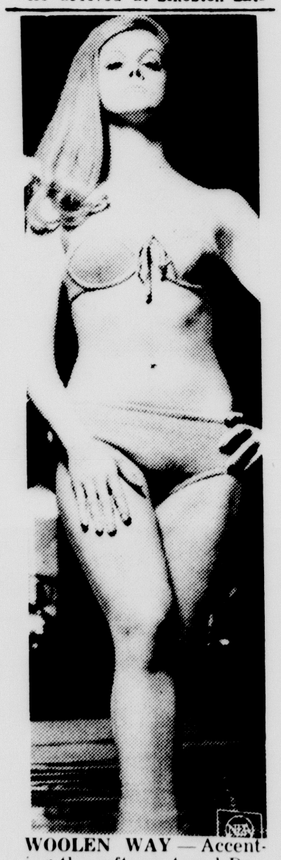

He was taken to the Poplar Bluff Hospital.

Wounded Soldier Visits in SEMO

BLOOMFIELD — Sgt. William Junior Heaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Heaton of Idalia, returned to Baltimore, Md., Thursday from Korea where he was hospitalized for a month because of injuries in Vietnam. A jeep in which he was riding ran into a mine which exploded.

He arrived at Sikeston Saturday to be with his wife and five children who are living there. He visited his parents Sunday.

Heaton, who has been with the Army for ten years, will report back to duty June 30.

WOOLEN WAY — Accenting the softness trend Darlene of New York has come up with this bikini for fun in the sun comfort. Departing abruptly from the recent trend to nylons and similar fibers, this year's line is in Angora wool.

SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2 inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6 inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Missouri Avenue to Broadway in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvements shall consist of furnishing all costs, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of June, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk.

When I Was A Boy

B. F. "Pappy" Blanton

As compiled by Ralph Gregory, Curator of the Mark Twain Shrine, Florida, from the writings of the founder of the Appeal, B. F. "Pappy" Blanton, in 1919-20. A contemporary of Mark Twain, "Pappy" Blanton wrote of the times and customs that were so dear to Twain, and about which Twain wrote so many interesting and humorous anecdotes. (Verbatim copy, with some questions and guesses as to missing words)

July 18, 1919

When I was a boy both boys and girls went barefooted from early spring until late in the fall. The boys and girls of 12 to 15 years of age wore no shoes in the summer as well as those of more tender years. There were no corns or bunions to worry with then, and when they did wear shoes they were calf skin shoes with low flat heels. Now it is a rare thing to see little children without shoes. The French high heeled shoes for ladies look pretty neat on a pretty foot, even though the shoes is two sizes too small. Our mothers and grandmothers never suffered with corns or bunions because they were not ashamed to wear a shoe that fit their feet.

When I was a boy my brother was thrown from a horse and his arm was broken. This created quite a sensation and about all the neighbors came in as soon as they heard about it. Among the number was a young man named Woods, son of a wealthy neighbor. He was so full of sympathy that he gave me a dime, the first one I had ever had. I have never forgotten that young man and never will. Knowing how proud that dime made me has caused me to give away a lot of dimes, nickels and pennies to little children for it makes them so happy and costs so little, and then it is so nice to scatter a little sunshine as we go along, for we will only pass this way once.

When I was a boy a man named John Tatum landed at Glasgow from a steamboat. He was a Virginian and came to Missouri to teach school. He walked six or seven miles from town to our house and on the road out he found lots of buckeyes on the ground, and thinking they were a larger variety of chestnuts than he had ever seen in Virginia he filled his pockets, and as he walked he ate all he wanted. When he arrived he had a pocketful, which he thought would be a treat for us kids, but when the old folks learned that he had eaten a lot they thought sure he would die, as they were considered very poisonous, but a few snorts of whisky allayed their fears and he was not even made sick, but tolerably drunk.

When I was a boy of seven my grandfather married a maiden lady of 30, up in Randolph county. When they got home to the "infair" feast the whole neighborhood was there to greet them. I have rarely, if ever, seen as great a feast as was spread on that occasion and it took a long time to feed that multitude of hungry people. I remember the pyramids of cakes, nearly two feet high, with a large cake at the bottom and tapering off until the top was a cup cake. There were a number of those stacks scattered along the long table. About midnight they were greeted by about forty men and boys with drums, tin pans, bells by the dozen and a few guns. After circling the house three times they were called in and ate and drank all they wanted and left. This was in 1845.

When I was a boy there was no Republican party. It was Whigs and Democrats, and the campaigns for office were more exciting than any of today. As I remember women never attended political meetings as they do now. I remember one instance that occurred at an election in Howard county. A man when voting handed his ticket to one of the judges who read it out so that everybody knew how his neighbors voted. One man handed up his ticket to vote and just then a man spoke up and challenged his right to vote. He was asked on what grounds he objected, and he said, "He is a thief; I caught him coming out of my smokehouse with a side of bacon on his shoulder." That created great excitement as the man was thought to be an honest man. In the excitement the man disappeared from the polls.

When I was a boy we all looked upon slavery as a divine institution. We were raised that way and everybody believed in slavery and hated abolitionists. But at Fayette one New Year's Day I first thought there was something wrong about slavery, and it was this: A Negro man, his wife and several children were put on the block and sold to pay their master's debts. The man was sold to a man near Roanoke, his wife went near New Franklin and the children went to different men. The poor Negroes cried like their hearts would break, and kid as I was then, I felt that a great wrong had been done that Negro and his family, but I did not know just how it was, and now I thank God that slavery exists no more in this free land of ours.

When I was a boy Polk was the Democratic candidate for President, and was elected. You could tell where every Democrat in the county lived, for in the summer every place owned by a Democrat had great branches of Polkberries tied to a pole, or barn or gate post and some enthusiastic Democrats even had polkberry juice rubbed on their houses. The Whigs had to hustle and they did but could not win. There was one Whig procession in Fayette in which a Negro man carried a live coon on the end of a pole. There was no secret of where a man stood then as there is with many men today, who try to "hold with the hare and run with the hounds."

When I was a boy nobody in the country had ever seen or heard of a professional evangelist. When it was decided to hold a series of meetings the pastor and officers of the church would call on a neighboring preacher to help, and the meeting would start with everybody willing to help, and those meetings often resulted in wonderful revivals where scores were converted. Why people actually belived that God converted men and women, strange as it may seem now. It is different now.

When I was a boy it was a rare thing to see anyone wearing glasses and when you did they were worn by old persons, but never do I remember seeing young men or young women wearing specs. But now it is more common to see little children wearing specs than it was to see old people wearing glasses when I was a boy. What has caused this change?

When I was a boy there was an old woman roved through the country half crazy, but harmless. When she would stop at a house she would always insist on doing the house work even to doing the washing and would never take anything for it, but strange to say she had a mania for spitting in the water bucket, or gourd before she left, so the people soon got in the habit of keeping a close watch on her.

Bloomfield Man To News Post

BLOOMFIELD -- Donald J. Brydon was appointed executive assistant of the southwest division of United Press International and joined the division headquarters at Dallas, Tex., from Tokyo where he had been general news manager for Asia since 1962. He assisted in the UPI coverage of the Gemini space flight last week.

While in Tokyo, he supervised news coverage of an area from Japan to Afghanistan, including the Vietnamese war from which he recently returned. He was in Saigon at the time of the recent coup.

Brydon will function in both business and news capacities in the nine-state area. He joined UPI at St. Louis in 1947. Prior to going to Japan in 1962, he had been regional executive in Iowa, Indiana, Wisconsin, Illinois and Michigan. He is the son of Mrs. Maud Brydon.

Privettville Fails To Be Dunklin Town

KENNETT -- An order was issued Monday by the Dunklin County Court turning down a petition filed by 19 persons asking that an area south of Holcomb be incorporated into a town called "Privettville."

The petition, filed June 4, requested the privilege of incorporating and establishing a local government for the proposed community.

County Court Judges Virgil O'Connor, R. B. King and Fred Neal, issued a statement that the petition was not found to be justifiable.

The petition grew out of a suit filed by the City of Holcomb in Dunklin County circuit court May 20, 1964, which asked the judgment of the court on the annexation of property to the city of areas about 200 feet on either side of Highway 25 south of Holcomb and Highway 53 north of the city.

Mayor Buren Napper said that the Holcomb city council, after filing the suit, decided later that some of the proposed area in the suit should not have been included and other sections, specifically eight acres south of the Holcomb School for which the owner, W. T. Raspberry, has signed an option to the city for the building of a low-rent housing development, should be added. For this reason, Napper said, the suit was dismissed on May 24, p965, until the city could draw up a new suit which would allow for changes in the boundary of the areas to be annexed.

Napper said the city plans to file a new suit soon, in spite of the opposition as evidenced by the "Privettville" group, stating the need of Holcomb to expand.

Then, Napper explained, they would wait on the circuit court to pronounce a declaratory judgment and the matter would then be taken to the citizens of Holcomb to vote on the proposition.

Jo Ellen Ledbetter

Meter Maid Appointed

CHARLESTON--Miss Jo Ellen Ledbetter, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Ledbetter, was appointed to the police force this week as assistant "meter maid."

Miss Ledbetter, a 1965 graduate of Charleston high school, started work Monday.

She will work on the meters in the morning, and work in city hall in the afternoon except when Mrs. Ledbetter, the regular patrolwoman, is not available for afternoon meter work.

Illinois Woman Charged In Death

CAIRO, Ill.--A Mound City woman was arrested by Pulaski County Sheriff Jack Gunn Wednesday on a murder warrant.

Eleanor Stovall, 57, was charged in connection with the death of her husband, who died in a house fire at Mound City the morning of March 22.

Investigation showed that the victim, Floyd Stovall, had been struck in the head with a blunt instrument prior to the fire.

Ronald Dale McAdoo

Scholar To West Point

CHARLESTON -- Ronald Dale McAdoo, grandson of Mr. and Mrs. G. D. McAdoo of Bertrand, graduated May 21 as an honor student at Bloomfield high school.

He has accepted appointment to West Point Military Academy, which he received from Congressman Paul C. Jones. Ronnie will report to West Point July 1, 1965.

During his four years of high school, Ronnie was a member of the Beta club, student council, Pep club and Lettermen's club. He was a member of the band four years and sang in the mixed chorus and boys' glee club for two years. He was president of the student council during his junior year. In March, 1965, he represented Bloomfield Beta club in the talent show in St. Louis and won first place by singing a solo.

He lettered in baseball and band for four years, basketball three years and chorus two years. As a junior he received the history and AMA mathematics awards and the physics award as a senior. His class voted him "Most Talented" and "Most Likely to Succeed."

As a senior, he was named semi-finalist and later attained the status of finalist in the 1964 - 65 National Merit Scholarship competition. As a finalist he ranked in the top half of the 99th percentile.

His parents are Mr. and Mrs. Dwight W. McAdoo of Bloomfield.

Boundary Suit Arguments Heard

CHARLESTON — Circuit Judge Marshall Craig yesterday heard arguments in the boundary change suit between the R-1 and R-2 School district, taking the case under advisement.

The arguments were heard in chambers, temporarily located in the offices of W. Clifton Banta.

The suit filed by the R-1 district, challenges the validity of petitions submitted in 1964, which called for an election to approve a change of boundaries between the two districts.

A public hearing was held and testimony taken last week.

Plan Reunion Of 1955 Class

CHARLESTON — Plans are being completed for the Aug. 7 and 8 reunion of the CHS class of 1955. All members have been contacted except Joyce Beydler and Margie Mann. If anyone knows the address of either of these people, they may contact Mrs. Charles Brink at MU 3-3733.

Pool Reserve Saves Life

POPLAR BLUFF — Bill Brannon, 20-year-old son of Mrs. Lula Brannon of 1405 Bradley, is alive today because of the rescue efforts of lifeguards at the Hillcrest Pool.

Brannon was found on the bottom of the pool in 8½ feet of water about 4:30 yesterday afternoon. Liefguard John Eastburn dived in to bring him out and immediately started mouth to mouth resuscitation. Eastburn stated that after a few breaths, Brannon coughed. Dewey Brown, and Hugh Boeving, lifeguards, and Bill Green who was swimming, joined with Eastburn to continue the reviving of Brannon and had him breathing when firemen arrived with the resuscitator.

Brannon suffered cramps in both legs when he slipped into the pool and couldn't come to the top of the water to call for help.

Youth Shoots Self In Leg

QULIN — David Hardin, 17, son of Mr. and Mrs. Delbert Hardin of route one, accidentally shot himself in the right leg with a .22 caliber pistol at 7 p.m. Wednesday.

The youth stated that he had been out shooting the pistol and that he thought he had unloaded it. He said that the hammer on the pistol slipped from under his thumb while he was putting it in the holster and the gun fired and the bullet struck him above the right knee.

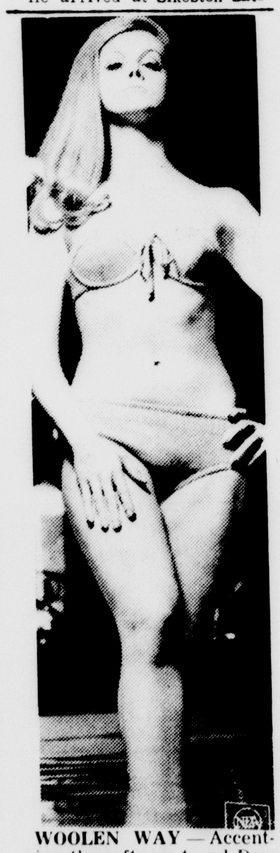

He was taken to the Poplar Bluff Hospital.

Wounded Soldier Visits in SEMO

BLOOMFIELD — Sgt. William Junior Heaton, son of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Heaton of Idalia, returned to Baltimore, Md., Thursday from Korea where he was hospitalized for a month because of injuries in Vietnam. A jeep in which he was riding ran into a mine which exploded.

He arrived at Sikeston Saturday to be with his wife and five children who are living there. He visited his parents Sunday.

Heaton, who has been with the Army for ten years, will report back to duty June 30.

WOOLEN WAY — Accenting the softness trend Darlene of New York has come up with this bikini for fun in the sun comfort. Departing abruptly from the recent trend to nylons and similar fibers, this year's line is in Angora wool.

THE CITY OF SIKESTON, MISSOURI
Resolution

A resolution declaring the necessity for the construction of 1 1/2 inch hotmix asphaltic pavement on 6 inch soil cement base on Indiana Street from Missouri Avenue to Broadway in the City of Sikeston, Missouri; stating the nature of the improvement; the estimated cost and providing that payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills levied and assessed against the abutting property. Be it resolved by the Council of the City of Sikeston, State of Missouri, as follows: Section 1: That the Council of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, deems and declares the construction of said Street necessary to the welfare and improvement of the City of Sikeston. Section 2: That the nature and scope of the improvements shall consist of furnishing all costs, including labor, materials and transportation necessary for the complete construction of the improvement. Section 3: That the estimated cost of the improvement is $2.60 per lineal foot of abutting property, to be charged against the lots and tracts of land abutting the improvement. Section 4: That payment for all of the improvement shall be made by special tax bills evidencing special assessments against the abutting property in the manner specified by the statutes of the State of Missouri and the ordinances of the City of Sikeston, Missouri, because in the opinion of the City Council the General Revenue fund of the City of Sikeston is not in a condition to warrant an expenditure therefrom to pay for the improvement. Section 5: That any work performed on construction of the improvement shall be in compliance with the provisions of the prevailing wage laws of the State of Missouri, such prevailing wage rates having been established by the Industrial Commission of Missouri. Section 6: That the City Clerk is hereby authorized and directed to furnish a copy of this Resolution to a daily newspaper of general circulation in the City of Sikeston, so that it shall be published for seven consecutive insertions. Read the first, second and third times and passed and approved this 7th day of June, 1965. Approved: Kendall Sikes, Mayor; Attest: John W. Vaughn, City Clerk. 218 inc 224

Mrs. Herbert Boardman entertained Monday afternoon with a birthday party in honor of her daughter, Dorothy Lee, who that day celebrated her 11th birth anniversary. Those who were present to enjoy the affair were: Betty Jo Gross, Coretta Coomer, Virginia Boardman, Zoletta and Imogene Boardman, Mary Ovedia Boardman, Burdeen Comstock, and Maxine Pratt.

Playing exceptionally well, Sikeston's golfers Sunday defeated Kennett 38 to 18 in their fifth game of the Southeast Missouri golf league tournament, left incomplete the week before because of rain. Orville Lumsden was low scorer with 66, 33 for each nine holes, and Hester Alexander was only one point behind with 67 for the game. George Kirk was third with 73 points.

Miss Gayle Collins has accepted the position in Dr. G. W. Presnell's office recently vacated by Mrs. Shelbourne Brewer.

Quench not the Spirit. (I Thessalonians 5:19)

PRAYER: O Holy Spirit, descend upon us and guide us to make the right decisions. Close the doors when they lead to the wrong ways. Show us the way to go that will make our lives useful for Thee. In Jesus' name we ask these things. Amen.

Tahl Joins FBI's Most Wanted List

WASHINGTON-William Albert Autur Tahl, alleged violent murderer who is charged with a double gunshot slaying in San Diego, Calif. and a knife murder in Dallas, Tex., has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Reportedly armed with a .22 caliber rifle and known to usually carry a large, sharp fisherman's knife, Tahl is additionally sought for rape, attempted robbery and grand theft of an automobile and has reportedly stated he will not be captured alive.

A violent crime rampage began about 4 a.m. on April 1, 1965, when Tahl allegedly shot a man and wife at a San Diego yacht club during an attempted robbery. The elderly couple, caretakers of the yacht club where Tahl also was employed, subsequently died of shotgun wounds in the abdomen, inflicted at close range.

Shortly after the shootings, Tahl allegedly raped an 18-year-old San Diego woman, after threatening to kill her and her two-year-old child with his knife. He thereafter reportedly stole an automobile in San Diego and fled from the State of California.

Investigation traced Tahl to Dallas, Texas, where he obtained temporary factory work until April 26th when he abruptly departed. On that same date, the dead body of a Navy deserter, with whom Tahl lived in Dallas, was found in their shared room with a stab wound in the heart.

A Federal warrant, issued at San Diego, California, on April 28, 1965, charges Tahl with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder, rape, attempted robbery and grand theft of an automobile. In addition, a local warrant was issued at Dallas, Texas, on April 28, 1965, charging him with the murder of his roommate.

Tahl has a reputation of being a highly accomplished auto thief who will steal a car at the slightest provocation. He was convicted of auto theft in Ohio in 1958 and served a 1- to 20-year sentence at the Ohio State Reformatory in Mansfield. He was paroled in May, 1959, and subsequently charged with parole violation on several occasions.

In 1956, Tahl was given a bad conduct discharge from the United States Navy after nine months' service.

Tahl, noted for his assaultive nature, especially when intoxicated, is said to display great hostility towards women, to be constantly attempting to seduce young girls and to also have strong homosexual tendencies. He has allegedly threatened violence against a man in Cleveland, Ohio, and was described shortly after the San Diego shootings as acting and talking "like a crazy man."

Tahl is a white American who was reportedly born on July 1, 1938, in Alaska. He is 5' 11" to 6' tall, weighs 170 to 175 pounds, has a medium build, dark complexion, brown eyes and black hair. He has a vaccination scar on his left arm, a scar on his left index finger, one on his right little finger and another scar on the upper portion of his right arm. He has a birthmark on the left side of his abdomen and a tattoo of the name "Art" on his left forearm. Tattooed on the left side of his chest is a flying eyeball, and a snake's head with wings is tattooed on the upper part of his right arm.

He has worked as a laborer, maintenance man and plumber's helper and reportedly likes to work near boating areas. He is known to frequently change jobs.

He has been described as a neat dresser who enjoys watching television, drinks beer and whisky heavily, smokes cigarettes and likes to eat, being particularly fond of Mexican dishes and sea food. Tahl is reportedly allergic to tomatoes which cause him to break out in a rash. He is said to enjoy swimming and skin diving and to be a very fast runner.

In view of the violent crimes charged against him and the possibility that he is armed with a .22 caliber rifle and sharp fisherman's knife, he should be considered extremely dangerous.

Any person having information concerning the whereabouts of Tahl is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

Earliest Subway

World's first subway system was proposed for London, England, in 1843. Work, which began in 1860, was finished in 1863, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was very disappointed that a sophisticated dame like you would fall for that tear-jerker. I refer to the letter from the kid who wrote about his dog who was hit by a car and left in the street to die.

I'm with the driver. If I hit a mutt I would not ruin the inside of my car taking him to an animal hospital. And I wouldn't stop and try to cheer up the kid either.

People should know that most dogs are stupid and no match for modern traffic. Folks who love a dog will not allow him to run loose. In many cities there is a law against it, but people ignore the law -- and now and then a dog gets hit. If the dog means so little to the family that they don't keep him on a leash they deserve whatever they get. NO PATSY.

Dear No: I agree that dogs should not be allowed to run loose, but that was not the question.

A driver who hits a dog should stop and do whatever he can to alleviate the animal's suffering. The dog is not to blame if a careless master allows him to run unleashed. You are my candidate for The Meanest Man In Town Award.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 20 years old (Boy) and have a driver's license but nothing to drive. For three years I have been asking my folks for a car. They say, "Go out and earn it." It is hard to get a job when you don't have a car.

I've had six jobs since I dropped out of high school. None of them lasted very long. One of the problems is I can't get to work on time. If I had a car the problem would be solved.

When I am working I give my folks $15 a week room and board. Now they don't get anything. So you see it would be better for them if they bought me a car, too.

It isn't as if they can't afford it. Both my parents are working and together they make $8,000 a year. I am not asking for a Rolls Royce. Any make will do. Please give me a hand. NEED WHEELS

Dear Wheels: A kid who can't get to work on time on public transportation is not likely to do better if he has his own car. He'd probably do worse.

My advice: Forget about a car and concentrate on a high school diploma. Either go back to school or take night courses. Drop-outs are a problem to society, to their families and to themselves. Right now you need education -- not wheels.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married nearly 20 years. We are in our middle 40's. We moved to this city seven months ago and like it very much.

My husband's mother wrote us several weeks ago that a third cousin of my husband lives in this city and she would like to see us. The woman was divorced several years ago and my husband remembers her as a "beautiful blonde." He hasn't seen her in 22 years.

Now my husband is nagging me to invite this woman to dinner. I keep making up excuses. The truth is if she has any looks left, and if she behaves like most divorcees, it could mean trouble.

Am I right or wrong? Mrs. XXX

Dear Mrs. : Wrong. If Cuz had ulterior motives she would have called your husband at his place of business. She would not have written to his mother.

Invite her to dinner and fast. Be relaxed and friendly. Your reluctance may give your husband ideas he never had before.

Looking Back Over The Years

50 years ago
June 11, 1915

Ezra Allard and Dave Duckworth, former citizens of Sikeston, have purchased an $8,000 stock of merchandise at Littleton, Colo., a suburb of Denver.

40 years ago
June 11, 1925

Mrs. J. H. Kready and Miss Katherine Clark left Sunday for St. Charles to attend Lindenwood College graduation. Miss Helen Kready is among the graduates.

Although the new hotel building being erected on Kingshighway by Jno. I. Miller of Illmo, is to be two stories high for the present, an adequate foundation for three or four stories is being laid.

L. C. Leslie, who for more than 15 years had efficiently and successfully filled the position of cashier of the Scott County Bank at Morley, last week handed his resignation to the board of directors, which was accepted and L. L. Hunter was selected to fill the vacancy caused by Mr. Leslie's action in this matter.

Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Black, Miss Francoise Black and Spencer Black left Monday morning for St. Charles, where they will attend commencement at Lindenwood College. Miss Hilma Black will return with them.

Mrs. Herbert Boardman entertained Monday afternoon with a birthday party in honor of her daughter, Dorothy Lee, who that day celebrated her 11th birth anniversary. Those who were present to enjoy the affair were: Betty Jo Gross, Coretta Coomer, Virginia Boardman, Zoletta and Imogene Boardman, Mary Ovedia Boardman, Burdeen Comstock, and Maxine Pratt.

Playing exceptionally well, Sikeston's golfers Sunday defeated Kennett 38 to 18 in their fifth game of the Southeast Missouri golf league tournament, left incomplete the week before because of rain. Orville Lumsden was low scorer with 66, 33 for each nine holes, and Hester Alexander was only one point behind with 67 for the game. George Kirk was third with 73 points.

Miss Gayle Collins has accepted the position in Dr. G. W. Presnell's office recently vacated by Mrs. Shelbourne Brewer.

For Today From The Upper Room

FRIDAY, JUNE 11, 1965
Quench not the Spirit. (I Thessalonians 5:19)

PRAYER: O Holy Spirit, descend upon us and guide us to make the right decisions. Close the doors when they lead to the wrong ways. Show us the way to go that will make our lives useful for Thee. In Jesus' name we ask these things. Amen.

Tahl Joins FBI's Most Wanted List

WASHINGTON-William Albert Autur Tahl, alleged violent murderer who is charged with a double gunshot slaying in San Diego, Calif. and a knife murder in Dallas, Tex., has been added to the FBI's list of "Ten Most Wanted Fugitives."

Reportedly armed with a .22 caliber rifle and known to usually carry a large, sharp fisherman's knife, Tahl is additionally sought for rape, attempted robbery and grand theft of an automobile and has reportedly stated he will not be captured alive.

A violent crime rampage began about 4 a.m. on April 1, 1965, when Tahl allegedly shot a man and wife at a San Diego yacht club during an attempted robbery. The elderly couple, caretakers of the yacht club where Tahl also was employed, subsequently died of shotgun wounds in the abdomen, inflicted at close range.

Shortly after the shootings, Tahl allegedly raped an 18-year-old San Diego woman, after threatening to kill her and her two-year-old child with his knife. He thereafter reportedly stole an automobile in San Diego and fled from the State of California.

Investigation traced Tahl to Dallas, Texas, where he obtained temporary factory work until April 26th when he abruptly departed. On that same date, the dead body of a Navy deserter, with whom Tahl lived in Dallas, was found in their shared room with a stab wound in the heart.

A Federal warrant, issued at San Diego, California, on April 28, 1965, charges Tahl with unlawful interstate flight to avoid prosecution for murder, rape, attempted robbery and grand theft of an automobile. In addition, a local warrant was issued at Dallas, Texas, on April 28, 1965, charging him with the murder of his roommate.

Tahl has a reputation of being a highly accomplished auto thief who will steal a car at the slightest provocation. He was convicted of auto theft in Ohio in 1958 and served a 1- to 20-year sentence at the Ohio State Reformatory in Mansfield. He was paroled in May, 1959, and subsequently charged with parole violation on several occasions.

In 1956, Tahl was given a bad conduct discharge from the United States Navy after nine months' service.

Tahl, noted for his assaultive nature, especially when intoxicated, is said to display great hostility towards women, to be constantly attempting to seduce young girls and to also have strong homosexual tendencies. He has allegedly threatened violence against a man in Cleveland, Ohio, and was described shortly after the San Diego shootings as acting and talking "like a crazy man."

Tahl is a white American who was reportedly born on July 1, 1938, in Alaska. He is 5' 11" to 6' tall, weighs 170 to 175 pounds, has a medium build, dark complexion, brown eyes and black hair. He has a vaccination scar on his left arm, a scar on his left index finger, one on his right little finger and another scar on the upper portion of his right arm. He has a birthmark on the left side of his abdomen and a tattoo of the name "Art" on his left forearm. Tattooed on the left side of his chest is a flying eyeball, and a snake's head with wings is tattooed on the upper part of his right arm.

He has worked as a laborer, maintenance man and plumber's helper and reportedly likes to work near boating areas. He is known to frequently change jobs.

He has been described as a neat dresser who enjoys watching television, drinks beer and whisky heavily, smokes cigarettes and likes to eat, being particularly fond of Mexican dishes and sea food. Tahl is reportedly allergic to tomatoes which cause him to break out in a rash. He is said to enjoy swimming and skin diving and to be a very fast runner.

In view of the violent crimes charged against him and the possibility that he is armed with a .22 caliber rifle and sharp fisherman's knife, he should be considered extremely dangerous.

Any person having information concerning the whereabouts of Tahl is requested to immediately notify the nearest office of the FBI, the telephone number of which may be located on the first page of local telephone directories.

Earliest Subway

World's first subway system was proposed for London, England, in 1843. Work, which began in 1860, was finished in 1863, according to the Encyclopaedia Britannica.

ANN LANDERS
Answers Your Problems

Dear Ann Landers: I was very disappointed that a sophisticated dame like you would fall for that tear-jerker. I refer to the letter from the kid who wrote about his dog who was hit by a car and left in the street to die.

I'm with the driver. If I hit a mutt I would not ruin the inside of my car taking him to an animal hospital. And I wouldn't stop and try to cheer up the kid either.

People should know that most dogs are stupid and no match for modern traffic. Folks who love a dog will not allow him to run loose. In many cities there is a law against it, but people ignore the law -- and now and then a dog gets hit. If the dog means so little to the family that they don't keep him on a leash they deserve whatever they get. NO PATSY.

Dear No: I agree that dogs should not be allowed to run loose, but that was not the question.

A driver who hits a dog should stop and do whatever he can to alleviate the animal's suffering. The dog is not to blame if a careless master allows him to run unleashed. You are my candidate for The Meanest Man In Town Award.

Dear Ann Landers: I am 20 years old (Boy) and have a driver's license but nothing to drive. For three years I have been asking my folks for a car. They say, "Go out and earn it." It is hard to get a job when you don't have a car.

I've had six jobs since I dropped out of high school. None of them lasted very long. One of the problems is I can't get to work on time. If I had a car the problem would be solved.

When I am working I give my folks $15 a week room and board. Now they don't get anything. So you see it would be better for them if they bought me a car, too.

It isn't as if they can't afford it. Both my parents are working and together they make $8,000 a year. I am not asking for a Rolls Royce. Any make will do. Please give me a hand. NEED WHEELS

Dear Wheels: A kid who can't get to work on time on public transportation is not likely to do better if he has his own car. He'd probably do worse.

My advice: Forget about a car and concentrate on a high school diploma. Either go back to school or take night courses. Drop-outs are a problem to society, to their families and to themselves. Right now you need education -- not wheels.

Dear Ann Landers: My husband and I have been married nearly 20 years. We are in our middle 40's. We moved to this city seven months ago and like it very much.

My husband's mother wrote us several weeks ago that a third cousin of my husband lives in this city and she would like to see us. The woman was divorced several years ago and my husband remembers her as a "beautiful blonde." He hasn't seen her in 22 years.

Now my husband is nagging me to invite this woman to dinner. I keep making up excuses. The truth is if she has any looks left, and if she behaves like most divorcees, it could mean trouble.

Am I right or wrong? Mrs. XXX

Dear Mrs. : Wrong. If Cuz had ulterior motives she would have called your husband at his place of business. She would not have written to his mother.

Invite her to dinner and fast. Be relaxed and friendly. Your reluctance may give your husband ideas he never had before.

"The Bride's Guide," Ann Landers' booklet, gives authoritative and complete information on how to plan a wedding. To receive your copy of this comprehensive guide, write to Ann Landers, in care of this newspaper, enclosing a long, self - addressed, stamped envelope and 35¢ in coin.

Today In U. S. History

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1776, Congress appointed a committee to draft a Declaration of Independence. The committee included Franklin and John Adams.

On this date

In 1859, the Comstock Load was discovered in Nevada.

In 1936, a new Soviet constitution was submitted to the people of the Soviet Union.

In 1942, an announcement was made of a lend-lease agreement between Russia and the United States.

In 1945, the Senate voted to continue the Office of Price Administration for another year.

Ten years ago - The Atomic Energy Commission reported that the hydrogen bomb could be constructed in almost unlimited size from the cheapest atomic explosives.

Five years ago - White House news secretary James Hagerty went to Tokyo to arrange the details of a visit by President Dwight D. Eisenhower.

One year ago - the State Department announced that reconnaissance flights over Laos would continue "as necessary," with the consent of Premier Souvanna Phouma.

Civic Center Urged For Poplar Bluff

POPLAR BLUFF -- The possibility of locating a civic center on the site of the present city hall was advanced by Mayor J. C. Allen at a Chamber of Commerce luncheon.

Mayor Allen cited the need for such a center in drawing to Poplar Bluff district and regional conventions of various organizations as well as meetings for local clubs and other groups. Such a center, he added, has long been needed.

The mayor said he felt the proposed location was an excellent one as it afforded a central location to the business district.

To make way for such an undertaking, the city hall would have to be moved.

Three Arrested In Stolen Car

MALDEN — Alton Thomas Barnett, 18, William Robert Reando, 17, a 16-year-old girl of St. Louis, and a 16-year-old boy of Wortham, were apprehended in a stolen car at approximately 2 p.m. Wednesday near Malden by Trooper Melvin E. Moyers of the State Highway Patrol.

The 16-year-old youth escaped while they were being taken to the Stoddard County jail at Bloomfield.

He is described as five feet, seven inches, 125 pounds, blue eyes and long bushy brown hair. He was wearing a black knit short sleeve pullover shirt and dark trousers.

At the time of their arrests, they were riding in a 1954 Ford coach which had been stolen earlier from D.L. Cox of Dudley. Reando has admitted the theft of the Ford, authorities said.

The 16-year-old girl told authorities that she was Barnett's wife.

Highway Patrol officers reported that the youths have admitted stealing a 1952 Chevrolet at Irondale, and have also admitted selling the car at a service station near Greenville.

"There are a million and one remedies today, but so far as I can see, there are only four medicines in the world--quinine, calomel, opium, and iron. They are the "mothers of all medicines." He always carried quinine with him.

"Quinine, he said, because of the prevalence of malaria in the swamp land, was as staple as sugar or salt. I don't suppose there was a dinner table in all Southeast Missouri that didn't have its bottle of quinine on it right along with the salt."

Besides practicing medicine, Dr. Kendall was in the grain business, and on March 30, 1878, he purchased the Jasper Trotter farm between Trotter Street and Murray Lane on the west side of Kingshighway.

He was never known to charge a widow or an orphan for his services. He never refused to make a call even if he had to go for miles on foot.

Dr. Kendall died May 3, 1928.

KAISER ALUMINUM & CHEMICAL SALES, INC. (Kaiser) guarantees that the Kaiser Aluminum House Siding and Accessories with KAL SHIELD® baked enamel finish installed on the property described and owned as set forth on the reverse side hereof WILL NOT RUST, PEEL, BLISTER, FLAKE, CHIP OR SPLIT under conditions of normal weathering for a period of twenty (20) years (guarantee period) from the date of installation shown on the reverse side hereof, subject to the following terms and conditions.

1. This guarantee does not cover damage of any kind resulting from faulty installation, fire, lightning, hailstorm, ice storm, windstorm, earthquake, Acts of God, harmful chemicals, fumes or vapors, misuse, abuse, normal weathering of surfaces resulting in conditions not guaranteed against herein, or other causes beyond the control of Kaiser.

2. Any claim hereunder must be promptly presented in writing to Kaiser within the guarantee period and must be accompanied by this document or reference to its date of issue, registration number, Owner's name, and the address or other description of the real property on which the installation was made, if after inspection, Kaiser determines that Owner's claim is valid under this guarantee,

(a) within one (1) year after installation, Kaiser will furnish all materials and labor necessary to repair or replace, at Kaiser's option, the House Siding and Accessories covered herein, at no cost to Owner;

(b) for the succeeding nineteen (19) years, Kaiser will furnish all materials and labor necessary to repair, or replace, at Kaiser's option, the House Siding and Accessories covered here, at a cost to Owner of 5% of the then-current retail price of such materials and labor for each year or part thereof after the first year.

3. This guarantee is valid only if genuine Kaiser Aluminum House Siding and Accessories were used exclusively in the installation described on the reverse side hereof. Owner agrees that Kaiser shall not be liable for any incidental, special or consequential damages caused by any defects in the Kaiser Aluminum House Siding and Accessories, and Owner's EXCLUSIVE REMEDY for any defects therein or any damages caused thereby shall be limited to repair or replacement by Kaiser as provided herein. Owner and Kaiser expressly agree that this guarantee states Kaiser's complete liability and that there are no other guarantees, express or implied.

4. This guarantee is valid only if a Kaiser Aluminum House Siding and Accessories Twenty Year Guarantee registration form is completed and mailed to Kaiser within thirty (30) days after installation.

5. This guarantee may be transferred with the property, and a Replacement Guarantee will be issued to the transferee if the transfer certificate is completed and mailed to Kaiser within thirty (30) days after such transfer. Such Replacement Guarantee shall be subject to the above terms and conditions, and shall be valid for the unexpired portion of the guarantee period.
